NEW SENATE ORGANIZED

Republicans in Full Control

Program Carried Out With Slight Opposition from Democrats

Elected Members Back Majority Slate; Moses President Pro-tem

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Republicans, commanding a working majority in the Senate for the first time in two years, proceeded today to reorganize that body with precision and dispatch. Offices were given the support of all but four Senators, they declined from their councils to be only nominal opposition to Democrats, who in a few hours earlier in the day demonstrated employment of any effective tactics.

Formal action on the assignment of Senators to the standing committees went over until tomorrow, although an agreement between Republicans and Democrats, it was said, had been reached giving an extra place on each committee so that the Republican can be appointed to the places made vacant by removal of the insurgents from important committee rank. Opposition to the enlargement of committees was voiced by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, who said there is a prospect that the defections of the majority organization would leave Senators La Follette and Ladd of North Dakota off from their committees and Senators Frazier and Brookhart from their rank, will become the chairmen of some debate.

ACTION CERTAIN

Administration leaders say and opposition agree that the program will go through, since the Democrats have no desire that the chairmanship become the subject of debate in the Senate as in the years when a Democrat of North Carolina was made chairman of the powerful Interstate Commerce Committee.

Organizing the Senate, the Republican elected Senator Moses of New Hampshire president pro-tempore, Senator Cummins of Iowa was not a candidate. Senator Curtis was re-elected secretary and David S. Barry sergeant-at-arms.

When Senator Moses's name was presented, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, moved to substitute the name of Senator Pittman of Nevada but the motion was rejected, 36 to 50.

Six-State Plan Essential

Governor Receives Telegram Asking State to Pass on Issue at Once

Says Whole Program Will be Abandoned if Present Agreement Fails

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Gov. Richardson today filed with the Legislature a telegram from Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, Washington, D. C., advising him that if California does not ratify the Six-States Colorado River Compact on present lines the whole compact will need to be abandoned. Hoover states in his message that it is his understanding that the five other States Nevada, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah and Colorado, will not accept any reservations in ratification of the compact "because the upper States do not care how much storage is built in the lower basin if their rights are protected."

Assemblymen A. C. Finney of Brawley, Isaac Jones of San Bernardino and A. C. Murray of Riverside yesterday introduced a resolution providing for ratification of the compact on the lines already approved by Colorado and Wyoming.

The telegram from Secretary Hoover is as follows:

"Any reservation placed upon the renewed ratification of the compact will automatically necessitate the acceptance or acquiescence of all other five States now in process of ratification on the new form. It is my understanding that they will not accept any reservations because the upper States do not care how much storage is built in the lower basin if their water rights are protected. I am advised that they will not consent to make the security of their rights dependent upon some hypothetical action of the Federal government in construction of engineering works which they cannot control. I am advised that the feeling of many people in the States is that they have already sacrificed more of what they consider their rights to the lower basin than is justified and are not disposed to continue longer unless the settlement can be reached.

"I am convinced that unless we can secure ratification on present lines the whole compact will need to be abandoned and we will have another setback for five years in the development of the river and no development will take place until the water rights in the Northern States can be settled. The long years of failure already behind us in the development of this river

HALF-INCH OF RAIN FALLS

Heavy Snow in Mountains

Unsettled Weather, Probable Showers Prediction for Today

Downfall General Throughout Southland; Continues Into Night

The rainfall in Los Angeles resulted in a fall of .44 of an inch up to 8 o'clock last night, chrystalized into snow in the mountains and at a late hour last night word from Big Bear, Lake Arrowhead and other resorts reported the heaviest snowfall of the season.

The fall yesterday of .44 of an inch made the season's total in Los Angeles 4.04 inches, as against 3.06 inches last year, according to officials figures announced by Col. H. B. Hersey, while dispatches from San Bernardino, La Habra and other surrounding points rated the rainfall yesterday and last night as the heaviest of the season.

In his official forecast last night, Col. Hersey stated the weather today will continue cool and unsettled with probable showers.

Yesterday's rainfall was general and all points west and south reported a heavy fall which continued in many places throughout the night.

Ranchers in the vicinity of San Diego reported last night what they declared to be the heaviest rainfall of the season as did Riverside and San Bernardino.

Mt. Wilson reported a snowfall of five inches early last night with a promise of even more before morning. After an inch of rainfall, Lake Arrowhead reported two inches of snow, while the snowfall throughout the Big Bear Valley was reported to be heavy.

At Squirrel Inn on the crest of the San Bernardino Mountains, three inches of rainfall was reported at 9 o'clock last night.

Reports from Victorville, in the desert, indicated a generous rainfall also.

At Huntington Lake in the Big Creek district, rain which started yesterday afternoon and continued late at night, at times turned to snow.

In the Kern River district, the rain turned to snow early and continued intermittently throughout the night.

At Upland and Ontario the storm resulted in a fall reported to be more than .50 of an inch.

Reports from Fullerton also placed the rainfall at 6 o'clock at more than .50 of an inch with the fall continuing steadily.

The government rain guage on the Kelly ranch near Sanberg on the Ridge Route early yesterday evening recorded .67 of an inch of rain. The Kelly ranch is located at the head of the Castiac Canyon.

A reading of 29.70 on the barometer at Santa Barbara was reported with the coming of the rain at noon. That is the lowest point recorded there this season.

Rain reports received from J. W. Reagan, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, giving the amount of rain which has fallen and other weather conditions for the twenty-four hours up to 4 p.m. yesterday follow:

Indian Springs, Little Tujunga—.06 of an inch; still raining and rather cold.

Justice Camp, Big Tujunga—.51 of an inch; cold and raining hard.

Hansen's Camp, Big Tujunga—.21 of an inch.

Loomis Camp, Big Tujunga—.10 of an inch; temperature 36 degrees.

Switzer's Camp, Arroyo Seco—.31 of an inch; temperature 40 degrees.

Camp Oakwylde, Arroyo Seco—Drizzling all day and raining hard at 4 p.m.; windy.

Sturtevant Camp, Big Santa Anita, Two miles above camp—Hail, rain and snow all afternoon.

ANTIAIRCRAFT DEFENSES PROVE FAILURE IN TESTS

Guns Fail to Score Single Hit on Flying Targets; Lights Unable to Locate Planes

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FORTRESS MONROE (Va.) March 6.—Officers of the antiaircraft defenses here admitted defeat tonight in tests participated in by Langley Field aviators to demonstrate the effectiveness of their weapons. The demonstration was arranged by the War Department as an outgrowth of the recent air-power controversy at Washington, witnesses having told the House aircraft investigating committee that antiaircraft guns had given aviators during the war little cause for apprehension.

The tests were witnessed by members of Congress and high army and navy officials and officers, including Brig.-Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of the Army Air Service, whose open and vigorous disagreement with aviation policies of the two departments gave rise to the recent controversy.

During the tests today antiaircraft three-inch guns failed to score a single actual hit on sleeve targets towed by army airplanes and tonight antiaircraft illumination devices failed to pick up any of the aircraft flying in the darkness overhead until the machines had revealed their positions by dropping burning flares.

Officers of the antiaircraft defenses conceded frankly that the airplanes all were within range of the searchlights when finally picked out by the lights and also that the targets were within range of the three-inch guns when the firing test took place.

In the night problem, five powerful searchlights were switched on at full power, sufficient to send a beam of light 19,000 feet into the air but were unable to find the aircraft as they flew at ranges less than half that distance.

In the day firing, the gunners were handicapped by high wind and other factors and the Air Service officers were equally frank in admitting their advantage in these respects. Only two guns were fired as a battery because the personnel was insufficient in number to man more, while the ammunition used was that manufactured during the war and the fuses were erratic.

During the gunnery tests, which were held at Grandview near by, air officers said tonight, an airplane flying at an altitude of 6000 feet released a glider which was to have been used for target purposes by the guns. The wind took the glider off to sea, however, and observers never saw it, not even learning that it had been swept away until they had waited half an hour for a machine to deliver it as a target.

FECHET GETS AIR POST

Chosen in Place of Mitchell

Assignment by Secretary Weeks Awaits Approval of President

"Good Man," Says Present Head of Air Forces; to Continue Fight

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Brig.-Gen. William Mitchell, center of the recent controversy over air power, will be succeeded as assistant chief of the Army Air Service by Lieut.-Col. James E. Fechet on April 27, when his term of office expires.

The assignment, announced today and bearing out expectations that such a change would be effected carries with the rank of brigadier-general and Gen. Mitchell will revert to his own rank as colonel after that date.

Commenting on the appointment at Norfolk, Va., where he had gone to witness an antiaircraf gun demonstration near Fortress Monroe, arranged by the War Department, as an outgrowth of the aircraft controversy, Gen. Mitchell asserted:

MITCHELL'S STATEMENT

He is a good man; I shall abide by the department's orders.

Immediately after the nomination had been announced earlier in the day, Gen. Mitchell's office here had made public a statement he had prepared in advance, reiterating his position with respect to uniform control of the government's air services and other points on which he has been in open disagreement with his superiors.

The War Secretary's statement announcing that he had recommended Lieut.-Co' Fechet for the appointment to the President, which was regarded as practically the same thing as an actual order of assignment although Senate confirmation is required, made no other comment regarding the change beyond saying that Gen. Mitchell's future assignment had not been determined.

Lieut.-Col. Fechet, like Gen. Mitchell, rose from the ranks. He served many years in the cavalry before he was transferred to the aviation service of the signal corps in 1917 after the outbreak of the World War, when he became a qualified pilot. He is now in command of the air service advance flying school, Kelly Field, Texas.

TO CONTINUE FIGHT

He has not indicated his opinions in regard to the controversy over the proposal for a unified air force, distinct from both Army and Navy, which Gen. Mitchell championed vigorously both in published articles and during his recent frequent appearances before the special House Aircraft Committee. In the statement issued at Gen. Mitchell's office here, Gen. Mitchell said he would continue his campaign for a unified air force. The ques-

The boys were slain presumably by a Mexican who was driving the wagon with them, advices stated.

Gloria in Hotel at Versailles to Recuperate

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 6.—Gloria Swanson, American film star, late today left the clinic at Auteuil, where she underwent an operation for acute peritonitis two weeks ago.

With her husband, the Marquis de la Coudray, she went to a hotel in Versailles for a period of convalescence.

FILM SALARY WAR RAGING

Retrenchment Vows of 1923 Forgotten as Producers Bid High to Obtain Box-Office Stars

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 6.—The motion-picture salary war has broken out anew. Producers foresee a crisis like the one experienced during the latter part of 1923, when practically all the studios in the country were compelled to establish policies of stringent retrenchment.

It is now charged that many of the salary cuts which the producers resolved to make in 1923 have not been effected, and that the cost of making films has crept up to new heights, more perilous than before.

The film magnates are again pitting their resources against one another in a struggle to obtain the services of stars who have strong box-office value. Gloria Swanson has already been offered contracts by Warner Brothers, Producers' Distributing Corporation and other film producers, calling for salaries many thousand dollars in excess of her present agreement with Famous Players-Lasky, under which Miss Swanson is receiving a sum approximating $7000 a week.

Rival motion-picture concerns have also made overtures to Thomas Meighan, now contracted to Famous-Players-Lasky at approximately $6000 weekly, offering the famous star inducements approaching $10,000 a week. In the struggle to corral the big names in the pictures, Warner Brothers have already signed under long-term contracts such valuable box-office attractions as Patsy Ruth Miller, Lowell Sherman, Kenneth Harlan and Matt Moore at figures considerably higher than these players have received in the past.

An official of this company is authority for the report that the Warners are prepared to spend unlimited sums in the accumulation of certain important players now affiliated with other organizations.

Since the amalgamation of Metro Pictures, Goldwyn, Inc., and Louis B. Mayer last summer, the recent signing of D. W. Griffith by Famous Players-Lasky and the breach between Cecil B. De Mille and the last named producing company, the signs have pointed to fresh hostilities among the larger producers of motion pictures.

It is understood also that a premonition of the gathering storm clouds in filmdom was one of the results of the recent withdrawal of Vitagraph Company of America from the ranks of the Motion Picture Producers' and Distributors' Association, otherwise known as the Will Hays organization, which is composed of many of the leading film manufacturers and distributors in the industry.

It is these very leaders in the business, organized as they are, who are embroiled in the new fight to contract the "big names" of the studios. In the meantime the stars are chuckling in their dressing-rooms while their salaries double and treble as the moguls bid.

HERB BILL MEN CLEARED

Committee Finds Charges of Attempted Bribery Are Unfounded; Clerks are Censured

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Exonerating Assemblyman Edward Smith of Oakland and "severely condemning" Arthur H. Ohnimus, chief clerk of the Assembly, and Charles Wilkinson, sergeant-at-arms of the lower house, the Graves committee named to investigate the charges of Chinese that bribery and extortion in sums of $5000 to $10,000 were attempted in connection with Smith's bill to regulate Chinese herb doctors, today filed its report with the Assembly. The report will be acted on next Monday morning.

The inquiry committee, which consisted of Sidney Graves of Los Angeles, chairman; Isaac Jones, San Bernardino; T. M. Wright, San Jose; Frank Coombs, Napa, and George C. Cleveland, Watsonville also cleared J. E. Hood of Oakland, attorney for the State Board of Pharmacy, whose name was brought into the scandal; mildly criticised William Brackett of Oakland, former Assemblyman, who wanted $10,000 to lobby against the bill, but virtually ignored Senator Edgar Hurley of Oakland, who also was involved in the herb scandal by the Chinese. Hurley's name was only mentioned in the report incident to relating certain testimony given by witnesses.

Members of the San Francisco delegation held a caucus after the report had been read and expressed the belief that Ohnimus and Wilkinson, who hail from San Francisco, were too severely scored. They are determined to make an effort on Monday to have the report of the committee modified. However, any such move will be countered by a group who are ready to demand that Ohnimus and Wilkinson be suspended. The members of the committee believe the matter should end with the adoption of the report as presented.

In its conclusions as to Ohnimus and Wilkinson, the committee declared:

"The two officers of the House involved are deserving of the severest condemnation for their conduct and it is immaterial whether that conduct reached into a zone of corruption, or whether it is indulged in out of a disregard of the very highest ideals which should actuate their conduct. This committee, as solemnly as language can impart and as severely as judgment is capable, condemns the two officers of the House in their conduct in the matter, whatever their motives have been."

According to the testimony Ohnimus called at the home of Assemblyman Smith in Oakland on the morning of February 12, last, after driving from Sacramento in company with Wilkinson, and told Smith there was $5000 in it for him if he dropped his herb bill. Wilkinson, according to testimony, aided local Chinese in their efforts to have the bill killed and employed two Assembly stenographers during the recess to write letters for the Chinese to Assemblymen urging them to vote against the Smith bill. Ohnimus insisted his reference to the $5000 was merely said in jest.

The salient features of the report are as follows:

"The committee has exhausted

PARACHUTES SAVE PILOTS IN AIR CRASH

Two Flyers Reach Earth Unharmed After Collision of Planes at Texas Field

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN ANTONIO, March 6.—For the first time in the history of aviation, according to local Army aviators, parachutes today saved the lives of two flyers who crashed in midair. The pilots were Lieut. C. D. McAllister and Cadet Charles A. Lindberg, students of the advanced flying school at Kelly Field.

The two student pilots were flying in a nine-ship formation at the time of the accident.

The pursuit formation was gaining battle experience by attacking a DH-4B observation plane flown by First Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, several hundred feet above the clouds at an altitude of 5000 feet.

The pursuit flyers came down from above in diving attack, three ships attacking in V-shaped formation. The first and second formations had pulled away and the third formation with Cadet P. R. Love in the lead dived for the attack.

As Cadet Love pulled away from the slower observation ship, Cadet Lindberg passed almost directly beneath, while Lieut. McAllister attacked from the west side at the same time. The ships came together as the pilots began to regain altitude approximately 200 yards in front of Lieut. Maughan's plane.

Cadet Lindberg was the first to clear the falling ships. The pilots fell for several hundred feet before they pulled the rip cords of their parachutes. The chutes opened out and a moment later the wrecked ships shot by them. Upon reaching the ground the planes burst into flames and were destroyed.

Coal Miners of Novia Scotia Are Out on Strike

WOOD FLAYED IN ASSEMBLY

Accused, With Mark Keppel, of Political Acts in Last Campaign; Budget Bill is Passed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Condemnation of Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Mark Keppel, County Superintendent of Schools of Los Angeles, for their political activities in legislative contests at the last general and primary elections featured the passage of the budget or general appropriation bill by the Assembly today by an unanimous vote.

As approved by the Assembly the budget bill carried appropriations of $50,027,742.32, including $12,690,674.33 for self-supporting boards and commissions for the support of governmental functions for the next two years. Fixed, or constitutional charges, which do not have to be included in the budget bill, total $66,804,871.

Wood and Keppel drew brisling criticism from Assemblymen Charles A. Foster of Fowler and D. P. Anderson of Redding after Foster had introduced an amendment which was voted down, to eliminate from the budget, items for the salary of A. R. Heron, deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, and a stenographer in his office.

Both Assemblymen charged that Wood, Keppel and Heron had built a political machine in California through the use of the teachers and schools and that they were particularly active in the campaigns of last election. Foster said the educators did all in their power to defeat him.

"School activities in California," said Anderson, "are being besmirched by politics and I object most vigorously to the organization of a machine in the public schools for political purposes."

Anderson and Foster referred to a booklet entitled "Who's Who in the Legislature," prepared by Heron and the teachers of the State and containing the record of legislators on so-called progressive, humanitarian and educational measures acted on at the 1923 season of the Legislature. The booklets, the speakers charged, were circulated through Wood's office among the voters as a means of injuring candidates not indorsed by the educators.

LONDON-TOKIO FLIGHT PLANNED

Commercial Air Route is Contemplated

Amundsen's Aide is Sponsor of Enterprise

Obtains Co-operation of Tokio Government

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Announcement that plans were in the making for a test flight from London to Tokio via Alaska with the object of seeking out a commercial air route, was made here by Haakon H. Hammer, of Seattle, Wash. The 5000-mile flight can be made in fifty flying hours with only two stops for refueling, Hammer said.

Hammer has just returned from Japan, where, he stated, he succeeded in securing the promise of co-operation of the Japanese government in the enterprise.

Hammer was Raold Amundsen's chief aide in the noted explorer's trans-Polar flight attempts in 1923, which Hammer says failed by opposition of the Italian government. It was while he was associated with Amundsen, Hammer says, that he first became interested in the comemrcial possibilities of a London-Tokio air route.

"The longest nonstop hop," said Hammer, "would be from Spitzbergen to Alaska, about eighteen hundred miles. This is only slightly more than half the distance flown by Kelly and MacReady on their non-stop coast-to-coast flight.

"Atmospheric conditions are ideal for flying along the proposed route between May and September and such a route, thoroughly established, would be of value strategically as well as commercially. To make the same journey by water requires several months.

My original object to visit Japan to promote Amundsen's interests and we plan to co-operate in the present enterprise. I am securing funds for one airplane from Japan and the Japanese government has promised its assistance in facilitating passage through or over Japanese territory.

"The flight as planned will be made this year if arrangements can be completed in time."

HOOVER URGES SIX-STATE PACT

have been due to the unwillingness of the different groups to solve one problem at a time.

"At this time we are trying solely to settle the conflict of the upper and lower States over water rights and nothing else. The reservation attempts to settle still further problems of the volume of storage to be provided and although my sympathies are entirely for such a volume of storage and although I have no doubt that we shall be able to secure it, to impart this idea in connection with the determination with water rights will entirely defeat the whole.

"The proposed reservation accomplishes nothing for California as the storage question is one wholly for the Federal government and I have no fear of failure to secure the Federal action as soon as the compact is settled. I cannot too strongly recommend that California act in co-operation with the other five States without raising other issues which will not intrinsically advance her own interest and which may greatly jeopardize the whole of them."

Capital Says Farewell to Hughes Family

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A surprise farewell party was given Charles Evans Hughes as he boarded a train late today to leave Washington, where he has served four years as Secretary of State. He sails tomorrow for a vacation in Bermuda, preliminary to resuming the practice of law.

Practically the entire Diplomatic Corps and the Cabinet were at the station when Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and their daughter, Elizabeth, entrained. Mounting the steps of a coach, Mr. Hughes held an informal farewell reception, shaking hands with most of those who had come to bid him good-by.

BANKERS SAY ENGLAND CAN MAKE LARGE LOAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6.—While no formal discussions regarding the estimate of an American credit to aid Great Britain in the restoration of the gold standard have been opened, International Bankers indicated today that Great Britain would encounter little difficulty in arranging a loan of anywhere from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000 for that purpose.

The district had applied for 10,000 second feet.

REPORT CLEARS HERB BILL MEN

every avenue of search and pursued every rumor possible and has endeavored to ascertain the whole truth concerning the matters of the investigation. The newspapers of this State and the reporters handling the subject have materially aided the committee in its investigation and the people of the State are indebted to the agencies for their assistance.

"The committee deems it advisable to submit to the House, as briefly as possible, those certain portions of the testimony most directly bearing on the questions involved in order that the House may be able to draw its own conclusions rather than to depend upon recommendations of the committee.

"It is well to dismiss one proposition in advance, and that is the report concerning the action of Mr. J. E. Hood, the attorney of the State Board of Pharmacy, whose office is in Oakland. Mr. Hood was unnecessarily brought into public light by a remark that seems to have been more than careless and might approach the criminal and in detailed testimony hereinafter set forth this reference will more specifically appear. The only object in bringing in the name of Mr. Hood was that the person using his name might be the better enabled to exert pressure upon those interested in defeating Assembly Bill No. 440.

SAW OPPORTUNITY

"On the 21st day of January, 1925, Assemblyman Edward J. Smith introduced what is known as Assembly Bill 440, and which is entitled, 'An act to regulate the manufacture, sale and use of herbs, roots or other nature products in the administering in sickness or treating disease of a human being and providing a penalty for the violation thereof.' Thereafter some public notoriety was given to this bill and to its import and the testimony of William R. Brackett, a former member of this House, shows that he read an account of the bill in a newspaper. He made some remark to the effect that it appeared to be a good bill calling for the employment of a lobbyist at Sacramento in order to secure its defeat. The avowed purpose of Mr. Brackett in endeavoring to have himself engaged was not out of any public-spirited feeling, but arose simply because he saw in it a fair field for the talent and remuneration of the lobbyist.

"The bill directed itself against the use of herbs and roots and other products of nature and concerned mostly Chinese doctors engaged in this oriental practice, who seem to have quite a large clientele in the State of California. He immediately repaired to the office of Fong Wan, an herb doctor in the city of Oakland. Out of the conversations between the two the charges against Assemblyman Smith seem wholly to have sprung. There is a conflict as to the conversations. The following is taken verbatim from the stenographic report, and the whole of said testimony will be transcribed and made a part of the records of this body and it will be accessible at all times to the public.

"From testimony of Fong Wan:

"'I asked him (Brackett) what he do with that $5000. He said he divide it $2500 for Smith and $1000 for himself and $1000 for Mr. Hurley and $500 for expenses.'

"From testimony of William R. Brackett:

"'Did you at any time in conversation with Fong Wan or the other Chinamen, mention any amount that was to go to Mr. Smith in connection with this bill?'

"'Absolutely not.'

"'Then when the Chinamen say you mentioned a certain amount as going to Mr. Smith, they are mistaken?'

"'Absolutely. They are telling an untruth.'

"'You made no mention of Mr. Smith or Mr. Hurley in connection with any amount?'

"'Absolutely no; at no time.'

"'This is the only evidence against Assemblyman Edward J. Smith concerning the charges and intimations which have been made as to his motives in introducing the bill.

MEN NOT ACQUAINTED

"It appears as a fact that Brackett and Smith were not acquainted and had never had any dealings. Upon the question of veracity between Fong Wan and Mr. Brackett it is immaterial which one is speaking the truth so far as Assemblyman Smith is concerned. If Mr. Brackett was speaking the truth, Mr. Smith's name was not used and hence was never used in connection with any of the reports. If Fong Wan's version is true, it amounts to hearsay, and would appear to have come from Brackett speaking entirely for his own interest and using all of the pressure and argument in aid thereof, wholly unacquainted with Assemblyman Smith and without authority of any kind or character to speak for Mr. Smith."

No definite finding is made as to whether the herb bill was a cinch bill, but in this connection, the report says: "It is brought to the attention of the committee that the character of Assembly Bill 440 is such that an immediate presumption arises to the effect that such bills are not introduced in good faith, and they are commonly styled 'cinch bills.'"

That this language probably was not intended to record the committee as believing Smith's bill a cinch bill is to be found in a declaration, "we do not offer this in condemnation of any motives in introducing this particular bill, but as a general observation concerning the future."

This paragraph had more direct reference to comment that bills which have the character of cinch bills should before introduction have the indorsement of some government agency having the administration of justice in regard to drugs.

COSTLY HELIUM GAS CONSERVED

Government Moves to Hoard Valuable Product

Export Without Permission Strictly Forbidden

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Seven years ago there were only a few cubic feet of helium in the whole world. It was a chemical curiosity worth $1500 a cubic foot. To have filled the gigantic dirigibles, Shenandoah and Los Angeles at that price, even had there been enough of this precious gas at that time, would have cost approximately $6,750,000,000.

Due to the development of helium production by the government since then, the gas has dropped in price from $1500 to approximately 50 cents a cubic foot. This, many experts argue, is enough in itself to justify the money expended by the government in airship experiments. And yet it is estimated that this valuable gas, upon which this nation had a world monopoly, is being wasted at the rate of 500,000,000 cubic feet a year.

What is helium, and what is it good for? How is it produced? These are fair questions for the taxpayer to ask. Helium is a gas that is absolutely inert. It is colorless, odorless and tasteless. It is harmless to the human system. It is noninflammable. That is what makes it so valuable as a lifting power for balloons. It cannot be set on fire by incendiary and explosive bullets. It has a lifting power only 8 to 10 per cent less than hydrogen, the highly inflammable gas used by foreign powers in their dirigibles.

HELIUM NATURAL GAS

Helium is a by-product of natural gas. But all natural gas does not contain helium in sufficient quantities to make its extraction possible. In fact, it is often found in largest quantities in those gas fields in which the B.T.U. is so low as to render the gas almost valueless for heating and lighting purposes. The extraction of the helium from the gas does not injure it for commercial purposes, but rather improves it.

The present helium plant, operated privately under government supervision, is located near Ft. Worth, Tex., on a pipe line from a gas field at Petrolia, about 100 miles to the north. The gas is metered into the plant and then out again, the government paying for the small percentage of loss resulting from the extraction of helium. The helium is taken off by cooling the gas and putting it under pressure.

"Helium, after extraction, comes out about 80 to 85 per cent pure," said Capt. E. S. Land, U.S.N. "It is then reprocessed and purified, raising the purity to as high as 93 or 95, and even 97 per cent. It is then stored in cylinders of twelve to fifteen inches in diameter and about four feet long at a pressure of 1800 pounds each containing about 170 to 180 cubic feet of helium. These cylinders meet with the traffic regulations of the government and are so passed. They are shipped by water or rail to Lakehurst, and stored there. In addition, Admiral Moffett has authorized a new process of storing helium. We have a container that resembles a big bum, a tremendously long, hollow steel casing. We can store about 400,000 cubic feet in ten of these. They are placed underground, are easily cared for and can be tapped off at any time."

A tank car also has been devised, costing between $85,000 and $100,000, which can transport from 150,000 to 300,000 cubic feet of helium under 2000 pounds pressure.

ORIGINAL FIELD FAILS

The field near Petrolia, Tex., however, is pretty nearly exhausted and plans are being made by the government to connect the present pipe line with the Nacona field, about thirty miles away. It is estimated the Nacona field will produce enough helium for military purposes for the next twenty years. The President already has set aside a helium reserve in Utah and a bill is now pending in Congress authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to acquire other gas lands to be turned over to the Bureau of Mines for operation. It has been decided that the best and most economic policy of storing helium for emergency purposes is to leave it in the ground. The bill referred to also forbids the exportation of helium without the permission of the President and Secretaries of War and Navy.

Aside from its uses in dirigibles, helium may be employed to advantage in other ways. It is valuable for the inflation of observation balloons, which were used to such a great extent during the war for the direction of artillery fire The observers in these balloons were compelled to leap to safety with parachutes when an enemy plane got within striking distance because of the great inflammability of the hydrogen with which they were filled. Once hit by an incendiary machine gun bullet and the balloon would go up in flames and smoke with such rapidity the observer would have to be extremely quick to escape with his life.

Then, too, it has been found that helium is of great help in deep sea diving and in aiding workmen who labor under pressure, as in tubes under the Hudson River. These workers, as well as deep sea divers, are often stricken with a malady known as "the bends." When a diver goes down to a great depth the nitrogen in the air is forced into his blood. This is what produces "the bends." It has been found that by using helium in place of nitrogen in the air forced down to these workers this malady can be eliminated. Experiments also are being made looking toward the use of helium in the manufacture of electric light bulbs. These have not yet reached successful fruition, but it is believed helium will play a great part in the industry in the future.

ENVOY PLEDGES CO-OPERATION

Japanese Ambassador Tells Aim of Peace in Pacific

Urges Stronger Friendship of Nippon and America

University Head Says Trade Makes for Progress

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Tsuneo Matsudaira, new Japanese Ambassador to the United States, was formally welcomed to this country here tonight at a banquet tendered him by the Japan Society of America.

Closer cementing of the friendship between the two nations and further advance of a spirit of co-operation on matters pertaining to the Pacific were stressed by all speakers, who, besides Ambassador Matsudaira, included President W. W. Campbell of the University of California; the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Hanna, archbishop of San Francisco; Dr. Henry S. Prichett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and Francis B. Loomis, president of the host organization.

Ambassador Matsudaira asserted it the "solemn duty and privilege" of the United States and Japan to keep the waters of the Pacific "always friendly and peaceful." He asserted that a new era of co-operation already was taking the place of the old age of competition.

FRIENDSHIP CITED

"It is superfluous for me to mention the traditional friendship of our two nations," said the Ambassador. "I might be candid, however, to say that in the course of the long history of our relationship, we have had some difference of opinion at times. But, I feel confident that there is no question, however difficult, that is not capable of amicable settlement if approached in the spirit of genuine friendship."

Mr. Matsudaira referred briefly to the efforts of the Japan Society of America, his host of the evening, to enhance that "traditional friendship."

"I am sure that efforts made in this direction can hardly be overestimated," he declared. "We must further cultivate the feelings of friendship so that we may be able to co-operate in everything that concerns our general welfare. I am sure that you agree with me, when I say that we must not rest satisfied with what we have done in the past, but that we must continue to exert ourselves in the direction of knowing and understanding each other better. Knowledge begets sympathy, and sympathy forms the solid foundation of friendship.

"If we could, therefore, dedicate ourselves to the cause of understanding each other better and of strengthening the ties of our friendship to assure the peace of the Pacific region, America and Japan would not have co-operated in vain, in the most worthy task, that of assuring peace and justice in the Pacific region indeed, among nations of the entire world."

"SOME HAPPY YEARS"

The new ambassador expressed gratification at the welcome given him, and said he was looking forward to spending "some happy years" in the United State.

The interests common to both Japan and the United States were stressed by Dr. Campbell in his address. He commented that the inevitable competition in commerce between the two nations made for progress, and added:

"If difficult situations arise, now and then, as they always have and doubtless always will, we possess in our diplomatic services the foundation for the adjustment and removal of the difficulties."

He pointed out instances where friendly conferences had solved puzzling problems.

Archbishop Hanna and Dr. Prichett, each from his own angle, pleaded for greater understanding and orderly thinking out of international problems for the sake of international peace.

Communications from President Coolidge and retiring Secretary Hughes expressing their personal pleasure at the coming of Mr. Matsudaira as Ambassador, were read.

The Ambassador and his party will leave for the East tomorrow afternoon.

ASSEMBLY VOTES CURB FOR QUACKS

Stronger Penalties for Operating Diploma Mills Provided in Bills

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—The Assembly of the California Legislature today unanimously passed three bills designed to curb the operation of so-called "diploma mills" introduced by Assemblyman Anderson, Redding.

The first measure amends the Medical Practice Act by fixing penalties for the sale of medical degrees or credits, or acting as a proxy in a medical examination, and would revoke the license to practice of any doctor who is adjudged insane. It is provided, however, that the license shall be restored to the former holder if he is later held to have regained sanity.

The penalty for buying or selling degrees or credits in securing licenses to practice is increased from a misdemeanor to a felony under the provisions of the second of Anderson's bills, which provides for a fine of $1000 or imprisonment from one to three years, or both, for violation of the act.

The third bill to go to the Senate for consideration makes it a misdemeanor for any person to treat the sick under an assumed name or to assume any degree not regularly conferred upon him.

DENIES CHARGE OF MISCONDUCT

Mrs. Dennistoun Flares Up on Witness Stand

Suing Former Husband for Predivorce Loans

Emphatic No to Court Ends Cross-Examination

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, March 6.—The cross-examination of Mrs. Dorothy Muriel Dennistoun, who is suing her former husband, now the husband of the former dowager, Countess of Carnarvan, for money alleged to have been loaned to him prior to their divorce, ended this afternoon.

An emphatic "no" was her last answer to a question. The question, put to her by Justice MacCardie, who is presiding in the trial, was whether she had been guilty of overfriendly relations with anyone except the late Sir John Steven Cowans and a Spaniard named Bolin.

Although obviously fatigued, Mrs. Dennistoun flared up fiercely time after time when questions were put concerning her relations with other men, or suggestions made that her Paris divorce from Dennistoun had been obtained by collusion.

During the session of the court today the plaintiff told of "a business trip" to the Island of Majorca with a Maj. Woevodsky and of accepting invitations to bullfights at Cordova and San Sebastian, Spain, from another friend, "a very rich and celebrated amateur matador" named Canero.

Regarding her relations with Lieut.-Col. Dennistoun the witness said, "that everything was broken between us from 1919." She added that her husband lived his own life in Paris and denied vehemently that she was living a fashionable life while Dennistoun was in reduced circumstances.

"We both had been poor since 1919," the witness said. She adroitly side-stepped Sir Edward Marshall Hall's question whether she told her friend, Lady Cunliffe-Owen, that "she was surprised that the Countess of Carnarvon should fight the case, as Dennistoun was bound to get the worst of it," or that Lady Cunliffe-Owen told her she ought not to proceed with the action after all the Countess of Carnarvon had done for her.

The case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

ACTRESS IS SUED FOR DAMAGES

Long Beach Couple Claim They Were Injured in Auto Accident

Juanita Hansen, motion-picture actress, was named defendant in two suits for $50,400 damages each, filed yesterday in Superior Court by Charles J. Helm and Frances J. Helm of Long Beach, who asserted they were seriously injured in an automobile accident October 12, 1924, in which Miss Hansen's car was said to have figured. J. A. Crawley, in whose machine the plaintiffs said they were riding at the time, was made a co-defendant of Miss Hansen.

According to the complaints, Crawley's car collided with that operated by Miss Hansen at the intersection of Eighth street and Vermont avenue. The plaintiffs asserted the defendants were careless and negligent in the manner in which they operated their automobiles at the time of the accident. The complaints were prepared by Attorneys W. I. Gilbert and Clay Carpenter.

tion of his own assignment, he felt, was unimportant.

Lieut.-Col. Fechet has something of a reputation in army circles as a daring pilot.

The fact that he has been for several years an active flyer and also that he made his way up from the ranks are believed to have had considerable weight with Secretary Weeks formulating his recommendation to President Coolidge.

PATRICK APPROVES

The selection was said to have the approval of Maj.-Gen. Mason M. Patrick, Air Service Chief, and to be satisfactory to Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, Chief of Staff, and other high officers of the General Staff.

It can be said, however, that Mr. Weeks does not know and has not sought to find out what Lieut.-Col. Fechet thinks about the controverted questions.

Mr. Weeks refused to indicate today what his future action regarding Gen. Mitchell might be. The question of Gen. Mitchell's assignment for duty will not come up until the time for his replacement by Lieut.-Col. Fechet arrives.

DECREE WIPES TOWN OFF MAP

Removal Within Sixty Days Ordered by Judge

Wyoming Site to be Cleared for Oil Derricks

Lavoye Folk to Carry Fight to Appeal Court

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) March 6.—The town of Lavoye was literally wiped off the map of Wyoming today and its 1500 residents deprived of their homes by a ruling of Federal Judge Kennedy, who ordered that the entire village and its populace must be moved in order to make a clear path for a giant of industry—petroleum.

Public buildings, business houses, homes — everything must go, for Judge Kennedy decreed that the Ohio Oil Company, which leased the land on which the town is located from the government for oil development, is entitled to full possession within sixty days from today. On April 23, 1924, he held that the town had been established without legal basis, but did not provide for enforcement of a removal order.

Today's decision means that if any sign of the town is left in sixty days, those responsible will be subject to citation for contempt of court.

TYPICAL OIL TOWN

Lavoye is a modern incarnation of the typical boom mining town of the Old West. Prosperity has been general since the town was established in 1920 and the hundreds of men employed in the breathless rush for oil spent as freely as they earned.

Lavoye is located in the heart of the Big Salt Creek oil field. It puffed up between patches of alkali and sagebrush almost overnight, forty miles north of Casper, when oil drilling demanded hundreds of men in that vicinity. In 1922 it took on another spurt of growing, which continued until 1923, and it still is the same bustling village, having one large mercantile establishment, three weekly newspapers, numerous motion-picture theaters, automobile agencies and other institutions of work and play which fortune-seekers demand.

Like the mushroom town that it is, its buildings are flimsy—hastily thrown together shacks for the most part — and can be easily demolished. It is expected that the business interests of the town will be transferred mostly to Salt Creek, a neighboring oil town.

OIL TOWN WILL FIGHT FOR ITS LIFE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CASPER (Wyo.) March 6.—The oil town of Lavoye will fight for its existence in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Alfred H. Beach, counsel for the Lavoye Townsite Association, said here tonight on receiving word that Federal Judge Kennedy had decreed today in Cheyenne that the little village must be wiped off the Salt Creek oil field in sixty days.

The specific ruling in the case, according to word received by Mr. Beach, was that Judge Kennedy held six Lavoye residents in contempt of court for failure to vacate property holdings there. He left at once for Lavoye to confer with town-site officials in connection with legal battle.

Mr. Beach and the town-site officials have sought to stave off "Judgment Day" for Lavoye in the hope that Congressional relief might be obtained, but with the adjournment of Congress the 4th inst., their plans were shattered. An appeal to the Circuit Court, and a restraining order from the Appellate body will be asked in order to make ineffective, temporarily at least, Judge Kennedy's ruling, Mr. Beach announced.

Police Student is Arraigned on Charge of Girl

Carl Murphy, said to be a police-school student, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Archbald of Juvenile Court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old girl. His preliminary hearing was set for the 12th inst.

According to a statement made by the girl to court officials, she and another girl and two boys were in a room in a North Broadway rooming-house the evening of November 29, 1924, when Murphy came in and sought to persuade the girls to receive his advances. A complaint also was issued against Anton Pinza, charging him with contributing to the delinquency of one of the girls. Murphy was said to have been preparing to graduate from the police school when he was placed under arrest Thursday.

The complaints were issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Florence Woodhead.

ROSE LOSES FIGHT IN EMBEZZLEMENT CASE

L. F. Rose, convicted of grand larceny for the embezzlement of $475 from Mrs. Clara Reich in a transaction involving Valhalla Memorial Park, lost his appeal yesterday for a new trial in the Second District Court of Appeal, Division Two. Rose was charged with negotiating with Mrs. Reich for the purchase of three burial lots, but refused to give her a contract. The court found that although he declared he held an option on the lots, none existed, and that nothing in the record shows that any other person than Rose received the money. Several reasons advanced as grounds for a new trial were overruled by the court and his original conviction and sentence of from one to ten years was affirmed.

In recognition of his gallantry under fire in the Philippine insurrection in 1899, Lieut.-Col. Harry S. Howland, retired, has been awarded two citations by the War Department, according to word received here yesterday.

LIEUT. COL. HOWLAND

He has also been awarded the Philippines campaign medal, and another medal for service during the war with Spain.

Col. Howland saw long actual campaign service in the Philippines, being in the islands for eleven years. He was retired because of injuries in 1915, but was recalled to duty at the entrance of the United States into the World War, and distinguished himself at the front. He received the Distinguished Service Cross from Gen. Pershing, the Croix de Guerre from Marshal Petain, and was also made an officer of the Legion of Honor for his gallantry in action. At present Col. Howland makes his home at the Athletic Club. He is an official of the local Army and Navy Club.

G.O.P. ASSUMES REINS IN SENATE

Senators Brookhart, Frazier and Ladd voting with the solid Republican delegation. Senator Shipstead, Minnesota, the single farmer-labor Senator, did not vote, and Senator La Follette was absent.

READY FOR WORK

With the organization of the Senate completed, Republican leaders will proceed with a program for the special session agreed upon today, which contemplates action first on the nomination of Charles B. Warren to be Attorney-General and then consideration of Isle of Pines and Lausanne treaties.

After those two treaties have been disposed of, an effort may be made to reach an agreement with Democrat leaders to take up the World Court proposals unless there is a disposition of Senators to force an adjournment by breaking the quorum.

In opening the Democratic conference, Senator Robinson told his colleagues the minority "should stand by and refrain from participation in clashes among the Republicans concerning committee assignments." He added that the Democrats would "do well to let the majority fight out the issue without interference."

DEMOCRATS HARMONIOUS

Harmony was declared by those participating to have been the watchword of the Democratic conference. All present officers were re-elected — Senator Robinson of floor leader; Senator Walsh of Montana, vice-chairman; Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, whip, and Senator King of Utah, secretary.

A steering committee was appointed to fill Democratic vacancies on the standing committees of the Senate and its report will be submitted at a conference called for tomorrow. At the same time Senate Republicans will meet to pass upon the report of its committee on committees recommending removal of the insurgents from their former places of rank and the assignment of new Senators.

Under the Republican program, Senator Watson of Indiana is to become chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee in place of Senator La Follette, who would have succeeded to this office under the seniority rule had he not been read out of the party. Senator Stanfield of Oregon will replace Senator Ladd as chairman of the Public Lands Committee, the famous Teapot Dome investigating body.

ACCUSER QUITS TYNAN HEARING

Witness Withdraws as Result of Morris Exclusion

Prison Commission Did Not Give Fair Trial

Colorado Prison Head Defends Administration

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

COLORADO SPRINGS, March 6. In testimony by Thomas J. Tynan, nationally known road builder and warden of the Colorado State penitentiary, at his trial on charges of malfeasance in office brought by former Gov. Sweet, and the abrupt withdrawal from the inquiry of the complainant and his counsel, which virtually brought to a close the hearing before the State Civil Service Commission that has been in progress for a month.

Warden Tynan took the witness stand in his own defense, and soon an empty table that, until today had been occupied by Sweet and his two attorneys, Fred Caldwell and Ernest Morris.

OSBORNE SURVEY

The charges against Tynan were based on a survey of the situation made by Thomas Mott Osborne, former prison warden.

At the opening of today's session the accuser withdrew from the trial after refusal by the commission to hear his statement relative to its action Thursday in expelling Morris from further participation in the proceedings. In his statement given to the press Sweet declared that the commission had not given him a fair hearing and that Atty.-Gen. Naugle, who is also a member of the commission, had been unethical and erroneous in many of his rulings.

However, conforming to a previously announced decision, the commission continued taking testimony and George Buchanan, deputy warden, and Jess Galyer, prison guard, before Tynan took the stand.

TYNAN'S DEFENSE

Following the events that led up to his clash with Sweet, Tynan launched into a defense of his prison management.

He attempted to lessen the severity of discipline when he became warden, Tynan declared, by appeal to the State authorities that "coddling" the prison with practically insane, he stated.

A large percentage of spankings declared, he materially year by year, he testified. In 1919, 857 prisoners were handled and nine were whipped, he declared. In 1924, 1,000 were handled and but five were whipped, he testified.

Aimee McPherson Says Speeding Charge Dropped; But Police Say No

An automobile ride to see some movies after a hard day's work resulted in the arrest of Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple, on a charge of violating the speed laws on Wilshire boulevard at 11:30 o'clock Thursday night.

Motorcycle Officers Morton and Keenan, Santa Monica police officers, appeared in the Santa Monica Police Court Friday the 13th of the month.

Then come one from the police court came to me this forenoon," Mrs. McPherson said last night, "and apologized very sweetly for what had been done and told me I would not have to appear and that the charge had been wiped off. They said they would write me a nice little note when it had to forget all about it." Mrs. McPherson said she did not know who had signed the complaint, but they are in danger of losing their immoral life.

The complaints against the men were issued by Deputy City Attorney Florence Woodhead.

"POLITICAL" PRISONER WILL GET FREEDOM

Tynan was Sentenced as United States Army Deserter

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6.—A former United States soldier in the World War, described by the American Civil Liberties Union as the last Federal war prisoner serving sentence "for political reasons," has just been ordered released by the War Department, the A.C.L.U. announced today.

The man is Anton Karachun, a Russian citizen, who has been serving a twenty-year sentence at Leavenworth penitentiary, Washington, after being charged with deserting the United States Army in Siberia. He was at first sentenced to death by a court-martial for desertion in time of war, but the sentence was commuted to imprisonment. For two years the A.C.L.U. has been attempting to effect his release, principally upon the ground that he was a Russian subject in the American army. It was illegal to force him into the Russian countrymen.

Action was released upon the ground that he returned to Russia before the United States has guaranteed him safety within ninety days.

COOLIDGE OPENS DOOR TO WOMEN

Comment Indicates High Posts Await Them

Statement Refuted That He is Antisuffrage

Executive Watching Tests in Western States

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Possibilities of women being appointed to the Federal judiciary, to positions in the Diplomatic Corps, and even to the Cabinet itself were opened up by comment offered at the White House today on behalf of President Coolidge.

A magazine, the name of which was not mentioned by the President's representative, has recently published an article in which the assertion was made that President Coolidge is opposed to the appointment of women to public office, and that he is determined to appoint none to positions not held by women when he took over the administration.

Ordinarily the President refrains from denying or criticising newspapers or other publications regarding himself. He has departed from this rule only once or twice since he entered the White House. Apparently, however, he regards the article mentioned as being so wrong in its text and implications that the facts should be given wide publicity.

REFUTES STATEMENT

Accordingly it was with some emphasis that the statement was made at the White House today that the President has never entertained the ideas attributed to him, that he is not opposed to women holding public office, that he has appointed some women to office already and that he expects to appoint many more. Here it was added that it is not improbable that some time he will appoint a woman to a position in the government much higher than any woman ever has held.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is an assistant attorney-general, a position next in rank to that of a Cabinet officer, the statement puts no limit on the height of Federal positions to which the President May appoint women.

President Coolidge, however, is represented as being desirous of proceeding slowly in this direction. His spokesman said that the President was glad to see the States taking the lead in putting women in high office, the reference quite obviously being to the fact that Texas and Wyoming have recently elected woman Governors, a fact which, by the way, has caused Senator Sheppard of Texas to coin an epigram. In a speech at a dinner last night the Senator described the West as "the region where men are men and women are Governors."

TEST GRATIFYING

But the interpreter of the President qualified immediately by saying that the phrase about the States taking the lead was not truly representative of what the President has in mind. It is not that the States are taking the lead that is gratifying but rather that they are conducting the tests of public opinion. These are the ones the Federal government is now observing with care. State governments naturally are in closer contact with the people than is the Federal government. If the people of the several States indicate by electing women to high office that the majority opinion therein distinctly favors this course, the Federal government under the Coolidge administration at least will take the lesson to heart and enlarge the sphere in which women Federal officers may function.

TAX REPORT PUBLISHED BY LEAGUE

Double Levy and Evasion of Payment Discussed in Report Issued

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, March 6.—The League of Nations tonight made public a report on the problem of double taxation and tax evasion. The report not only presents a series of recommendations, but suggests a further and wider inquiry by a new body of experts, including representatives of the United States and Germany. These experts would prepare draft conventions for a later general international conference.

Starting with the principle that double taxation should be avoided because it is unjust and destroys initiative, the experts reported in favor of a general rule that the personal income tax should be levied only by the country of domicile. They admit, however, certain exceptions. The committee recommends that rules adopted for a general income tax should be applied to permanent taxes on the taxpayers' total wealth or capital and to death duties.

Relative to shipping companies, the committee admits an exception by which, subject to reciprocity the tax would be imposed only by the country in which the real center of the undertaking is situated.

BROADWAY RUM WAR IS OPENED

Buckner Plans to Close New York Houses

"Padlock Court" Will Hear Prohibition Cases

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 6.—New York's booze-bolstered night life, facing its greatest peril since prohibition in United States Attorney Buckner's declaration of a war of extermination on the "men higher up" in the liquor business here, found little comfort today in Buckner's revelation of further plans for the campaign he opened yesterday with the service of padlock injunction complaints on fourteen of the city's leading supper clubs and cabarets.

The new Federal Attorney's battle orders call for a three-fold attack, each phase of which is based on his intention to substitute civil closing proceedings against places where the liquor law is violated for the present scheme of punishment by the arrest and fine of waiters, bartenders and other underlings.

Buckner plans, first, the welding of his own office, the Federal Prohibition enforcement bureau and the police departments of New York and the other ten counties in his district into an effective hard-hitting weapon of attack.

The next step, Buckner said, will be the preparation of instructions for prohibition agents and policemen, telling them just what evidence is necessary for the institution of padlock injunction suits.

The third phase of the attack will be established next month of a "padlock court" under one of the United States District Court judges for the hearing of these suits exclusively.

The United States attorney declared there is already enough evidence on hand, gathered during the administration of his predecessor, Col. William Hayward, to begin actions against about 500 suspected speak-easies at once.

CAROLLING CATS CAUSE CONTENTION

Woman's Octet of Felines Destructive to Sleep and Property, Court Hears

It is bad enough when cats track up freshly painted porches and dig up flower gardens but when their moonlight overtures disrupt the slumber of neighbors, it is fair time to call a halt, according to testimony in Police Judge Georgia Bullock's court yesterday, when Mrs. F. C. Dawes was in court to answer for the misdeeds of her eight cats.

One of Mrs. Dawes's neighbors, Mrs. Elizabeth Finney of 1449 Ridgeway street, signed a complaint, charging that the cats roamed the neighborhood and destroyed property.

Mrs. Dawes admitted ownership of the cats but stated that they were all highly pedigreed, and pleaded not guilty to the charge that she had allowed them to dig up her neighbors flowers.

While the reputations of all of the cats were torn to shreds by prosecution witnesses, most of the wrath of the ireful citizens seemed to center upon the one particular feline. Judge Bullock wanted to know just why this particular cat had met with so much objection.

"Well, I'll tell you Judge," testified John Clark of 1449 Ridgeway street, "that cat is a regular no-account. It prowls about everybody's yard at night and bothers other cats."

"Has this particular cat any kittens?" asked Judge Bullock.

"Well, no, your honor," replied the witness, "you see it ain't that kind of cat."

"Oh, I see," exclaimed the Judge.

Mrs. Dawes was released on her own recognizance pending the decision of the court.

BILL WOULD LEGALIZE POLICE USE OF CLUBS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—To make clear whether it is lawful for police officers to carry batons or "billies," Assemblyman Hawes, San Francisco, today introduced in the Assembly an amendment to the present law which would clearly stipulate that the possession of such clubs by policemen would be lawful. Hawes stated he interpreted the recent ruling of the Attorney-General as prohibiting officers of the law as well as other persons from carrying batons while on duty.

DOG FILM STAR MAY BE ORPHAN

Rin Tin Tin's Master Sued for Divorce in Oakland

Mrs. Charlote Duncan Says Spouse Indifferent

Master Restrained from Collecting Royalties

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Mrs. Charlotte Anderson Duncan, horsewoman, filed suit for divorce at Oakland today against Leland L. Duncan, owner of Rin Tin Tin, the canine movie star.

Mrs. Duncan charges cruelty which, she says began immediately after their marriage three years ago.

Despite the fact that she inherited from her first husband the stock ranch and stable of thoroughbreds near Pleasanton, Mrs. Duncan charges that her husband said he owned the place and had brought the blooded steeds from Kentucky, embarrassing her immensely. But that wouldn't have been so bad, the wife avers, if Duncan had not mistreated her horses. He overrode them, abused them, and returned them to stable without proper care, the wife alleges.

COULDN'T PAY

Evidently Rin Tin Tin's company was so much pleasure to Duncan that he considered Mrs. Duncan's presence rather secondary, for she charges that he rarely took her to places of amusement, and even failed to put in an appearance after inviting her to dinner on several occasions. Twice he took her to dinner, and then couldn't pay the check, embarrassing her greatly, she complains.

One of the final blows to her wedded bliss came, says Mrs. Duncan, when a strange woman came to her stables and said she wanted to ride one of the Duncan horses. "I have Mr. Duncan's permission," she told Mrs. Duncan, who had an uncomfortable time explaining that Duncan had no interest whatever in the stables.

PROPERTY ORDER

Superior Judge Koford today awarded Mrs. Duncan a restraining order to keep her husband from collecting royalties from the pictures in which Rin Tin Tin acts and restraining him from either altering his contract in the pictures or disposing of any community property.

Mrs. Duncan asks $1000 a month alimony and the right to resume her former name of Anderson. She says her husband has an income of $20000 a month in addition to his picture royalties.

Being a "hill in a valley" is a rather odd advantage in itself. Beverly Hills Heights is view property, set right down where realty values are leaping like Mexican jumping beans.

Halfway between downtown Los Angeles and the beach at Santa Monica, all you have to do to reach the formal opening sale at Beverly Hills Heights tomorrow, Sunday, is to drive eight miles out Wilshire.

Beverly Drive leads you right into Beverly Hills Heights. You will see the hill as soon as you turn off Wilshire.

EVANS RANCH IS PROTECTED

American Ambassador Gets Concession from Mexican Government; Investigation Under Way

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—The representations made to the Foreign Office by the American Embassy have led to the sending of a special commission of investigation to San Pedro Coxtocan Hacienda, in the State of Puebla, to conduct an investigation into the alleged seizures of lands and irrigation waters and the Mexican government has ordered that personal guarantees be given to George Camp, American administrator of the hacienda.

James R. Sheffield, the American Ambassador, made this known today, adding that upon the invitation of the Mexican government, Stuart Grummon, third secretary of the American Embassy, accompanied the commission.

The Ambassador stated it was his personal belief that the Mexican government was doing everything possible to find an amicable settlement of the controversy over the lands which belonged to the late Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the American wife of a British subject.

After the assassination of Mrs. Evans at her hacienda last summer, it developed that the property, valued at $750,000 was willed to her sister, Mrs. W. J. Pettus of San Francisco, who now resides in Washington. The attitude of the Washington State Department was that the Embassy could not initiate diplomatic negotiations since the inheritance tax had not been paid, and the title had not been formally passed to the American heir.

The alleged breaking of a contract signed between Mr. Camp and the village of Tianguismanaloo, under whose supervision an engineer was sent to the hacienda to investigate irrigation waters from sources on the ranch, together with information reaching the Embassy to the effect that Mr. Camp himself had been threatened with death and had narrowly escaped from ambushes of armed agrarians in the vicinity of the ranch, furnished grounds which, in the opinion of the Ambassador, made representations to the Mexican government permissible and advisable.

Press despatches from Puebla concerning conditions in the Huejotzingo district, in which the Evans hacienda is located, say that an armed band, followers of the former government of Jose Maria Sanchez, assailed the town of Huejotzingo in an attempt to depose the municipal government.

FALL CITED TO TESTIFY IN OIL CASE

Former Secretary Served With Subpoena in Teapot Dome Scandal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) March 6.—Steps to take the legal measurements of the Teapot Dome scandal actually got under way here today after a delay of more than five months, during which there were repeated postponements because of the failure of the government to round up its witnesses and depositions.

The first material step was made known when Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel, received advices from El Paso, Tex., that a subpoena had been served on Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, who was held responsible for leasing the great naval oil reserve in Salt Creek, Wyo., to the Mammoth Oil Company, one of the Harry F. Sinclair interests. The subpoena served on Fall makes it mandatory for him to appear as a witness, counsel said.

The government's line-up on witnesses was further settled with an announcement from Paris that H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neill, American oil man, whose testimony the government sought in its effort to prove fraud in execution of the Teapot lease, had refused to testify when called before a French tribunal. This was taken to mean that the trial here will be without evidence of any kind from Blackmer and O'Neill.

The government now has forty-seven witnesses on its list.

Harry F. Sinclair, head of the Mammoth company, will arrive here tonight. He has reserved forty rooms in the leading hotel in Cheyenne to quarter his entourage.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

WATER PROJECT RULING IS GIVEN

Judgment Rendered in Edison Suit at Fresno

Finding Places Restrictions on Development

Announcement of Appeal Has Been Made

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, March 6.—Placing restrictions upon the extent to which the Southern California Edison Company may go in impounding water for its immense hydro-electric development project in the mountains of Fresno county, Superior Judge J. Earl Woolley today filed his findings and judgment in the suit of Mrs. Amelia Herminghaus and others.

The plaintiffs sought to have the Edison Company restrained from interference with the natural flow of the San Joaquin River, asserting that the impounding of water in the reservoirs of the power development project was damaging their lands through removing from them the benefits of flood overflow and the accruing silt deposits.

After four weeks of hearing evidence largely of a strictly technical nature and involving many questions of riparian rights, Judge Woolley rendered an opinion of about 25,000 words in which he said an injunction should be granted.

Outstanding in the findings of the decision filed today by Woolley after two days of conference with the attorneys concerned, are the following:

The Edison Company is entitled to use of the water of the San Joaquin River and tributaries in hydro-electric development and generation but without storing or impounding the flow except as expressly stated in the judgment. Storage from Big Creek under government rights is limited to 31,761.5 acre feet as a riparian owner and licensee, patentee and permittee of the federal government.

Water may be impounded in Huntington Lake only when the flow at Lone Willow Slough, a point on the Herminghaus lands, is 3000 second feet or more.

Storage in Huntington Lake is restricted in any one year to permit a regular and continuous flow into the main channels of the river, to 60 per cent of the capacity of the reservoir on November 1, 60 per cent capacity on December 1, 40 per cent on January 1, 30 per cent on February 1, 25 per cent on March 1, 20 per cent on April 1 and 15 per cent on April 15.

The power company is not entitled to a quieting of its right to store or impound water in Huntington Lake, and the plaintiff's plea that the rights of the company to store the waters of Big Creek be limited is denied, except as specifically stated.

Riparian rights of the Edison company to the waters of Stevenson Creek are upheld and privilege is granted to store the water in Shaver Lake to its maximum capacity of 5800 acre feet. The water so stored, however, shall be returned to the San Joaquin River without being further stored after passing through the Edison company's power-houses, the court holds, and no injunction shall be granted as long as this order is carried out.

The defendant is granted the right to divert and use the waters of Big Creek and Pitman Creek and their tributaries for impounding in Huntington Lake by reason of public use, but storing is permitted only by means of forbays and diversion dams, although the court holds that the defendant has not title or ownership to the right to store the water of Big Creek in the lake.

One of the most important sections of the findings is that which holds that the Huntington Lake storage on Big Creek is unreasonable as between the plaintiffs as riparian owners and the defendant and that the proposed storage under the Edison Company's West Side development is an unreasonable use of the water of the river.

Great and irreparable injury will be done the plaintiffs and the plaintiff's lands by the development proposed other than that directly concerned in the Huntington and Shaver lakes projects, the court holds, adding "that pecuniary damages will not compensate for the injury which cannot be estimated in money."

Fixing a diversion schedule of approximately 3900 acre feet for eighteen forebays and reservoirs, the court holds that the river must be permitted to flow as it was wont to flow by nature, allowing only that the natural flow may be arrested to enable the Edison Company to put it to use in electric development.

The plaintiffs are entitled to the natural flow of the river, the court finds, and they are awarded a decree enjoining the power company except as decreed, and to that end the company is required by the court ruling to maintain appliances for measuring the flow into Huntington Lake at all times, and to make these appliances available without hindrance to the plaintiffs.

Those who are conversant with the project and the proceedings of the court incident to the case state that the judgment of Judge Woolley virtually prohibits any of the Edison Company's mammoth development schemes not started prior to the beginning of work on the Florence Lake tunnel, and that all of the big program now in prospect, known as the West Side project, is prohibited by the terms of the court's findings.

Attorneys for the Edison Company announced some time ago that they will appeal from Judge Woolley's findings.

MUCH-TITLED MAN SENTENCED

Former Justice, Judge, Clerk and Recorder Pleads Guilty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, March 6.—William J. Herbert, Elsinore official who formerly held many titles, including that of justice of the peace, police judge, City Clerk and City Recorder, will start serving a three months' jail sentence March 14, as a result of his plea of guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated unless the county parole board sees fit to grant him leniency.

Herbert was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 and spend three months in the County Jail by Superior Judge Ellis and in default of payment of the fine it is to be served out at the rate of one day for each $2, not to exceed six months in jail.

Following pronouncement of sentence, however, the court referred the matter to Probation Officer Mathews for investigation as to possible mitigating circumstances which might result in lenient action by the parole board.

Man Falls 57 Feet in Well; Breaks Legs

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ARCADIA, March 6.—John Remmers, 32 years of age, fell to the bottom of a fifty-seven-foot shaft in a well yesterday afternoon and was seriously injured by the impact of the fall. Remmers landed on his feet at the bottom of the shaft and both ankles were broken, his spine was dislocated and he may have internal injuries.

Remmers was working with some other men on a board over the shaft of the well on his place at El Monte avenue and Azusa Road trying to install a booster pump for the well. The board broke and Remmers was thrown to the bottom. His companions rescued the man, who was suffering intensely, by descending into the shaft, wrapping him in a mattress and hoisting him in this way to the top.

The injured man was taken to Haben Hospital in Monrovia and Dr. L. N. Wheeler attended his injuries, which are serious. He has a wife and two small children.

PROMINENT POMONA ELK INJURED IN FALL

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

POMONA, March 6.—Suffering greatly and with the prospects of being confined in his home for some time, Fred E. Brown, 553 West Orange Grove avenue, was taken to his home from the Pomona Valley Hospital today.

Mr. Brown, chairman of the decorating committee for the Elks' dance and card party Friday night, fell from a high ladder while decorating the large banquet hall in the new Elks' home last night, fractured his right arm at the elbow, seriously cut the elbow of his left arm and struck the bridge of his nose against one of the steps of the ladder as it crashed to the floor under him. He was also badly bruised about the body.

He was using a tall fruit-picking ladder to reach the top of an iron column in the banquet hall when the ladder slipped on the newly waxed dance floor and crashed with Mr. Brown to the floor. He is a prominent local business man.

FIRST TEACHER AT CALABASAS SCHOOL

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CALABASAS, March 6.—Living in the Ventura Boulevard section near here is Dr. William Holliday, now a dentist, but thirty-six years ago the first teacher at the Calabasas school, and one of the very earliest pioneers of San Fernando Valley.

"The old school is gone now," Dr. Holliday said today, "but last week when in Calabasas I saw the old Ijams home where I boarded years and years ago. Ijams was one of the very first school trustees in the valley. Since 1889 there have been great changes in this section."

LARGE ORDER PLACED FOR WINDBREAK TREES

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

OWENSMOUTH, March 6.—Perry Mulholland has ordered 2000 cypress and 2000 blue gum eucalyptus trees and will plant extensive windbreaks around his place west of Owensmouth. The Weeks Poultry Colony, near here also has ordered 1200 pepper trees for planting rows along the streets of the colony. Leading ranchers here say that the annoyance of spring winds could finally be obviated if more trees of these three sorts were planted all over the valley. Between here and Van Nuys a great many trees were cut down along Sherman Way early this spring. These trees, comprising camphor, magnolia and cedar species were planted when the highway first was laid out. The Chamber of Commerce has been asked to halt further cutting down of trees and to foster a plan to plant more windbreaks in this part of the valley.

PASADENA CAMPAIGN HEATING UP

Friends of Administration Form Plans of Warfare for Coming Election

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 6.—Citizens supporting the present city administration met today to form plans to stir the city into the belief that it is unwise to change horses in the middle of the stream.

At the same time citizens' associations, voters' leagues and other bodies supporting the opposing candidates, are letting no obstacle stand in their way in their efforts to put new blood in the local governing board.

As the primary election is less than a week away interest and pre-election excitement continue to grow. There are ten candidates seeking the four positions that will be open on the Board of Directors and since the town is divided over the question of changing the present form of government, the election will be perhaps the most hotly contested affair that has ever been held in the Crown City.

The present directors who seek to keep their places on the board are Carl Thomas, MacD. Snowball, Frank May and Fred Harris. They are supported by the Citizens' Protective Association. The Independant Voters' League is sponsoring two candidates, J. J. Hamilton and Rev. Carl Bergquist. The Municipal Voters' League is supporting Franklin Cole, A. N. Cole, Carl S. Newcomer and William Easterbrook

Plan Pine Flat Reorganization for Irrigation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, March 6.—Reorganization of the working body of the 1,000,000-acre Pine Flat irrigation project was today set for Monday, the 16th inst., in a call for representatives of twenty-five interested agencies to meet in Fresno.

The call was issued by Charles L. Kaupke, temporary secretary of the body and Kings River watermaster, following receipt from participating agencies of appointments of executive committeemen and members of engineering and legal committees upon whom will fall the work of carrying the project to completion.

The Pine Flat project has as its object the amalgamation of all irrigation and land interests of the Kings River area into one large organization which would be known as the Kings River water storage district, an oridinal petition for which is now before the State Irrigation Board.

With fifteen irrigation districts actively associated with the project, and ten other land and canal companies interested and working to a common end, it is the consensus of opinion that the project is assured of an early and successful consummation.

FOUR ACCUSED IN SAN DIEGO MURDER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—Hugh McGovern and Thomas A. Johnson, former Chicagoans under indictment for the murder of their companion, George McMahon, were arraigned today before Superior Judge Lacy Jennings. Following the reading of the indictments, the court fixed March 14 as the day for entry of pleas. The prisoners were then taken to the County Jail. The indictments also named Mrs. May Johnson, wife of one of the accused men, and Dan McGory, the woman's father. Mrs. Johnson and her father fled from San Diego Saturday night, the time when the murder is believed to have been committed and are said to be in hiding in Chicago. At the inquest this afternoon into the death of McMahon, the Coroner's jury returned the brief verdict, fractured skull, homicide.

Doors of South Pasadena Civic Boosters Shut

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SOUTH PASADENA, March 6. The South Pasadena Chamber of Commerce today closed its doors for an indefinite period. All the records and equipment located in the Mission-street offices will be moved to the private office of Ben Gibson, present president of the local organization.

Although the chamber recently held a membership drive and was completely reorganized, citizens have failed to give the movement support, the officers declare. Because of this insufficient interest and support on the part of the public and because of the great expense of keeping an office open, the Chamber of Commerce was forced to close down.

"The chamber will not go entirely out of business by any means," said Mr. Gibson. "It will function as long as the people want it. But, of course, the size of our business depends upon the amount of business transacted and the number of members we have.

"Just as soon as South Pasadena realizes that it ought to have a real live Chamber of Commerce and when it realizes it is important enough to have a local office, with a shingle hung in front, we will be ready and willing to open our office again."

Fresno to Have Reserve Unit of Flying Branch

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, March 6.—Organization of an air service unit of the organized reserves in Fresno has been ordered, according to word received here by Maj. Henry Davis, Jr., executive officer of the Three Hundred and Sixty-Third Regiment of the organized reserves, and chairman of the technical and engineering committee of an organization which is seeking to establish a municipal airport and promote an air-mail route through Fresno.

Davis today received instructions from headquarters of the Ninth Corps Area in San Francisco to proceed with the organization of the unit on the peace-time basis of thirty-five officers and sixty enlisted men. He was informed that the allocation board has recommended to the War Department that Fresno be made the location of the Four Hundred and Fourth Observation Squadron.

With the allocation of the United States Army reserve squadron, it is expected that plans will be rushed for placing on the municipal election ballot next month, a bond issue for the purchase of a site for a municipal airport.

RANCHER FOUND DEAD BACK OF HIS HOME

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

MONROVIA, March 6.—John Velt, a retired Oregon rancher, who came here to live six years ago, was found dead in the back yard of his home at 413 Date street last evening. Velt had gone out to milk a cow and when he did not return the family started a search for him. A young son found the body of his father on the ground beside the pail of fresh milk about 7:30 o'clock. Velt was 67 years of age, and apparently in good health. Death was due to apoplexy. He is survived by the widow, five sons and a daughter. The daughter and one son lived with the parents in Monrovia, and the others live in Portland, the former home of the retired rancher.

CRIPPLED WAR HERO IS PAROLED

Ransome Crockett Hobbles Into Bakersfield Court and Admits Forging Checks

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, March 6.—For the next three years, Ransome Crockett, war hero and confessed forger, will have his freedom subject to the terms of parole imposed by Judge Mahon, who granted Crockett's motion for probation today.

Crockett hobbled into the courtroom today on crutches as most of his right foot had been amputated to prevent the spread of gangrene.

During the participation of the United States in the World War, Crockett served with distinction; incidentally his feet were frozen. Returning to the United States later, according to his admission in court, Crockett forged the name of W. W. Knox of Taft, to several oil company checks. Then he left for Springfield, Mass.

Crockett finally gave himself up to the eastern police. Sheriff Cas Walser made the trip east and returned the man to Bakersfield, where he was taken to the County Hospital.

AUTO SHOW OPENS TONIGHT

Glendale Motor Car Dealers Place Latest Styles on Exhibition for Coming Week

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, March 6.—The opening ceremony in connection with Glendale's first annual auto show under the auspices of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' Association will be held tomorrow night when Mayor Robinson will formally declare the show open and Lyman P. Clark, president of the association, will reply, outlining the purposes for which the show is being held.

The exhibition will last until the 14th inst., and will be exclusively a Glendale show, as the dealers here feel that they can present to the automobile owners of this territory a representative display of the country's leading cars without going out of town.

Several of the exhibits to be shown will be those that were on display at the recent San Francisco show and the other dealers have secured models of the latest cars to be shown in their respective booths.

Many of the local accessory dealers and industries allied to the automobile business will have exhibits at the show, which is to be in a 300-foot tent at the corner of Brand Boulevard and Magnolia avenue, and entertainment by a troupe of vaudeville artists will be given on a special stage every night.

The exhibition is expected to attract thousands of visitors from all over Southern California as it is claimed that many of the cars to be shown will make their first appearance at the Glendale showing.

Van Nuys Girl on Visit Flies Back Home in Airship

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, March 6.—Miss Dorothy Williams, Van Nuys girl, some time ago left here for a visit to Redlands, and after an enjoyable time there went over to San Bernardino where, with other friends, she took in the Orange Show and other sights of the city.

Up to this time, most of the riding done by Miss Williams was in automobiles, which apparently she grew tired of, for when time came for her to return home she yearned for a different sort of transportation.

At Redlands was Capt. C. A. McKenzie, a friend of the family and at one time a member of the Canadian Flying Corps in the World War. At Redlands also was one of Capt. McKenzie's best airships. When Miss Williams learned that Capt. McKenzie was about to take one of his air journeys and probably would fly toward Van Nuys and Los Angeles, she asked to come along.

Soon after the trip started. Within less than an hour Miss Williams walked into her home here, as unperturbed as if she had junketed home on a trolley car.

PROTEST FILED ON BUTTER SUBSTITUTE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, March 6.—Directors of El Centro Chamber of Commerce have adopted a resolution protesting strongly against the growing use in California of butter substitutes, arguing that there is plenty of genuine butter available for the public. The action was taken by the directors in urging Assemblyman Finney of Imperial County to support Assembly bill No. 878, which provides that butter substitutes shall be plainly labeled and their chief ingredients listed on the outside of the package. The protest of the El Centro men is considered all the more appropriate here in view of the fact that this is the center of a county in which nearly 7,000,000 pounds of butter were produced and marketed in 1924.

GULLS PROBLEM IN BEACH CITY

Council's Public Safety Body Asked to Curb Depredations

[By a "Times" Staff Correspondent.]

SANTA MONICA, March 6.—That sea gulls, a protected bird, have increased to such numbers that they are doing considerable damage in the amusement zone here, was revealed this morning when several complaints were made by amusement men, before the Department of Public Safety.

It was pointed out by concessionaires this morning that sea gulls alight in such numbers upon electrical display equipment that, when they are frightened and leave in a body they destroy electric light globes.

Just what action the city may take in giving relief to the long line of concessions in the amusement area is the problem now confronting commissioners.

LEMONS TO BE KING AT OXNARD

First Show Where This Fruit is to be Featured

Other Ventura County Cities in Second Place

Fair Originally Planned for Last Year

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, March 6.—Plans are being made for the first Citrus lemon and products show to be held here in May. This show, a miniature fair, was to have been held for the first time last year, but plans were postponed a year on account of the foot-and-mouth disease.

H. Elmo Labreque, an experienced showman, has been secured to manage the show and will work with members of the Chamber of Commerce here Tuesday. Charles Bagley, local manager, has been appointed general chairman of the body in charge of the show. He will be assisted by the following: William Rose, manager of the Oxnard Citrus Association, who will supervise the citrus exhibits; Ed Gill, agricultural display; Charles Donlon, citrus exhibits from outside Ventura County; Fred Noble, horticulture, with the exception of citrus fruits; F. G. Laubacher, dairy products.

While the lemon will be the feature of the entire show, there will be all kinds grown in Ventura County, vegetables, walnuts, beans and other products will be displayed in addition to industrial products of the county. Many agricultural and industrial concerns throughout the county already have contracted for space in the show, reports from the various towns in the county indicate that the show will be given wholehearted support. The show will be held in a tent 150 by 400 feet, located on Fifth street on the American Beet Sugar Company property. There will be entertainment during the entire week of the show and an attendance of at least 15,000 is expected.

This will be the only show of its kind, where the lemon is the chief product featured.

GRAPEFRUIT MEN IN FIELD DAY MEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, March 6.—Field day demonstrations of interest to grapefruit growers are being held this week in Imperial Valley. The demonstrations are under the direction of the County Farm Bureau and deal mostly with the treatment of young grapefruit trees that were slightly damaged by frost. A meeting was held today at the R. B. Nelson ranch in Brawley and tomorrow another demonstration will be given at the Corn Bros., place near Calipatria.

SON IS ACCUSED BY MRS. WILLIS

Declares Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Shot Baldwin

Youth Went Out to Play After Shooting

Stay of Execution Given Convicted Woman

"My son shot Dr. Baldwin and then went out and played ball!"

This was the new version of the slaying of Dr. Benjamin Baldwin as given in the County Jail last night by Mrs. Margaret Willis, who was tried and sentenced to serve a life sentence in San Quentin penitentiary for the killing of Baldwin. Mrs. Willis told the police prior to her trial that she shot Dr. Baldwin as he was attacking her in her home last April.

Her assertion last night that it was her 14-year-old son Harold who shot the doctor came after her attorney secured a seven-day stay of execution from Judge Crail yesterday on the sentence to the penitentiary. This move was made after Mrs. Willis, accompanied by her attorney, is said to have gone to Dist.-Atty. Keyes and made the same statement to him two days ago.

As she lay on a cot in the jail last night, her eyes red and her head swathed in a cold cloth, Mrs. Willis said that she had assumed the responsibility for the shooting "in order to protect my boy."

SAYS BOY TOLD

Her explanation for making the statement at this time was that she had been told the boy had not kept his promise to let her assume the responsibility, but had told relatives or friends the secret.

"He said he'd never tell," she sobbed. "They'll send him to a reform school."

Her new version of the shooting was as follows:

"When Sonny came home from school that day, he found Dr. Baldwin attacking me. The boy made a leap at the doctor, but the doctor struck him a wallop alongside the jaw and he flew across the room. I called to Sonny to run into the next room and bring me the gun. He did, but when he came back, instead of giving me the gun, he shot the doctor through the head.

"I told Sonny to leave the room and go out. He went out of the house—he went out and played ball or something."

"You mean after he shot the doctor and you told him to leave the room he 'est went out and played ball?" she was asked.

HID THE BODY

"Yes, he went out and played. When he came back I told him that the doctor had not been hurt—that he was just drunk and I had sent him home in a taxicab as I had done frequently."

"As a matter of fact, when you told him that you had already put the doctor's body in a closet?"

"Yes."

"And the boy didn't ask anything further about what had happened after he left the room on your instructions?"

"No. I simply told him I had sent the doctor home and he believed it. It wasn't until I went to the police and told them I had killed the doctor that the boy knew he was dead."

In her confession to the police, Mrs. Willis said she had put the doctor's body in a trunk, carted it in an automobile two days later to a point north of San Fernando and hurled the trunk over an embankment.

FEARED FOR SON

"Did you really believe that a boy who shot a man in defense of his mother would be punished?"

"I thought they'd send him to a reform school or some place."

"If it is true that you assumed the responsibility for shooting the doctor on the grounds of self-defense, why didn't you call the police immediately?"

"I don't know—my mind was all upset. I didn't know what I was doing. I should have done that, as I know now."

Soon after Mrs. Willis gave her statement to a Times reporter last night, she was visited by her son in the matron's quarters in the jail.

VISITS MOTHER

The freckle-faced lad, bareheaded, wearing a sweater-vest and knickers, fell on his knees beside his mother's cot.

"Mother!" he cried.

And all she could do was to put her arms around him and sob.

Outside the jail, the boy refused to be questioned on his asserted connection with the shooting.

"You feel now that a load has been lifted from your shoulders?" a reporter asked him.

"Aw, now you're only trying to pump me and I'm not going to answer any questions," he replied.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes, commenting on Mrs. Willis's new version of the shooting, said:

"I don't take any stock in it at all. As far as this office is concerned, Mrs. Willis has had her trial, the verdict has been given and the matter is now closed."

SUSPECTS TRACED BY LAUNDRY

Two Men Identified by Victim Who Was Gagged With Handkerchief

A handkerchief used by two burglars to gag Miss Una Trevelyn, former film actress, when they robbed her and a man friend in her home at 100 South Arden Boulevard, two weeks ago, yesterday proved, according to police, to be a clew that led to the arrest of two men who were afterward identified as the robbers. A laundry mark on the handkerchief, which was left behind when the robbers fled, was traced and found to have been the same as that stamped on laundry sent to an address in Los Angeles.

Detective Lieutenants Bartley and Shammo went to the address given by the laundry company and arrested two men who described themselves as John W. Thomason, 25 years of age, a real estate salesman, and Martin Lyons, 24, a film extra.

Both suspects, according to police, were identified by Miss Trevelyn and her escort, J. M. Champ, of 1417 North Normandie avenue.

Miss Trevelyn and Champ were robbed of jewelry and money totaling about $1000 by the men who were in the former actress's home burglarizing it when she and Champ returned.

HERRIOT FACING SECURITY CRISIS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 6.—Premier Herriot was regarded in political circles here tonight as confronting the most difficult crisis of his career as head of the government. He is facing the all important question of a security pact and the entire nation is watching him.

Foreign Minister Skrzynsky of Poland in a talk with the Premier today said Poland would not consent to a revision of the Treaty of Versailles. In addition, Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of Great Britain, who arrived here this evening, presented another problem. It is assumed Mr. Chamberlain will advocate a favorable consideration of the German plan for a guaranteed pact, which will expressly exclude the latter's frontier with Poland from the security it is supposed to provide.

Secretary Chamberlain, in the opinion of Paris press, is going to Geneva to give the finishing blow to the League protocol which was M. Herriot's greatest hope.

Minister Skrzynsky it is understood, told the Premier that Poland relied on the League plan for her security. The Polish statesman is said to have added that the arbitration, such as Germany has declared to have in view, cannot be permitted to bring into question the points which were settled by treaty, that is, the status quo of Europe as based on the Treaty of Versailles.

The issue is thus sharply defined, it is considered in diplomatic circles between Germany and Great Britain on one hand and France and Belgium and their allies of Central Europe on the other.

M. Skrzynsky is understood to have the backing of Foreign Minister Denes of Czecho-Slovakia.

Only two ways out of the dilemma have been suggested. One is that Germany abandon her claim on the Danzig Corridor, which was put into the Treaty of Versailles on the insistance of the late President Wilson, or the reconstruction of the League's security protocol on a basis that Great Britain and her dominions will be able to approve. The second of these possibilities will be the subject of a talk between Mr. Chamberlain and M. Herriot.

Y.M.C.A. Here Sets Record in Gymnasium Use

Topping all previous records for gymnasium attendance during the month of February, W. A. Reynolds, director of physical education in central branch Y.M.C.A. reported yesterday a total of 22,000 men and boys used the two gymnasiums last month. The increased attendance has taxed the locker capacity so heavily that 100 new lockers are being installed in the business men's club rooms.

This large attendance is an evidence, according to Mr. Reynolds, of the interest successful business men are taking in physical fitness.

CITY TO BUY MORE RANCHES

Purchase of Score, Comprising Three Thousand Acres, in Owens Valley Authorized

Purchase of twenty-three separate ranches, comprising about 3000 acres, in the Bishop area of the Owens Valley was authorized yesterday by the Board of Public Service Commissioners.

The purchases were made through W. W. Watterson, Bishop banker, and were approved by the board on the recommendation of its special Owens Valley committee, which was appointed in an effort to conciliate the differences between the city and the ranchers of the valley.

Through the purchase the city secures the water rights on these tracts and the board stated that its announced policy of being prepared to buy at reasonable prices all privately-owned land in the valley irrigation district, which consists of approximately 25,000 acres, will be continued.

Further land purchases in the valley by the city are expected in a short time, it was stated. Negotiations looking toward these purchases are being conducted by the board's special committee at the present time. Though the amount paid for the ranches whose purchase was announced yesterday was not given, it was stated that it was approximately the same as the average paid by the board for similar land previously purchased in the same region.

"In authorizing the purchase of these twenty-three ranches in the Bishop area, the Public Service Commission has acted in accordance with the resolution of a policy adopted several weeks ago," President Del Valle stated. "We were informed by a committee representing the various ditch companies of the valley that the ranchers wanted to sell. In answer, our commission announced that it was willing to buy their lands at fair and reasonable prices. I sincerely trust that we may be able to carry through speedily the program that was set underway so that there may be brought about a permanent settlement of the valley controversy."

Actor de Cine Puesto en Libertad

LA HABANA, Marzo 6.—El Presidente Zayas, de Cuba, ha otorgado su indulto, para que se ponga en inmediata libertad a Ernest Hilliard, actor americano que había sido condenado a 180 días de prisión. Los residentes americanos de esta ciudad están indignados ante la manera como fue llevado Hilliard a una celda por un supuesto delito, del que afirman es enteramente inocente. Hilliard fue acusado de haber besado a una muchacha cubana, que estaba sentada en un automóvil, hacia cuyo estribo saltó por juego el mencionado actor.

La señorita no presentó absolutamente ninguna queja. Esta fue presentada por dos abogados jóvenes de Matanzas, que se hallaban en el automóvil y tomaban parte en un alegre desfile de carnaval.

Hilliard estaba tratando de interrumpir un rato la formación, para que una cámara fotográfica sacara una cinta de anuncio del carnaval. Saltó al estribo del auto en que iban dos señoritas y los dos abogados, que eran sus acompañantes. El actor agitó los brazos e imitó a los muchachos cubanos cuando requiebran a sus cubanitas en las festividades de carnaval.

No pudiendo hablar ni entender español, se le citó ante un juez de lo correccional, en el palacio de justicia, sin que se le permitiera tener defensor ni intérprete, y ni aun siquiera ponerse en comunicación con el cónsul americano, James W. Whitfield. Fue sentenciado a trabajos forzados por 180 días.

Durante tres días estuvo preso el americano en una celda indecente llena de alimañas, hasta que los americanos de Cuba se enteraron del asunto, e hicieron representaciones tales en palacio, que el Presidente Zayas otorgó el perdón.

La indignación de la colonia americana de la Habana creció de punto cuando se supo que los directores de la compañía "White Mise", con quien vino Hilliard a la Habana, se les había acercado un individuo de Matanzas y les había dicho que podía conseguir que el juez revocara su sentencia por la suma de $1500. Fue rehusada la oferta de ese bribón.

Teme que le Hayan Plagiado a su Esposa

Ayer andaba la policía registrando los escondrijos de la gente maleante de Los Angeles, para ver si podía dar con una una joven casada, quien, según carta que ella misma dirigió a su mamá, había sido plagiada por presuntos explotadores de "Esclavas blancas", dos semanas después de su enlace, y se le tenía cautiva en un lugar cuya ubicación ignora.

"Socórranme, por Dios!", decía la carta. "Han hecho que me tiña el pelo con alheña y van a llevarme a Denver para hacerme bailar en un cabaret."

La cautiva, según se ve por la carta, entregada al Teniente Detective Williams por la señora George Hunter, habitante en la calle Cincuenta y Ocho Este, es la hija de esta última, la señora Myrtle Thompson, de 20 años de edad. Desapareció misteriosamente el 17 de Febrero último, sin dejar pista ninguna que pudieran seguir para encontrarla su marido, Lyle Thompson, y su mencionada mamá.

Desesperado por la tragedia que ha trastornado su hogar, el joven esposo está ayudando a la policía en sus pesquisas, y dándoles los nombres de todas las amistades que tenía la joven antes de su matrimonio, a fin de que la policía pueda interrogar a éstas y resolver quizá el misterioso enigma.

"Después de mi enlace, me metí con gente mala", decía la carta; pero no se daban en ésta más pormenores sobre el plagio, pues parece evidente que el recado fue escrito a toda prisa en algún momento en que añojó la vigilancia de los secuestradores de la joven.

Agrega la nota que la cuadrilla de plagiarios se compone de seis hombres y de "una mujer rubia". Dice además que los únicos hilos para identificar a los individuos son los apodos de dos de ellos: "Lindy" y "Blackie".

Hockey

El más importante juego de hockey de la temporada va a tener probablemente lugar el lunes por la noche en el Palais de Glace, pues el pesado y poderoso equipo de los Monarcas, que va ahora a la cabeza de la liga de hockey de esta ciudad, contenderá con los seis de Bill Lane, del Club Atlético de Hollywood.

Si ganare el partido Hollywood, pasará a ocupar el primer lugar. De lo contrario, la ventaja de los Monarcas aumentará considerablemente. Por todo lo que puede preverse, se trata de un partido interesantísimo, pues ambos clubs tienen ases patinadores de reputación mundial. Chum Irvine y Carl Jacobs, de los Monarcas, son dos muchachos que están siempre en su juego. McKuster y Red Oakley son las figuras principales del equipo de Hollywood.

George L. Eastman, Fred Smith, Frank Galloway, James Irsfeld y Bert Hartwell suplican a todos los miembros del club estén presentes la noche del lunes para animar a los muchachos y conducirlos a la victoria.

RIO OVERRUN WITH SURPLUS OF TAXICABS

Since an enterprising American concern started four years ago to sell automobiles to Rio de Janeiro chauffeurs on the installment plan, the city has become overcrowded with taxicabs.

Of the 6000 machines in the city, nearly 6000 operate for hire, and the owner-chauffeurs have constantly to work overtime to meet their payments.

Relief, however, is expected from another direction. At the present time the roads are so bad it is impossible to drive more than four or five miles outside the city with any comfort; hence long-distance trips are unknown. A new and good road is being built to Petropolis, a summer resort thirty miles away, and by the end of 1925 there doubtless will be a fine highway running from this city to Sao Paulo, 250 miles to the west.

These improved roads, it is believed, will make automobile riding so popular that thousands of new machines will have to be imported.—[Exchange.

The $25,000 appropriation of traveling expenses for the President of the United States has stood some twenty years, or since the time when Congress legislated against railway passes. Presidents theretofore had ridden on special trains at no direct cost to themselves or the government.

LUMBERMEN QUIT STICKS

Train Load of Eastern Dealers Come Out of Tall Timber For Good Time in Southland

Eighty members of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, representing retail lumber and Middle Atlantic States, arrived once-over yesterday.

The party is in charge of E. L. Raftery, traffic manager of the association, whose headquarters are in Rochester, N. Y. The lumbermen, who left home early last month, travel in a special train and have visited all but one of the important lumber sections of the United States.

"We are through with lumber for the time being and stopped over in Los Angeles only to have a good time," said Mr. Raftery. "This is the sixth annual excursion of this kind conducted by our association, and its object is purely educational.

ENLIGHTING TOUR

"The tour was inaugurated in the first instance to give our retail lumber dealers a chance to see exactly how lumber is produced. We visit the country's big timber areas, spend some time in the lumber camps, inspect the sawmills and make a study of transportation systems. When a dealer has seen all the effort it costs to lay boards and planks in his yards in the East he is in a position to meet objections of customers in regard to the high cost of lumber."

The traffic manager stated that the tour, among other things, had enlightened the lumbermen in regard to the vast extent of the timber resources of this country and dealers from all the New England in Los Angeles to give this city the had served to allay to some extent such misgivings as some of them had entertained as to how long the forests will hold out.

"In Lane county, Oregon, we were entertained by a Chamber of Commerce whose president informed us that there is enough timber still standing in that county to build a fifty-foot board walk, three inches thick, from Lane county to the moon," Mr. Raftery said.

"He suggested further that the addition to the county's timber resources by natural growth during the seventeen days since we left home was sufficient to build 5000 moderately-sized homes. I suppose this man probably knew what he was talking about, and in any event his statements helped still our fear that we might soon find ourselves without a stick of timber on the place."

LEAVE TOMORROW

The lumbermen will resume their journey tomorrow, going from here to San Diego and from there east over the Southern Pacific. The only remaining timber area of importance to be visited is in Louisiana, where the party will spend two or three days.

The visitors were the guests of E. J. Stanton & Sons yesterday, and after a luncheon at Flintridge Country Club, were taken on a tour of the city and the motion-picture studios.

Element Beaten at Almost Every Turn

Federation's Measures Are Snowed Under

Democrats Get Republican Aid.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
PHOENIX, March 6.—The legislature now entering its session especially has been noted as the first since Statehood when the radical element has had a large voice. This element has affected Gov. Hunt, whose influence in the session appears has been negligible. Less than a dozen members of the house and only five in the Senate appear to have given him any measure of fealty. Incidentally, this also covers what in both legislatures has been called the labor bloc, which introduced measures sponsored by the State Federation of Labor and which has had almost total lack of success.

The Governor's main fight has been against the Corporation Commission, which he declared to have arrogated unto itself executive, judicial and legislative powers. In this the Governor is conceded to have been correct in his statement, the legislative majority appears to have considered the matter largely a personal one, possibly directed against Commissioner Chaney and possibly inspired by a desire to add further powers to the executive office. So the Governor's suggestions that the Legislature initiate a constitutional amendment that will turn the commission's powers back to itself, met no legislative reaction.

GOVERNOR UNHEEDED

There is some inclination to view the Governor's attitude as a reaction against the effects of the corporation laws in which Arizona was involved at the time of Statehood. But, in a letter lately written by the Governor's secretary, Mr. Chaney, mainly is expressed dissatisfaction with the manner in which the laws are administered. The letter recites: "There is urgent need for a revision of the laws governing the financing of utilities. I am advised that the present laws are too rigid, while others are lax. The Governor has called the attention of the Legislature to this situation as it affects the Corporation Commission, with the suggestion that the plenary powers of the commission be limited. He has urged a constitutional amendment that would limit the powers of the commission to those granted by the Legislature." The letter is added: "An identity of interests exists between California and Arizona which should be better understood and developed." The Legislature has not heeded executive recommendations.

VETO LINE IGNORED

The Governor wanted the Legislature to give him $100,000 for disposal by him in further surveys of the Colorado River, or, if surveys that might determine the degree of benefit that might secure from use of the river's flow. This was interpreted to mean the high-line canal, opposition very much in disfavor with the legislatures, save those closely connected to reclamation. The appropriation has been refused and the high-line has been referred to very often by its proponents in the legislature. There even has been continued refusal to repeated efforts to allow on the floor of the house the leading advocate of the high-line, who is assumed to have married the Governor in the latter's opposition to the Colorado River compact.

Numerous writing few bills have been sent the Governor and no vetoes have been returned. But the administration bill that passed the Senate and seems certain in the House is understood to have a veto, as well as several bills directed against the present system of continuing politicians in office. In all of this the power and influence has been felt. For the Republicans are few in number. But, starting with the reorganization, they have been joined by the Democratic conservatives, thus, in several instances, defeating the radicals into the

McNAMARA CASE IS SET FOR TODAY

Former Justice of State Supreme Court in Indiana to Preside

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, March 6.—Fred C. Gause, Newcastle, former judge of the State Supreme Court, was selected today as special judge to try the case of blackmail against John J. McNamara, secretary and business agent of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Union of Marion county and Indianapolis. McNamara, confessed dynamiter and ex-convict, is held for his activities as the leader of unionists in a two-year labor war, which all but paralyzed the building industry in Central Indiana.

Judge Gause, when notified this morning of his selection from a list of five recognized authorities on criminal law, asked for a day to consider the matter. Late this afternoon, however, he notified Judge James A. Collins of the Marion Criminal Court from whom McNamara obtained a change of venue, that he would accept. He will be sworn to his duty tomorrow morning. He said he will set Saturday morning at 9 o'clock as the time for arraignment. He has so notified William H. Remy, County Prosecutor, and Eph Inman and Charles E. Cox, leading the counsel for the defense.

Though Cox is silent and has assumed a surly attitude toward the prosecution of the case, it is known that he will attack the validity of the indictments with a motion to quash on the grounds that they fail to set out the money or advantage that is alleged to have been obtained through the alleged threats. The prosecution admits they are pioneering in the field and contend that money does not have to change hands to constitute blackmail. This is the first case of its kind ever in the Indiana courts.

WIFE ASKS ALIMONY OF $500 A WEEK

Actress Says Townsley Has $100,000 Income; She Charges Cruelty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 6.—Lenore Masso, actress-wife of Barry Townsley, actor and playwright, accompanied her counsel to Supreme Court today in asking Justice Mullan to grant her $500 a week alimony and $5000 counsel fees, pending trial of her suit for separation, charging cruelty and nonsupport.

They were married November 29, 1923, after they had fallen in love with each other while both were playing the leading roles in "The Bootleggers." Their happiness was short lived, the actress avers, frequent beatings and black eyes causing the disillusionment and the present court action.

In opposing the alimony motion, Townsley denied the acts of cruelty charged by his wife and blamed their marital troubles upon her cravings for $14-a-day hotel rooms, expensive automobiles and liquor, which caused repeated disputes between them.

After counsel for the actress had informed the court that Townsley's income was close to $100,000 a year and that his profits alone from his production of "Princess April" were $46,000, Justice Mullan reserved decision.

Brothers Stage Duel With Axes in Tennessee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GREENEVILLE (Tenn.) March 6.—A bloody duel with axes was fought in the Doughty woods, near here, by George and Lloyd Johnson, brothers, in which both were injured. The men used the axes with which they were cutting timber.

Lloyd is in a serious condition at the Greeneville Hospital. George is not so badly hurt, having only a bad cut in the scalp. Lloyd is said to have been struck on the head and on the back.

The men, it was said, had been cutting wood and dividing it equally. One claimed the other had taken more than he had, and the fight resulted. George Johnson is 60 years of age, Lloyd is 55, and has ten children. The two families live in the same house near Greeneville.

"The World's Greatest Buy"

Everyone Says It—Sales Prove It

HUDSON COACH $1585 SEDAN

5-Pass. $2050 | 7-Pass. $2150

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone. That is acknowledgment of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle.

The reasons for that position affect all motor car buying. They cannot be ignored.

A supreme and exclusive motor principle, adding power, smoothness, performance, without added weight, cylinders or cost.

The largest production of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world—and the value advantages of that position.

Actual proof of greatest value—which is SALES.

And now the greatest price advantage with the finest quality Hudson ever offered.

It is only as you find the real comparisons for Hudson qualities among the costliest cars that the enormous difference in price is so astonishing.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance.

And with all this capacity and flexibility Hudson keeps the economy, simplicity and easy maintenance of the "Six."

Hudsons are noted for high resale value. They remain sound mechanically for years. Old models are not made obsolete by sweeping chassis or body changes. After ten years no advancement has been found to displace Super-Six leadership based on its patented, exclusive principle.

At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

$498 For those who desire, special arrangements have been made whereby a Hudson Coach may be purchased for a First Payment of $498. The remaining payments conveniently arranged $498

M'CORMICK WILL FILED

Estate of Senator Valued at Two Million; Widow Gets Income; Dawes Named Co-Trustee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 6.—Two million dollars is the estimate of the value of the late Senator Medill McCormick's estate, it became known today with the filing of his will in Probate Court.

The income from this sum is left to the Senator's widow, and at her death the estate is to be divided among their son and daughters, unless Mrs. McCormick makes other disposition by her will.

Vice-President Charles G. Dawes is made co-trustee of the estate with the widow.

In the document, Mr. McCormick explained that no bequests had been made to charitable or other public purposes, "because during my life time, at the instance and under the guidance of my wife, I have contributed to such purposes, and I expect that my wife will continue so to do, more wisely than I could by my will."

He expressed the wish that his brother, Col. Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, should exercise supervision of the associations and conduct of the senator's son, John Medill, "in order that my son may be suitably prepared to administer such property as may ultimately come into his possession, and may be brought up in the tradition of public service which has been maintained in our family."

Referring to his request that Vice-President Dawes should act with Mrs. McCormick, the will explains the selection was made "because of his life friendship for my father-in-law, Marcus A. Hanna, and my wife."

Besides John Medill, there are two girls, Kathrina and Elizabeth Ruth.

Senator McCormick did not own any stock in The Chicago Tribune, his attorneys said, although he formerly was president of the company and editor and publisher of The Tribune before he was elected to public office. A codicil of the will provided for disposal of any Tribune stock which might come to the Senator from the estate of his mother, Mrs. Robert Sanderson McCormick, who survives her son.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Jack Dempsey was handed an ultimatum by the New York State Athletic Commission today when that body, after reorganizing during the absence of Chairman George E. Brower by electing James A. Farley as chairman, telegraphed Dempsey to notify the commission within twenty-four hours whether he would accept or decline the challenges of Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons in the order in which they were filed. The Wills challenge is dated February 17, 1925, and that of Gibbons, February 24, 1925.

Commissioners Farley and Muldoon met and cast their votes for Farley as chairman. Then they shot this telegram to Dempsey:

"There are filed at this office two challenges to you to box for the heavyweight championship—your title; first, Harry Wills, filed February 17, 1925; second, Tom Gibbons, filed February 24, 1925. These challenges are supported by a forfeit of $2500 each.

"The period of time fixed by the law of the State—six months—in which you have to defend your title has expired. You are requested by the commission to accept or decline these challenges in the rotation in which they are filed. Please wire your answer to this office within twenty-four hours."

CHAIRMAN OBJECTS

Former Chairman Brower voiced strenuous objections to the procedure, which ended with the elevation of Farley and to the decision with respect to the challenges of Wills and Gibbons to Dempsey.

"It appears that they took advantage of my absence in proceeding as they have done," said Brower. "The action is not legal, however, because the regular meeting day is Tuesday."

The possibility of opposition from official quarters to a Dempsey-Wills match was discounted by Chairman Farley.

"I believe that Dempsey should defend his title against Wills and I believe that the man in the street wants to see Dempsey against Wills," said Chairman Farley. "This talk of opposition to the match from official quarters is all bosh so far as I know. I know

HOLDS AN OPTION ON CHAMPION

Tex Rickard Says Dempsey Will Fight for Him This Year or Not at All

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6.—"If Jack Dempsey fights in 1925 it will be under my promotion," Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, said tonight, after a long conference with Teddy Hayes, Dempsey's trainer and personal representative.

"Hayes gave me definite assurance from Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, that the champion will risk his title in a match promoted by me in 1925, and no other promoter in the East can get his services.

"Kearns expects to arrive here next week. He will definitely close articles at that time."

Rickard said that his idea was to have Dempsey meet the winner of the Wills-Gibbons match which he intends to promote at the Yankee Stadium this summer. The Dempsey bout, he said, would be held some time in September, probably at the Yankee Stadium.

Hayes is in New York to appear in an indictment charging him with alleged conspiracy to transport motion-picture films of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. His case has been called for next Tuesday.

DUFFY DEMAND BLOCKING BOUT

Oakland Envoy Meets Doyle to No Avail

Northern Boxer's $15,000 Price is Refused

Promoter Offers $10,000 for Walker Scrap

BY PAUL LOWRY

Tommy Simpson of Oakland breezed down from the north yesterday to talk over the Mickey Walker-Jimmy Duffy situation with Jack Doyle, but when they finished the exercises Doyle said the match was still up in the air.

Simpson came south at the request of Doyle and represented Harry Broom, manager of Duffy, at the meeting.

The $15,000 demanded by Duffy to meet Walker in a title match is the snag holding up the match. Doyle has offered Duffy $10,000, and he won't raise the ante a single cent.

That's all he is willing to gamble on Duffy, and inasmuch as Walker has practically refused to fight for anybody in California until he has given Doyle another shot at his services, it looks as though Duffy is out of luck unless he comes down off his high horse.

OTHERS ON HORIZON

There are plenty of other good fighters in the clearing waiting for a chance to go on with the welter king, so he won't want for a match when he gets ready to fight.

Bobby Barrett, who strung Duffy on the floor two or three years ago in he East, is in the city and perfectly willing to enter the ring with Mickey. He and Dode Bercot of Seattle went ten rounds in the best fight staged at Vernon under the new law last Tuesday, and the local fans would just as soon see him against Walker as Duffy.

If the Walker-Duffy bout is finally arranged, Doyle said, it will be held in the Vernon ball park, an open-air show some afternoon.

Godfrey Accepts Date

George Godfrey landed in a top spot quicker than anybody would have guessed after looking at him. Vic Alexander, a dusky gent with a courageous heart, has consented to tangle with George in the proposed open air show at Wilmington March 21.

The promoters hope to put on a big card this date while the whole fleet is here, and plan to have at least half the contestants bona-fide representatives of the navy.

Here's the way they have planned it as far as they have gone:

George Godfrey vs. Vic Alexander, 10 rounds.

Eddie Huffman (navy light heavyweight champ) vs. Nick Newman.

Mike Hector (middleweight champion of the navy) vs. an opponent to be selected.

Sailor Spence vs. Jack Ketchell.

Roper Arrives

Capt. Bob Roper, who is to mix with tall Ralph Smith at Doyle's Tuesday, arrived in the city yesterday, but did not work out for his coming match. He put in an appearance at Dempsey's gym dolled out like a million dollars and supporting a limber cane.

TOP LYCEUM PROGRAM TONIGHT

Seth Strelinger, State Boxing Commissioner, has lined up another good show for this evening at the Lyceum. The fistic boss is pinch-hitting for Dick Donald. K. O. DEMPSEY LYCEUM REFEREE

Heavyweight Champ Third Man in the Ring for Tonight's Main Event

Jack Dempsey will referee the six-round main event between Gene Delmont and K. O. Mars at the Lyceum Club tonight. These tough boys, who weigh in at 133 pounds, have a reputation that will force them to put up a first-class fight or brave the disapproval of the fans. Mars is credited with a victory over Jack Zivic. All Delmont wants is a chance at Mars. He has it.

The semi-wind-up is featured with a match between Baby Joe Gans and Sailor Joe Reaume, who meet at 138 pounds and will also go six rounds. The sailor is reputed to love to mix it, so promises to furnish plenty of action.

Perry Bilvens meets Jack Grande in the special event of four frames. There are two more four-round battles scheduled on the card. Bud Selby meets Jack Colbert and Sailor Carter tackles Jimmy Derring. Ace Hudkins and Frankie Fink furnish an added attraction.

In a clash that sparkled with brilliant performances despite the steady drizzle and intense cold the sophomores won the annual U.S.C. interclass track meet at the Coliseum yesterday afternoon. The winners totaled 58 points as against 36 for the juniors, their closest rivals. The seniors trailed in third place with 25 digits and the freshmen were last with 19 markers.

If you will take the trouble to go over the times and distances recorded below you will find it hard to believe that Coach Dean Cromwell can spend much time moaning over the loss of Keith Lloyd, the fleet-footed sprinter who was declared ineligible two days ago. Athletes of all sizes, shapes and descriptions—but all of them capable of doing something well—were on hand and the records listed here indicate a wealth of Trojan material.

Jack Rappaport Gets Complete Lacing in Ten-Round Hollywood Main Bout; Marks Beats Hart

Several hundred Pacific Coast fight fans got a look at Jack Rappaport, the sensational welterweight who featured on all the big eastern cards last year, and weren't so enthusiastic over him, Pete Latzo, a local product, administering a complete and perfect beating in the ten-round main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium last night. The fight was slow and unsatisfying from the first round to the last. Latzo was the winner before the first minute was over, the only good thing about Rappaport being that he could take more punishment than a Ford and still keep going.

The Easterner was ahead in the first round, having landed a few hard lefts to Latzo's stomach, when he ran his jaw into a right cross and seemed to lose interest in the bout. Latzo climbed all over him then and managed to take the round. Pete won the second with one hard punch. They were fighting at long range when Latzo stepped in and thumped Jack soundly on the chin, increasing his disinterestedness in the bout.

The third was even and Rappaport won the fourth. Latzo was a little too confident and took two or three bingles on the chin and in the culinary department. In the fourth, they both fanned the air considerably but Rappaport did it better and got the round.

Latzo won the fifth and sixth by large margins. Anything less than a dump-truck or Rappaport would have gone down before Pete's attack, but the Easterner held on. Latzo won the eighth, ninth and tenth cantos easily and had his hand raised to the tune of many feet leaving the arena.

MARKS VICTORIOUS

Georgie Marks copped a decisive decision over Billy Hart in the six-round semi-wind-up. Marks was too clever for his opponent and repeated the beating that he administered to him a few weeks ago. Hart tried hard and landed one or two hard swipes that didn't do Georgie any good, but they failed to stop him.

Getting away to a fast start, Marks won the first two rounds by a wide margin and was going like a whirlwind in the third. Hart made periodical rallies that stopped the avalanche. In the fourth round, Georgie hit Billy with a speeding right cross and Billy hit the canvas with a resounding crash. From then on, there

BABE RUTH LIMPS THROUGH PRACTICE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 6.—Babe Ruth limped through practice this morning, and his left leg stiffened on him overnight. However, George Herman is getting his batting orbs adjusted and lined some old Ruthian swats into the outfield at Crescent Lake Park. Urban Shocker still has a cold on his chest, and though the big spitball pitcher visited the park this morning he did not get into uniform.

It was cooler today, though yesterday's wind died down considerably. Some are wondering if California would not be a better training ground.

Thrilling Ice Hockey Game on for Monday

The greatest hockey game of the season is expected to take place Monday night at the Palais De Glace when the heavy and powerful Monarchs team, who are now leading the local hockey league, tangle with Bill Lane's Hollywood Athletic Club six.

If Hollywood wins the game they will go into first place. On the other hand the Monarchs will have a substantial lead. From all appearances it should be a great game, as both clubs have world-renowned ice stars. Chum Irvine and Carl Jacobs of the Monarchs are two boys that are always in the game. McKuster and Red Oakley are the leading figures for Hollywood.

George L. Eastman, Fred Smith, Frank Galloway, James Irafeld and Bert Hartwell want all the members of the club to be on hand Monday night to help cheer the boys to a victory.

SEALS OFF TO PLAY CARDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, March 6.—Manager Bert Ellison is taking a squad of eighteen players, eight of them pitchers, to Stockton, in the morning for the games with the St. Louis Cardinals there Saturday and Sunday.

While one crowd is playing the Cardinals, another squad under the management of Coach Nick Williams, will be entertaining the Kansas City Blues here tomorrow and Sunday. Crockett and Mitchell will do the hurling Saturday against the Blues while McSweeney and Jeff Pfeffer will be on the turre' Sunday.

With the arrival today of Catcher Sam Agnew and Third Baseman Eddie Mulligan, the San Francisco roster is intact. Agnew is in midseason form as a result of working with the Santa Clara collegians whom he has been coaching this spring. Mulligan only needs a few days' toil before he will be ready to step at top speed.

KENNY BOYER TO CAPTAIN TROJAN CASABA TOSSERS

Les Turner

Kenny Boyer, brilliant U.S.C. forward, was last night elected captain of the 1926 Trojan basketball team. Boyer's election followed the return of the local quintet from its invasion of the great Northwest. The verdict was a unanimous one.

The keen-eyed forward came to U.S.C. from San Bernardino, where he was a great star in his prep days. Two years ago he was the outstanding player on the frosh quintet and last season his eagle eye kept the Trojans in the running with California and Stanford. In the year just closed Boyer was high-point man of the squad and his aggressiveness made him extremely popular.

Two Southern California Conference Track Meets Billed Today

OCCIDENTAL TO MEET CALTECH

Tigers Doped as Easy Winners Over Engineers

Pomona College Plays Host to Grizzly Squad

Sagehens Also in for Rather a Soft Engagement

Two Southern California Conference track teams are on tap today, Occidental going to Pasadena to meet the Caltech team, while Pomona entertains the local University of California athletes at Claremont. The Tigers and Sagehens are rated easy winners, but there will be considerable interest in both meets because fans are a bit in the dark as to comparative strength of the two teams, and the clashes will afford a chance to check up.

However, anybody getting a line on the Oxy squad will be something of a magician, for Coach Joe Pipal will be without the services of some nine athletes, all of whom will probably win points against Pomona later in the season. Capt. Phil Buckman, sprint star, is likely to be seen only in the relay, while Purser, Greg and Buxton, who also perform in the short races, are scheduled to sit in the stands.

Nick Carter, stellar miler, will not run, and neither will Lavelle, another long-winded athlete. Roy Wheeler, who fusses with the weights, won't be in a suit, and the same goes for Bud Nash. The last-named athlete is good for approximately ten points in any conference meet, his specialty being the sprints and broad jump. Vic Conde, another weight man, is slated to perform with the baseball team today, so that lets him out, also.

With all these gentlemen out of the festivities, a lot of unknown athletes will get their chance to shine. Stevens, Fulton, Renlue and Spencer are to handle the weights, while Broadhead, Morey and Daily will strut their stuff in the sprints. Morey will run the quarter, with Montgomery in the half and Miller and Gardiner in the two long races. Tanner and Wall will be called upon in the hurdle races. The high jump falls to Frank Bradshaw, Fulton, Bierer and Creswell should do well in the broad jump.

Coach Bob Strehle of Pomona hasn't any very sick men, and will probably let most of his stars perform today. They should take at least 100 points from the Grizzlies, in the estimation of Harry Trotter, local coach, who has been hard hit by the loss of a bunch of men. He still has Richardson, a good sprinter; Drake and Schmidt, distance stars; and Drummond, weight man, to bring him a few points.

Bob Maxwell, Homer Frisbie, Earl Merritt, Champ Clark, Paul Rentchler, Bill Snyder, Hugh Pinney, Frank Hamilton and Chuck Eaton ought to win first places for the Sagehens.

Crescent Four Out to Bowl Over Howards

With a number of new faces in the line-up and with several fresh ponies in their string, the members of the Crescent Polo Club four expect to give the Howard Auto team a fast game tomorrow afternoon on the field of the Crescent Club when the two meet in the third round of play of the Greater Los Angeles Pony polo tournament.

Grosvenor Norris has been added to the regular team of the Crescent Club and seems to be coming along in great shape. He is a southpaw and wields a mean mallet, his driving being the best thing about his play. He plays a very good defensive game and is a hard rider. Norris will play number three position and will undoubtedly furnish the crowd with a lot of thrills as his style of play is very sensational.

During the past week a number of new ponies from the East have been added to the Crescent string, among them a fine black mare which shows a lot of speed and apparent experience at the mallet game.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THE presence of George Godfrey, the "Black Shadow of Leiperville," in Los Angeles will accomplish at least two things. It will send the local heavyweight crop to cover and it will bring peace to the sporting editors, who will only have to say "Godfrey" when braying managers begin their long-winded harangues.

Mistah Godfrey may not be the best heavyweight in the world. Not even his manager, Jimmy Daugherty, the "Baron of Leiperville," claims that; but Jimmy does say that when you leave Jack Dempsey out of the talk there's nobody left in the field who can take the number of George.

Willis, Gibbons, Romero Rojas, Renault and the rest of the leading lights are all said to have become consistent ducksons whenever the name of Godfrey is mentioned. The big fella has had plenty of fine schooling, Sam Langford first took him in tow, then Jack Johnson, and he worked in Dempsey's camp for the champion's last two fights.

The Wilmington promoters are trying to rib up an open-air show for Saturday, the 21st inst., when the combined here. Godfrey and Vic Alexander are carded for the main event, and Eddie Huffman heads the fleet fistic luminaries.

It would have been a wonderful attraction for them to have secured Huffman and Fuente for that date, but Jack Doyle beat them to it and these two colorful scrappers tangle at Vernon the 17th inst.

It seems hard to understand why the promoters are passing up this Panamanian, King Solomon. He's a light-heavyweight, young, tough and strong, who has been fighting negroes in the South American republics. He's had eighteen fights and won nine of them by knockouts.

He may not be any wonder, but he can't be any punker than some of the light heavies the promoters have been dishing up to us hereabouts, and new faces are more interesting to look at than the same old seven and six.

King Solomon's manager, Wirt Ross, says the big chap's contract is worth $10,000 if he wants to sell it, and produces as evidence a telegram from George Lawrence in New York offering to pay that much for Ross's seven-year hook-up with Solomon. Lawrence is a partner of George Woodman, manager of Sam Langford when the Boston Tar Baby was in his prime.

Jack Root hasn't run out of b.b. ammunition, but he has just about run out of suckers. The only casualties during the week have been Tommy Loughran and Eddie Huffman, both of whom were shelled from the rear and made to believe Mexican ticks were nesting in their hair. Loughran is an immaculate sort of a chap, and he ruined a perfectly good hair part striving to sweep the animals from his head with big boxing gloves on his hands. Eddie Huffman was almost vicious in his attack, and those "in the know" had many a hearty laugh at his expense.

Jack, who is going to manage the new Olympic Club when it rises as a stately edifice at the corner of Eighteenth and Grand, says he is soon to begin talking about the new-fangled air-cushion chairs to be installed at the new club.

KEARNS IGNORES ULTIMATUM

Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, did not seem greatly agitated over the action by the New York Boxing Commission yesterday in giving the title-holder twenty-four hours to answer the challenge of Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons.

Kearns said in part:

"The New York commission has no authority to tell us who and when we must fight. We are only interested in the New York promoters and will consider the offers of Tex Rickard or Charley Henderson for matches in the East. Further than that we will stand pat."

When seen at his gymnasium here yesterday Dempsey issued similar statements as those given out by Kearns.

CHAFFEY TEAM ON TOP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, March 6.—In a track meet this afternoon with Pomona and Citrus Union high schools, Chaffey High carried off the honors with a score of 77 points. Pomona took second place with 39 and Citrus Union third with 26.

Some of the more important events included the 100-yard dash, in which Wilcox of Chaffey took first, Naftel of Chaffey second, Pomona third and Citrus fourth. Whistler of Chaffey broke the season's shot-put record for California with a distance of 49ft. 8in. All four places were won by Chaffey. In the discus, Platt of Chaffey took first with a distance of 118ft. 7in., Naftel of Chaffey was second, Wood of Citrus third, and Gaul of Chaffey fourth. Arnett of Chaffey and Edinger of Pomona tied in the broad jump, their distance being 20ft. 9in. In the relay the Chaffey team ran away with the honors, their time being 1m. 32 2-10 s. Paine of Chaffey captured the first place in the low hurdles with Citrus second, Chaffey third and Pomona fourth.

MANUAL, LINCOLN, L.A. WIN

Triumph by Lop-Sided Scores in Early Season Track Competition; Rain Halts Meet at Inglewood

Yesterday's little downpour seemed to agree with Ed Rich's Los Angeles High School track team, the Pioneers defeating Jefferson, 95 to 18, at Housh Field. Allensworth's victory in the low hurdles was the only first place won by the Democrats. L. A. swept five events cleaner than a canine's molar.

Although more than one surprise was pulled, as is usual in an opening meet of the season, the big thrill came in the relay, when a Pioneer speeder, running neck and neck with a Jefferson man, dropped the baton and lost forty yards. L. A. had to hurry to win, but the Blue and White anchor man loped in something like fifty yards a winner.

Cuthbert got the first big cheer of the afternoon when he sprinted past Mullard to win the half mile. The little distance ace didn't see Cuthbert until he had a short lead with a short distance to go. Capt. Pott Reed won both weight events without extending himself, but he didn't set any records. Sullivan surprised everybody by losing the century, but winning the broad jump, Matthis, last year's letterman in the broad jump had to take third. Sullivan leaped 21 feet. The summary:

TRACK EVENTS

Lincoln High's tracksters, who look like one of the strongest teams in the city this year, got off to an auspicious start yesterday, when they romped over Franklin, the final score being 79 to 29. The meet was held on the Lincoln High field, Jupe Pluvius doing the weeping for the Kiteflyers. Jupe spilled tears rather copiously, when he saw that the Blue and Buff was doomed to disappointment, and almost succeeded in stopping the meet.

A dark-skinned gemmun by the name of Floyd proved to be the "big cracker" in the Lincoln bunch. He ran off with the 100-yard dash and the 220, grabbing off ten digits for his efforts and running both races in good time considering the condition of the track. Eddie of Franklin made the dark boy do some tall traveling to win the 220-yard dash.

Bowles of Franklin and Searcy of Lincoln furnished the crowd present with some excitement in the 880-yard run. Searcy was figured to cop the event. He allowed his opponent to lead him to the last 220, when he cut loose with a wild sprint. Much to the surprise of everyone Bowles uncorked a little sprint of his own and beat his rival to the tape.

Eddie of the Kiteflyers won the shot put with a heave of 43 feet 8 inches, then after the event was over he pushed the pellet 46 feet, just to prove that he could.

Coach Grant Swan, the new Lincoln mentor, deserves a lot of credit for the team he has developed this season. The Black and Orange has a well-rounded team and should go a long way. The summary:

880-yard run—Bowles (F.) first; Searcy (L.) second; McClellan (F.) third. Time, 2m. 4 2-5s.

100-yard dash—Floyd (L.) first; Fernandez (L.) second; Miller (F.) third. Time, 10 2-5s.

PETE LATZO EASY VICTOR

was no doubt as to who was going to win the battle.

Irving Goldberg and Franke Finke fought a terrible draw just before the semi-wind-up started. They were slower than a caterpillar on crutches and were about as interesting as the Congressional Record. The fans expressed their appreciation by booing and hooting when they were awake.

Johnny Gerarden won on a foul from Jack Hester in the fourth round of a fast, interesting struggle. Hester was tough and game and was making things interesting for the more clever Gerarden when he hit a trifle low. Phil Mata got a decision over Bud Selby in the curtain-raiser. The Mexican was a little too fast and clever for Selby, although the latter put up a good fight and didn't quit trying.

W-I-L-L-S BROADCASTING

BY FEG MURRAY

Here's Champion Jack with his "ear-muffs" on, listening in to discover his next opponent. "Guess I'll get station T-O-M," he muses, "his program was nice the last time I heard it—a little long-drawn out, but quite safe and satisfactory. What's this—static? No—'station W-I-L-L-S broadcasting'—gee! I don't want this—but it's so strong I'll have to listen to it—"

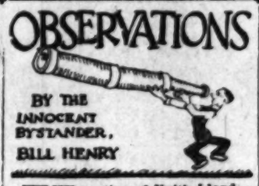
"Harry Wills, for the umpty-umpth time, repeats his challenge to Jack Dempsey, reminding him that he has been on his trail ever since July 4, 1919—and has had no satisfaction yet.

"If you were a real champion, Jack, you would have given me a fight long ago. For years I have been proclaimed the logical contender—the sports writers and the public have been solidly behind me. Voting contests in daily papers and boxing magazines have overwhelmingly showed me to be the popular choice as your opponent. Is Don Marquis' story of our battle as two old men in wheel chairs actually to come true? You have put me off long enough.

"You walked out of my fight with Firpo, Jack—you called us 'a couple of bums,' and hinted that you could whip both of us in the same ring. But don't forget, Jack, that one of 'those two bums' knocked you sprawling out of the ring at the Polo Grounds, and that many think that, but for the grace of outside help and a slow count, the 'bums' that I easily beat would have taken your title from you.

"Well, Jack, what do you say—do I get a fight?"

OBSERVATIONS



BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

THE ousting of Keith Lloyd, star Trojan sprinter, is unfortunate for U.S.C. just at this time, and is particularly unfortunate for Lloyd himself, for it leaves him with no chance to compete for his alma mater in any events. There is some talk of seeking the reinstatement of the Nebraska flash, but since action on his case as far as the Coast Conference is concerned, would be impossible before the end of the track season and it is unlikely that the Trojan athletic committee would back down on its ruling, anyway, it looks a good deal as though Lloyd were out of luck.

The Trojan sprinter, unquestionably one of the fastest college sprinters in the country, went to Nebraska two years ago, and then transferred to U.S.C. for his last two college years. In his freshman year he could not run because of the freshman rule, but he did run in some meets in his sophomore year; his junior year at U.S.C. he was ineligible because he was a transfer, and this year—his last—he is professionalized. If that isn't tough, what is?

Of course U.S.C. has a flock of other sprinters, who are far from rotten. Herschel Smith is a demon, particularly in the 220, but he has a habit of pulling muscles. Brice Taylor seems to be something of an in-and-outer, but unquestionably has every bit as much speed as Lloyd. He hasn't been running this year, but will be pushed along to get him in shape for the Stanford meet.

Smith and Taylor ought to be able to lick the Stanford sprint demons in the century, but will have to shake a leg to defeat the determined Mr. Campbell of Stanford in the furlong. Campbell has run the distance in 21 2-5s., which is better than any of the Trojan sprinters have been able to chalk up on the boards.

These transfers—to get back to Mr. Lloyd—are going to cut considerable of a swath in college athletics this year. California has a few who are liable to be heard from. Do you remember that ebony demon who was running the quarter for U.S.C. two years ago when Martz first sprang into fame? His name was Johnson. Well, he transferred to California and is eligible for track this year.

Then Walter Christie landed considerable of a find when he persuaded Mr. Gerkin of Modesto to come to California from the Modesto Junior College. Gerkin was the best prep weight man in the State two years ago, and can put the six-teen-pound shot about 46 or 47 feet. Johnson ought to rumble the quarter in less than 50s. There are a couple of boys who ought to help out a whole lot.

The transfer rule which makes an athlete ineligible for one year when he transfers from one institution to another is a good thing for the purity of college athletics, all right, but it works a very severe hardship on Southern California colleges in particular, since so many families are continually moving out here from the East and Middle West, and families frequently have athletes numbered among them.

These college rules were established and are enforced because the colleges themselves could not be trusted in the old days to live up to the spirit of true sportsmanship, and frequently induced athletes to leave one school and attend a larger one. Those athletes who transfer for legitimate reasons are penalized on account of those who commercialize their athletic ability and transfer for their own gain.

Rangers Meet Thistle Team for Soccer Cup

Clashing in the first round of the Soccer Cup Ties, two fast games are scheduled for tomorrow at Loyola Park. The feature game of the day will be held in the afternoon when the Rangers, champions of the Southern California League, hook up with the fast Thistle eleven. In the morning struggle, the Foresters, also of the Southern California loop and the Scots of the City League, meet. When these games have been played, the draw for the first round of the cup will be made. Teams from all three soccer leagues will be represented.

The Rangers, a team of cool, scientific players, should win over the Thistles in the afternoon game. The Rangers came through a hard schedule at the top of the standings, playing good soccer all the time. The Thistles contended against stronger teams and made a good showing but will probably be outsmarted by the Rangers. The Scots will probably win over the Foresters.

ANGELS ARE DOWNED BY SOAPSTERS

Rookies Lose, 10 to 4; Vernon Yannigans Beat Regulars, 8 to 5

Marty Krug's Angel rookies suffered their first defeat yesterday, falling before the White King Soaps, 10 to 4, in a practice game staged at Washington Park. The Soapsters bunched hits off Sanders and Hickok in the third and fourth frames, scoring four runs in each to sew up the contest.

Harry Johnson twirled for the White Kings, holding the Angels to eight safeties.

The Soapsters presented an all-star team and had too much experience for the Angel rookies. Ping Bodie, Ray French, Howard Lindimore and McMullen led the White King hitting attack. Score:

White Kings	10	14	3

Johnson and Jenkins, McMullen; Sanders, Hickok Gould and Thompson, Ennis.

Ed Hemingway, infielder secured from the Sacramento club for Pitcher Frank Shellenback, and Ed Bryan, the Tiger's leading hurler last season, joined the Vernon camp yesterday and went through their initial workouts. "Red" Oldham, southpaw hurler purchased from the Detroit Americans, signed his contract after a confab with Owner Ed Maier, so there was much cause for rejoicing in the Tiger camp.

The Tiger Yannigans, led by Denny Murphy, beat the Regulars, led by Truck Hannah, 8 to 5, in the first practice tilt yesterday at Maier Park. Thomas and Ludolph pitched for the losers, while Weinert and Christian did the mound duties for the Yannigans. Score:

	R.
Hannah	5
Murphy	8

Batteries—Thomas, Ludolph and Read; Weinert, Christian and Whitner.

MOSS FOX II WINNER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—Moss Fox II, running in the best form he ever displayed, won the five-and-one-half furlong sprint feature race at Tia Juana today and rewarded at the rate of more than 25-to-1. The winner broke through in the stretch after sticking in fourth position and the belated dash gave him a margin of half a length over the heavily backed favorite, Lucky Play.

The sixth was taken by Easter Bells, which again beat his old rival, Stroller. Herby Coles from the stable of Fatty Anderson, accounted for the fifth in an easy manner. The Lamb, under McHugh's hard riding, survived a stretch duel to win over Wiltrude Wood in the fourth. The favorite, Sway, finished out of the money.

After varied misfortunes, Harrigan's Heir finally won a purse when Jockey Schaefer found a clear course on the rail in the second and got up to beat Aband with ease. Summary:

First race, four and one-half furlongs—Panola (Walls,) won; Elenor Sixty (Roberts,) second; Lou Shanks (Ellis,) third. Time, :54 4-5.

TROJAN SOPHS TAKE HONORS

performance yesterday. The track was heavy, the day cold and the competition not as fast as that which Dye will face later. Further along in the afternoon he ran the 220-yard lows in 24.7 seconds, another highly creditable exhibition.

Also there was young Johnny Parsons winning the 220-yard dash in the really spectacular time of 23 seconds flat. He beat Brice Taylor at the finish. Brice has not been in training for any great length of time and showed it as he found himself tied up at the tape. When he gets in shape the dusky flash will bring a lot of joy to Cromwell's heart.

Picture a big-chested, stout-legged athlete galloping around the oval four times for a 4:35 mile. That was Ted Shawan, a transfer from the Midwest. He showed splendid form and if the day had been fair and warm would certainly have cut under 4:30.

But Houser gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions of the day when he tossed the shot 45 feet 2 inches, while the leaden weight was as slippery as a watermelon seed. Then later he picked up the discus and heaved it for a ride of 142 feet 5 inches. This little object was also wet but that seemed to make no difference to the Olympic champion.

NOVICES SHINE

Some of the real thrills of the meet came in the novice class, which was won by the frosh with 60 points. The sophs placed second with 41, the juniors scored 35 and the seniors 4. Bill Cook, the diminutive football star, copped the century and furlong, doing the former event in 10.2 seconds, better time than the regulars registered. Partridge, a big sophomore, pushed the shot out 45 feet, 11 inches. Bustard and Waterman ran each other ragged in the half-mile, the former winning in 2 minutes 10.8 seconds.

The complete summary:

L.A.A.C. PLAYERS WIN

Athletic Club Captures Honors in Telephone Domino Match With San Francisco Team

The world's first domino battle via long-distance telephone was fought Thursday night between the Los Angeles Athletic Club and the Commercial Club of San Francisco and won by the former. It was a challenge match for the interclub championship, proposed by the northern experts, and lasted until midnight. Quarter was neither asked nor granted, the players had plenty of volunteer advice, and the results were surprisingly close, the Mercury contestants copping two of the three games and losing the other by but two points.

Stanley W. Smith represented L.A.A.C. in the first game, which was played the San Francisco way—set anything and play on all doubles. Smith got away to a slow start but kept going steadily and won with a score of 63 to 53, although San Francisco was a dozen ahead about the middle.

Robert Marsh handled the local oblong ivories in the second game, Mercury style, set anything but play on first double only. This tussle was nip-and-tuck most of the way, the veteran Marsh plunking them down decisively, but Lady Luck going against him in the finish. Score, 61 to 59 in favor of the Commercial Club.

It was up to Charles E. Robson to win the final game for L.A.A.C. and he did it quite handily. Choice of style was won here and Robson elected to set a double and play on all doubles. He held the lead throughout and was not in danger at any time, coming out 61 to 54.

The Athletic Club contestants played in the lounging room, with many members and guests as spectators. President William May Garland of the club gave Mr. Marsh and others the benefit of his counsel and delivered a brief telephoned address of felicitation to the Commercial Club, which was broadcasting by radio from station KGO, Oakland.

WINTER FOOTBALL ON AT COLUMBIA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 6.—Winter football is on today at Columbia University with the arrival of Dr. Brides, head line coach, who will have charge of the early spring work. It is planned to do a little work on South Field until next week, when the candidates will move out to Baker Field.

There were more new arrivals than Dr. Brides, for four varsity players were on hand for their first workout.

ROMAN-GLENDALE NET MATCH CALLED OFF

A tennis match that would have gone a long way toward deciding the 1925 Southern California high school champions, was called off yesterday. Glendale High School's powerful squad, that has more than one notable victory to its credit, journeyed over to L. A. High to meet the undefeated Romans. Just as the first and second singles were started, it began to rain. The match was called off, another date to be set in the near future.

Bangtails Rule Roost at Ascot Racing Course

A half-dozen jumping horses, being sent around the one and one-half mile steeplechase course at Ascot Speedway yesterday, performed so sensationally that many of the auto-racing daredevils deserted their mounts and stood on the pit railing to witness the spectacular jumps over the water, brush and stone hurdles. The several hundred railbirds who were attracted to Ascot by the promise of a double bill of practice work were almost unanimous in declaring that the jumping race will be the big hit of the combination auto and horse racing program which will be staged at the speed plant tomorrow afternoon.

R. H. Baker's "Cyclone," ridden by Jockey Harrison, came to grief at the water jump, the rider being thrown clear of the stumbling horse. George Wilson, on J. C. Flores's White Wings, narrowly escaped being unseated when His mount refused to take the stone hurdle. Jacques Jaccard, constructor of the steeplechase course, has been named presiding judge for tomorrow. A number of horses from Phoenix arrived during yesterday, while the stables of Tom Mangan of Riverside, Al Meyers, Leslie Wagner, Frank Gaedes and Charles Duncan, the latter being from Puente, have been moved to Ascot. The former auto-racing emporium has taken on a decided "horsey" atmosphere, many of the dyed-in-the-wool speed fans who haunt the course during practice periods having transferred their attention to the ponies.

RAY BLADES TO HOLD DOWN REGULAR JOB

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Ray Blades, St. Louis National League outfielder, will likely be able to take his regular place in the line-up this season despite the serious arm trouble he developed in the Stockton training camp of the Cardinals. Manager Branch Rickey sent Blades to this city for treatment and the physician today announced he believed Blades would be able to throw again with his usual accuracy after a little rest.

GRISWOLD MIGRATES TO SOUTH

Former Pacific Northwest Golf Champ Coming to Los Angeles to Live

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND, March 6.—Claire Griswold, former Pacific Northwest golf champion and Oregon State champion, who has been a member of the Portland Golf Club for the past three years, will in the future play under the banner of some Southern California club. Since residing here he has been connected with the Illinois-Pacific Glass Company as city salesman and is now to be transferred to Los Angeles.

Griswold did not play much golf last year on account of rheumatism, but he had fully recovered and is now in fine health. Members of the Portland Golf Club who had observed his playing the past month were counting on him to be a big strength to the club team this year, as he showed his old-time form when he played an occasional round.

Griswold is one of the famous quartet of the Jefferson Park public links at Seattle, the others being Bon Stein and Lee Steil, who are still in Seattle, and Clark Spiers, who is now located in Los Angeles.

McAllister of Fresno, was among the first four with an 81 and C. B. "Dutch" Plark of San Gabriel, came through like a champion with an 83. Other leading scores follow:

LINCOLN (Neb.) March 6.—Release of Ray Flaskamper, shortstop, and Andy Vargas, catcher of the San Fransisco Pacific Coast League club, to the Lincoln, Western League club, was announced here today, at the Link's headquarters. The San Francisco club retains an option on the two players.

Oxy Baseball Nine Wallops U.S.C. Dents

Occidental College's baseball team opened the 1925 season yesterday by winning a practice game staged on Patterson Field, the score being 9 to 8. The University of Southern California Dental nine owned the short end of the score.

Although the game was marred to some extent by errors, being an early season affair, there was also plenty of excitement provided for those present. Up to the last half of the eighth inning the Molar Mechanics led by a 7 to 4 tally. With three men on, Solly Mishkin of the Tigers caught one of Riddle's offerings square on the nose, driving all three men home to tie the score.

In the first half of the ninth the Dents made the count uneven again by putting over a run. Oxy retaliated in its half with two markers which sewed up the contest. Hammersley started things when he smacked out a homer, tying the tally. Tanaka got a safety and De Mandel drove him home with the winning count.

Today the Tiger pill tossers will journey over to Washington Park to meet the Angel pill tossers in another practice engagement. Coach Wilkin Clark will pitch Bud Teachout, southpaw star, against the Angels, and as Oxy boasts a bunch of high-class ball players this year, it looks as if Marty Krug's gang is in for a trimming. In any case the game should provide some real thrills.

TWO CUB ATHLETES ON HOSPITAL LIST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

AVALON (Santa Catalina Island, Cal.) March 6.—Joseph Westnedge, left-handed pitcher, formerly of the Danville (Va.) baseball club, whose home is in Charlotte, N. C., and Arnold Statz, former Los Angeles Pacific Coast League club player, both of whom are members of the Chicago club of the National League in preseason training here, were placed on the sick list today.

Both of the players are suffering from colds and fever, club physicians announced. Statz will return to duty in a few days, the physicians said, but it may be necessary to send Westnedge home until he recovers.

DOWNPOUR HALTS WORK OF PIRATES

Fifty Pittsburg Athletes Are Forced to Loaf While Farmers Rejoice

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASO ROBLES, March 6.—Rain, long predicted by the old-timers and long prayed for by the farmers fell in Paso Robles this morning with the result that some fifty ball players from Pittsburg suspended their spring practice and nervously loafed around the lobby of the Hot Springs Hotel.

This is the second delay that the Pirates have had since their arrival last Saturday. The ball park which had been remade since last season, proved to be too soft for the players and they were deprived of their practice Wednesday while a gang of workmen plowed up the infield and covered it with a layer of adobe and sand.

This year's success of the club depends a great deal on the ability of the "kid infield" to hold up under the strain. With the removal of "Rabbit" Maranville from second base the infield now consists of Al Niehaus at first base, Eddie Moore at second, Pie Traynor at third, and Glenn Wright at shortstop. None of these players have voted more than three or four years.

Eddie Montague and Joe Cronin, the two 18-year-old recruits from San Francisco, enjoy the distinction of being the youngest players in the club. In Thursday's workout, Cronin looked like a veteran at shortstop and Montague went like a million at third base.

From the looks of things now the Pirates should be one of the hardest hitting clubs in the league this year. Hazen Cuyler, who is rated as the "Babe Ruth" of the club, connected with one yesterday and they are still looking for the ball somewhere in the meadows on the other side of the left-field fence.

The first practice game of the season is scheduled for Saturday and will be played between the first and second teams at the Paso Robles ball park.

Next Saturday and Sunday the Pirate Yannigans will play Seattle's first and second teams at Santa Maria.

HOLLYWOODERS WALLOP POLY

Mechanic Tracksters Lose by 83 1-2-to-29 1-2 Score

Brinker and Drummond Are Foothiller Stars

McKinnon Captures Quarter in Fifty-two Flat

Coach Bill Paige's Hollywood High tracksters romped all over the Polytechnic spikesters in yesterday's dual meet on the Foothillers' cinderpath, winning by the slightly lop-sided score of 83½ to 29½.

Brinker, Hollywood dash man, featured by copping both sprints in fast time, negotiating the century in 10 2-5s. Herscovitz of Poly ran a close second in both events.

Drummond, Hollywood weightman, hurled the discus out 119 feet, 11 inches, which should win the event in the city meet providing he can repeat the distance. Drummond also won in the shot.

The Mechanics won but two events, the mile and 440. Capt. Alex McKinnon broke the tape in the quarter in the speedy time of 52 seconds flat, while Waite won the four-lap event in 5:17. The mile was run in a hard rain, accounting for the slow time. The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Brinker (H.); Herscovitz (P.) second; Hunt (P.) third. Time, 10 2/5s.
220-yard dash—Won by Brinker (H.); Herscovitz (P.) second; Hunt (P.) third. Time, 10 4/5s.

ALMOND CROP PAYMENT MADE

Melon is Cut by Co-operative Association

San Francisco Theater Building Bonds Offered

Railroad Issue Purchased and to be Marketed

On the recommendation of General Manager T. C. Tucker, the board of directors of the California Almond Growers' Exchange, has authorized the immediate distribution of $217,966 to the membership of the almond co-operative in addition to the $3,000,000 already returned in full payment for the 1924 almond crop. This means that the exchange was able not only to market the 1924 crop and render an accounting in full, but to cut another melon by reducing the "suspense item" or revolving fund for working capital from $438,262 to $299,510.

"The management found it possible to make this recommendation," Tucker states, "owing to the splendid condition of the business. The fact that there is no carry-over crop to finance through 1925 and because material sums have been saved for several years past from the money alloted for carrying on the business makes the total needed at present for exchange operation less than heretofore. Likewise the future market is promising and for the first time the exchange has been placed in a strategic merchandising position by development of full facilities at Sacramento for shelling, packing and merchandising the almond crop of California."

In the past the California Almond Growers' Exchange having only meager shelling facilities was forced to load the market for almonds in the shell sometimes beyond the saturation point as the demand for these nuts in the shell is strictly a holiday demand. Operation of the Sacramento shelling plant which the growers own now makes it possible to divert to the shelled almond market any percentage of the crop necessary to maintain a fair price for the nuts in the shell. The plant was constructed to a great extent from funds saved over a period of years and was recently appraised at more than its original cost.

Pantages Leases House

S. W. Straus & Co. have purchased and are offering an issue of $1,750,000 first mortgage 6 per cent serial coupon bonds secured by the land and new Marshall Square Building to be erected at once at Market, Fulton and Hyde streets, San Francisco. The building is to comprise a theater of 2400 seats, leased for fifty years to Alexander Pantages; thirteen stores fronting 181 feet on Market street and 52 feet on Grove street, and 46,000 square feet of rentable office space.

These bonds are dated February 15, 1925, and mature in from three to sixteen years. Interest coupons are payable February 15 and August 15. They constitute a direct closed first mortgage on the land and building appraised at $2,903,000. Federal income tax, 2 per cent, is paid by the borrower, Market Street Bulding Corporation.

The bonds are offered at prices to yield from 6 per cent to 6.15 per cent, according to maturity.

Rail Bonds Purchased

F. J. Lisman & Co. have purchased an additional issue of $1,800,000 International Railways of Central America first mortgage 8 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due May 1, 1972.

These bonds, which are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, will be a first lien on 458 miles of railroad and equipment, including 198 miles from the Atlantic to Guatemala City and the entire mileage of 157 miles from San Salvador City to La Union on Fonseca Bay on the Pacific and on 195 miles from San Salvador City to Zacapa, Guatemala, now being constructed. They are also a direct mortgage on 139 miles of railroad and equipment from Guatemala City to San Jose and from Santa Maria to Mazatenango, subject to prior liens.

It is understood that the bonds will be offered shortly.

Ford Insurance Aim

Negotiations are afoot, according to The Insurance Field, between the Ford Motor Company and a group of fire and theft underwriters headed by President Harold M. O'Brien and Vice-President and Secretary Frederick O'Brien of the Chicago Fire and Marine, with the view of establishing an arrangement by which every Ford car purchaser would be given fire and theft insurance free for a year.

The staggering proportions of the deal are revealed by estimates placing the annual premium income that would be involved if negotiations should result favorable at from $10,000,000 to $27,500,000. These figures are reached assuming the insurance of such insurance upon 3,000,000 Fords and presupposing $400 coverage on each.

Bonds Approved

First Securities Company has received certificates from the superintendent of Banks of California, certifying as a legal investment for savings banks in this State the $500,000 Sun-Maid Hotel Corporation first mortgage 6½ per cent serial bonds, and the $880,000 Kern County Road Improvement No. 25 6 per cent bonds.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS ARISE

Problems of Investors Simplified by Pooling Stocks of Various Companies; Safety Obtained

BY EARLE E. CROWE

To invest money wisely is becoming less of a task than it was a few years ago. Business operations have expanded to such a scale that the astute financial managers now are catering carefully to the desires and requirements of the investing public. Perplexing problems such as diversification, safety of principal and income, price, marketability, and investment return are appreciably simplified by new developments in modern business practice.

Lately the investment trust has arisen as a competitor for investment funds. It originally is an English institution, but the adaptation to American requirements already has met with considerable success. In principle, the investment trust is organized to purchase securities which are held in trust by any trust company. With these securities as a basis, the trust company issues participating trust certificates, which are sold by the managers of the investment trust to the public generally at low prices. The trust certificates entitle the purchaser to a certain proportion of the dividends or interest paid on the original securities.

FIELD RESTRICTED

As the plan has been worked out in the United States, the organizers confine their operations largely to one group of securities. Standard Oil stocks, for instance, have been combined into one investment trust. In another, the shares of leading chain-store companies form the basis for participating certificates. Public utility and bank stocks also have proved popular. As yet, the tendency is to limit purchases to a particular business or industry, and obtain diversification by carefully selecting the securities for locality of operations, earnings record, and so forth.

Most of the investment trusts in operation sell participating certificates at a price within the reach of the small investor. A few months ago, however, a "rich man's trust" was proposed in the East which was designed to afford an attractive outlet for the funds of wealthy investors. This plan involved the purchase of $20,000,000 of bonds dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange, which would be placed in trust as the basis for an entirely new issue of bonds bearing the name of the new company. These bonds would be offered to the public and interest would be paid on them out of interest paid on the investment trust bonds.

In this plan it was the intention to purchase bonds that would average an interest return of 6½ per cent. Bonds sold to the public representing a participating interest in the original securities were to pay 5½ per cent, leaving a differential of 1 per cent to pay the cost of administration and a profit to the underwriters of the investment trust.

Diversification was to be obtained by purchasing carefully chosen bonds of railroads, industrials and untilities, each selected for locality of operation, stability of income and other investment essentials.

INVESTORS AIDED

Regularly organized trust companies have no quarrel with the investment trust as long as the securities are wisely chosen. There is some danger of promoters using this vehicle to dump a majority of questionable stocks into a pool with a few sound securities. But on the whole, the plan contains the essentials of sound investment policy and is proving of material assistance in the solution of individual investment problems.

Here on the Pacific Coast, there has been some discussion of the possibility of the Bancitaly Corporation entering into similar operations. President Giannini will leave for Europe soon with the expressed intention of investigating the investment methods in use there. At present, the Bancitaly Corporation is a large owner of a variety of bank stocks.

This corporation in its present form is a holding company. Similar to it are an extensive number of holding companies organized to control and centralize operations within a particular industry. These companies are active in all forms of industry, and are supposed to offer advantages to the operating companies such as expert financial direction, adequate capital, efficient legal and accounting aid, economy through collective purchase of supplies and trained engineering supervision.

From the standpoint of the investor, the holding company offers stability in earnings through a certain diversification of operations, greater efficiency and dependable service. Pertinent examples of these companies are the Electric Bond and Share Company, controlling public utility properties, the Western Power Corporation, controlling Great Western Power, San Joaquin Light and Power and others; Middle Western Utilities, and Commonwealth Power, all holding the securities of were to pay 5½ per cent, leaving public utilities.

BOND VOLUME DECREASES

An advance in market values and a sharp reduction in the volume of new issues were the features of the State and municipal bond market in February, The Daily Bond Buyer of New York reported yesterday. Heavy buying on the part of institutions commenced in January and continued in the early part of the last month. With dealers' shelves pretty well cleaned of bonds, new borrowing declined from about $115,000,000, the January total, to only $73,787,294. The average yield from high grade municipals, legal for Eastern savings bank funds, is now close to 4 per cent and dealers expect to see the market break through that level on the next advance. Municipal bonds are now selling at the highest prices they have commanded since early in 1917.

The following tabulation, prepared by The Daily Bond Buyer, compares the par value of State and municipal bond issues in January and February for ten years:

1924	84,257,338	103,682,135

WOOL TRADE BEFUDDLED ON DECLINES

Few Still Resist Downward Trend; Many Await Opening at London

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, March 6.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The wool trade is in a bewildered frame of mind, although some few are still holding out against the decline. The market, however, has not been made by the strong holders. On some descriptions it is hardly possible to quote a market at all. There is a disposition to await the London opening Tuesday and the resumption of the Australian sales, together with the showing of first goods lines by the Agricultural Woolen Company on Tuesday, which is hoped will stimulate the market. Up to the present moment, the demand for goods has been undeniably slow, although worsted lines have had the best of it. The foreign markets are barely steady."

The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will publish the following wool quotations:

Scoured basis:

California: Northern, 1.58@1.60; middle county, 1.40@1.45; southern, 1.25@1.40.

Oregon: Eastern No. 1 staple, 1.60; fine and F.M. combing, 1.50; eastern clothing, 1.40; Valley No. 1, 1.40@1.42.

Mohair, best combing, $5@00; best carding, 1.50@60.

WHO'S WHO

W. H. Thompson, vice-president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, who has just returned to the city from a trip throughout the San Joaquin Valley, yesterday advanced the belief that the valley will in a short time be one of the principal cotton-producing centers of the United States. Mr. Thompson participated in a conference with 350 growers, buyers and bankers while away.

The cotton yield for each acre in the valley exceeds that of any other section of the Pacific-Southwest, according to Mr. Thompson. The price received also was better.

A. L. Lathrop, trust officer and secretary of the Union Bank and Trust Company, yesterday told executives of the Robert March Company, Inc., in meeting, that from a banking standpoint the business prospect for 1925 is one of conservative optimism, with all conditions indicating better than a reasonable degree of prosperity in Los Angeles.

Mr. Lathrop explained that interest rates, and the stock and bond markets were in exceptionally good shape. This, coupled with the settled political state, was held by him to be wholly conducive to a continued and healthy business development.

WARNERS' PICTURES SHOW DIVIDEND EXCESS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March. 6.—Net profits of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., for the fiscal year ended March 31 next, are officially estimated at $1,000,000, equal to more than three times the dividend requirement on the Class "A" stock, of which there are 200,000 shares outstanding. The company has total net assets of $3,787,349, of which $1,965,216 are current working assets.

Concrete is taking preference over structural steel in the construction of large buildings in Canada.

BAD CHECKS

The following bulletin on bad-check writing was issued yesterday by the forgery detail of the Los Angeles police department detective bureau:

"A bad-check writer using the names of Carl D. Massey and Oliver N. Reese has been very active recently, and has victimized a number of local merchants. He is described as follows: American, 6 feet tall; between 25 and 30 years of age; light hair, blue eyes, medium complexion; smooth shaven.

"Massey's checks are drawn on the Farmers' and Merchants National Bank, and are generally signed B. K. Muldoon or William B. Hight. His custom is to enter a furniture or hardware store, select a gas stove, range or water heater, and in payment offer a check for around $80, stating that he would like to make a $50 deposit on his purchase, and requesting the balance in cash. He gives an address to which he would like the stove delivered, and the merchant learns too late that he has been persuaded to cash a worthless check when he finds that the address given is a fictitious one."

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Superior Oil Company is preparing to drill a well on its Peacock lease in the Culver City district of the Inglewood field, according to official reports. The well was located yesterday in the northeast corner of the property, offsetting Oscar Howard's lease. The Superior owns seventy acres in this area, which the completion of the first Howard well practically proves.

According to field reports Howard is preparing to offset the Superior well, and already has materials on the ground for a derrick. Both wells will start drilling as soon as possible, and owing to the shallow depth at which the oil sand is found in this field, both probably will be completed in ten days or two weeks, unless mechanical difficulties intervene.

No gauge of the production of Howard's first well had been made public yesterday, and estimates of the well's probable output range from 350 barrels a day to as high as 500 barrels. Oil men who have seen the well agree that it is by far the best well yet completed in the Inglewood field. This is attributed to the fact that the drill penetrated twice as much oil sand as any other well in the district.

Get New Well.

The Midland Oilfields Company has completed its Wallace & Crail No. 13 in the Midway field with an initial production of about 900 barrels a day, according to field reports. The well is located on a 160-acre lease near Taft, and was completed at 3918 feet.

The Midland, which is an operating subsidiary of the California Petroleum Corporation, expects to complete its No. 6 well on this lease within a few days, it is reported. The well is swabbing for a production test, it is said. No. 14 is down 3840 feet, and near the producing zone.

Make Deep Hole

The Calivada Oil Company is 800 feet deeper in its No. 2 well in the northern part of the Maricopa Flats field, than its No. 1 well, the discovery well of the district, according to field reports. Calivada No. 2 is down 4460 feet, while No. 1 went on production at 1000 barrels a day at 3616 feet. The company expects to pick up a deeper sand than that from which the No. 1 well is producing, it is said.

Down 2600 Feet

The Tweedy No. 1 well being sunk by the Magnolia Petroleum Corporation in the Home Gardens district, is progressing rapidly, according to reports, the drill now being down to near 2600 feet.

Geologist Leaves

Harold Vance, chief geologist of the United Oil Company is leaving Los Angeles to enter the government service, it was reported yesterday. Mr. Vance will become petroleum engineer in the United States Bureau of Mines in the State of Wyoming.

Down 400 Feet

The Temescal Petroleum Company is drilling ahead at 400 feet in its No. 2 well on the Temescal ranch, north of Piru, according to officials of the company. The well is a semi-wildcat. Temescal No. 1 as the discovery well, drilled by the B. & L. Oil Company, has been renamed and is making about 100 barrels a day, it is said.

Makes Large Cut

The Union Oil Company's Rosecrans No. 3 in the Rosecrans field began flowing yesterday, but was allowed to run into the sump, the product cutting 62 per cent emulsion, according to official reports. Bottom of the well is at 5321 feet.

Start Two Wells

The Barnsdall Oil Company is preparing to start two new wells on its O'Dea lease in the Rosecrans field, according to official reports. O'Dea No. 4 is rigging up, and installing machinery, while a construction crew is building the derrick for O'Dea No. 5.

Installing Rotary

The Union Oil Company expects to begin drilling its Olinda wildcat well in the La Brea district within a few days, according to field reports. The derrick is up, and the crew is installing a rotary rig, it is said.

Start New Hand

The Pan American Petroleum Company is preparing to drill a second well on its Anderson lease, northwest of Athens, according to field reports. Anderson No. 1 was drilled to 4327 feet, but developed casing trouble at about 700 feet, and is now standing idle after several attempts to remedy the trouble. A crew is grading for No. 2 well.

The Shell Company's Leonis No. 1, offsetting Anderson No. 1 to the east, is drilling ahead at 5417 feet but has had no showings to date, according to Shell reports.

To Hold Meeting

The United States Royalties Company will hold its annual stockholder's meeting on April 6, according to an official notice sent out yesterday by B. L. DePry, secretary of the company.

STEEL AND IRON TRADE IS IN LULL

Sales Confined to Small Lots in Pacific Coast District

In commenting on the condition of the Pacific Coast iron and steel markets this week Iron Trade Review will report:

The market remains quiet this week, little or no improvement being reported in demand and sales being confined to relatively unimportant lots.

Due to prevailing conditions in Europe foreign pig iron is being offered at attractive prices. English iron running 2.00 to 2.50 in silicon is quoted at $24.75 c.i.f. duty paid. The Oregon Iron and Steel Company, Oswego, Or., has purchased approximately 500 tons of foreign iron for use in manufacturing cast-iron pipe.

Demand for merchants' bars so far this year has been exceptionally light, but a better movement is now noted. A lull has occurred in the concrete-bar market of late, especially in large contracts. Current business is confined to small unimportant lots.

Plate prices range from 2.50 to 2.60 cents c.i.f coast ports, depending upon the desirability of the offering. Lacy Manufacturing Company obtained 300 tons for the Big Pine power project penstock No. 3 for the city of Los Angeles. In connection with this project the E. S. Steel Products Company secured 400 tons of from 22 to 28-inch welded pipe. More than 10,000 tons are up for figures.

Structural-shape awards this week aggregated more than 1500 tons. The Baker Iron Works obtained 600 tons for a theater on Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, and 250 tons for a warehouse for the Italian Vineyard Company, Palmetto and Hewitt streets, Los Angeles. The Central Iron Works secured 160 tons for an apartment-house at Sacramento and Octavia streets, San Francisco, and McClintic-Marshall Company of California, 200 tons for buildings of the Celite Products Company at Lompoc.

Demand for oil-country goods at present is more active than that for standard merchant pipe. The cast-iron pipe market is quiet, only two awards being reported this week. Both of these went to the Central Foundry Company and involved 100 tons each for Pullman and Cashmere, Wash.

San Francisco out-of-stock prices have been advanced $3 a ton in some items.

Northwest Has Indications of Excellent Crops

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6. — The Northern Pacific has better prospects for 1925 in both gross and net earnings, according to President Charles Donnelly, who said conditions everywhere in the Northwest were favorable. Soil conditions in the region are first-class, he added, banks are in healthy shape and agricultural interests in North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Minnesota are in the best frame of mind that they have been for five years.

The rise in Western Union shares to 125 1-4 today, the highest price since 1881, when it sold for 137 7-8, revived expectation in the financial district that the directors either at the March or June meeting would consider an increased dividend rate provided the present satisfactory business outlook continues.

Fewer commercial failures this week were reported by R. G. Dun & Co., the total of 390 comparing with 401 a year ago. An increase of nine in the South was offset by a decrease of six in the East, twelve in the West and two on the Pacific Coast.

AMERICAN GOLD AIDS FOREIGNERS

Barber Tells Exchange Club of Yankees' Part in Rebuilding Europe

BY DON PARTRIDGE

Declaring that more than $350,000,000 in American capital has gone into Germany alone since the submission of the Dawes plan, John E. Barber, vice-president of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and an associate in the work of the committees of experts, described to members of the Exchange Club yesterday the role which the United States is playing in the reconstruction of Europe.

"One of the conspicuous developments of these times," Mr. Barber said, "is the rapid internationalization of American capital. Last year a total of $1,250,000,000 of foreign government, municipal and corporation securities were absorbed in the United States. This is more than twice the total of foreign and colonial loans floated in London in 1924. Last year foreign issues offered in this country aggregated practically 20 per cent of our entire national investment market, which includes every type and description of securities offered publicly.

"There is a significant correspondence between our national export surplus in 1924 of approximately $1,000,000,000 and our absorption of foreign loans during 1924 of $1,250,000,000. Apparently, Germany and Europe, in fact the whole world, are paying their current indebtedness to us on balance by exporting to us their securities. This process utilizes some of our excess gold, of which $140,000,000 has been exported since the movement started a few weeks ago. By thus contributing to an increased purchasing power abroad, this process builds up greater markets for our raw materials and manufactured products.

"So far," Mr. Barber said "the Dawes plan seems to be working satisfactorily, with German revenues exceeding the estimates of a year ago. The United States is already deriving a substantial benefit from the rehabilitation of Germany. In 1924, Germany was the third largest customer of the United States, being preceded only by Great Britain and Canada. For the first nine months of last year, our exports to Germany equalled 9 per cent of the total to all countries. In the last five months of 1924, German purchases of cotton and copper exceeded those of any country and were the largest for any similar period in any year since the war."

The luncheon of the Exchange Club of which George S. Greene, assistant cashier, The First National Bank of Los Angeles, is president, was at noon yesterday at the Biltmore Hotel.

Spring Outlook Under Scrutiny for Tendencies

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6.—Dun's tomorrow will report:

"After several months of business expansion, the chief interest now centers in the probable results during the spring season soon to open. On the whole the outlook is distinctly favorable, and prospects for the longer futures have been strengthened by the stress laid on the need of tax reduction in the President's inaugural address.

"There is a solid basis for further commercial progress this year, wholesome conditions having been maintained since the trade recovery began last autumn and confidence having become firmly established.

"The absence of a rapid rise of prices, except where special causes have brought about sharp advances, as in the grain markets, is reassuring but there is a strong resistance among consumers to higher prices for commodities. This phase is also being evidenced in primary channels, and in certain quarters a decided easing has recently occurred."

Weekly bank clearings $9,598,-$17,000.

COTTON MOVES DOWN DESPITE BULL NEWS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 6.—The cotton futures list declined moderately today, despite bullish news developments. The reactionary tendency developed under the influence of scattered profit-taking by recent bull interests. Traders believed the declining tendency represented correction of the technical position of the market, which had been weakened by the recent sharp advances. Losses ranged from 9 to 18 points net. Spot cotton closed 7 points net lower at 25.30c.

MARKET GIVEN GOOD SUPPORT

California Petroleum Hits New Peak Prices

Steel and Baldwin Perform in Active Fashion

Merger Stories Affect Rail Quotation Levels

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 6. — Stock prices displayed a strong tone in the early part of today's market, but developed irregularity toward the close as a result of the customary week-end profit taking and bear selling inspired by the sharp break in wheat prices. Excellent support was provided, however, for most of the high-grade industrial shares; many of which closed 1 to 8¼ points higher.

There was a large accumulation of overnight buying orders on the retention of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate, and the prospect that several large industrial companies will follow the example of the American Locomotive directors in making a generous distribution to stockholders during the coming year.

Heavy accumulation of United States Steel common which crossed 125 and closed just under that figure for net gain of 1⅜, was one of the day's features. Baldwin again was in brisk demand, being bid up to 144 and then easing to 142½, where it was up 4⅛ points on the day. American Can established another record top at 185½, and then slipped back to 193⅜, up 2¼. Studebaker closed fractionally lower at 44⅛. A bullish demonstration in General Electric carried that stock up to 262½, but it slipped back to 183⅜, up 2⅜, showing a net gain of 1⅜ on the day.

Further accumulation of the low-priced petroleum shares was based on merger reports and expectations of an early advance in Mid-Continent crude prices. California Petroleum advanced 2⅜ to a record top of 32⅝. Independent Oil and Gas touched a new top at 33⅜ and then reacted about ½ point. Barnsdall B, General Asphalt and Houston showed net gains of 1 to 2½ points.

Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis continued to respond to rumors of its acquisition by another road by soaring 7 points to a record top at 1.55. Jersey Central jumped 4⅝ points on a few sales.

Call money held steady at 3½ per cent. The time money market was somewhat firmer with lenders not disposed to make any loans below 4 per cent, even for the shorter maturities. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a firm tone. Demand sterling held steady around $4.76⅛, and French francs rallied about 6½ points to 5.16 cents. Most of the European exchanges showed nominal gains. Japanese yen touched a new high on the movement at 46⅝.

Jurors Indict W. A. Hinson in Haines Killing

An indictment charging W. A. Hinson, under arrest in Reno, with the murder of W. H. Haines, was returned yesterday by the county grand jury and extradition proceedings will be taken at once, it was said.

Haines was stabbed to death the night of February 26 in a hotel at 326½ South Main street, just outside the room of Mrs. Frances Parker, the housekeeper.

Mrs. Parker told police Hinson did the stabbing through jealousy.

TRANSFER OF WATER SYSTEM IS SOUGHT

Paying $6300 for the convenience of having his water system taken off his hands, was the proposition put up for approval of the State Railroad Commission yesterday by H. F. Mackie, who operates the Beach Sand Water System in Playa Del Rey. The Venice Consumers' Water Company agreed to the proposal, and likewise asked the commission to approve the transfer. The joint application of the two concerns to the commission recites that better service to Playa Del Rey consumers will result if the transfer is approved, as Mackie in the past has been able to operate his system only because he was able to purchase the water wholesale from the Venice company.

BAD-CHECK SUSPECT WILL BE EXTRADITED

A police officer left for Sacramento last night to obtain extradition papers for H. C. McCord, under arrest in New York City. McCord was charged in six counts of giving checks without sufficient funds, in an indictment returned yesterday by the county grand jury. Among the checks he gave was one for an automobile, which he drove to New York, it is said.

Dentist to Old Hippo

The hunters of Africa say that the hippopotamus carries his dentist around with him. The latter is in the form of a bird which accompanies the big animal in its wanderings and after indulging in a full meal the hippo will stretch out in a comfortable position and with its mouth wide open will give a big grunt or two and this is the signal for the bird, which flies into the animal's mouth and makes a round of the latter's teeth, picking the molars perfectly clean of all particles. The big animal seems to enjoy this treatment as much as the bird, which gets a big meal without the labor of doing much hunting for it.—[Exchange.

Porto Bello Gold

By Arthur D. Howden Smith

SYNOPSIS

Ormerod, a merchant; his son Robert and Peter Corlaer, his chief fur trader, shortly after hearing that the notorious pirate Capt. Rip-Rap was on the high seas, is paid a visit by the pirate chief, who abducts Robert and Corlaer to the vessel and sets sail. The next day Robert reconnoiters about the vessel, the pirate being his grand uncle, gives him liberties. He finds himself talking to Long John Silver, a pirate aboard.

"Exploits? Yesterday? Meanin' the disposition of yourself? We-ell, no, sir; not reg-larly, I'd say, Ezra."

"Not by a capful o' onzas," agreed Pew.

"I'm no man for makin' trouble," continued Silver, "but there's them as might say the captain was a mite rash."

"Why don't you call him by his name?"

Silver gave me an odd look.

"There's some names as is better off unmentioned in conversation," he said. "We'll call him the captain, wi' your kind leave and permission, sir."

"Call him what you please," I answered; "but I should think it was insanity for men with your reputations to venture into New York. Why, the second mate of that Bristol packet had seen Capt. Murray, and would have known him."

"Ah," said Silver, grinning. "But he didn't see the captain, which is more to the point, my master; nor he wouldn't have had the chance to see him in any case. 'Cause why? 'Cause the captain come ashore most careful in the dusk wi' his cloak around his face and three stout hearties to fend off inquisitive strangers."

"But the rest of you—"

"Now, Master Ormerod, what honest sailorman a-tremblin' for his life is goin' to remember faces out o' a crew o' pirates he sees on a shot-up deck? All he thinks of, says you, is a lot of villains as has likely slaughtered his messmates and looted his ship, and quite right. Why, I've been stood treat in Kingston by a skipper I'd stripped two months past—but that was afore I lost my leg, which bein' in other seas a-in't as yet a mark of identification on me in these parts."

"And did you take this ship designedly to carry you into New York?"

"You might say truthfully she was the best fitted for it of several," he acknowledged. "Blow my other stick off if she was good for anything else."

"Not forty pounds in her," mumbled Pew, twiddling the wheel-spokes.

"Her crew—"

Silver raised his eyebrows and gave me a slow wink.

"Poor unfortunates! 'Twas one time we couldn't take chances."

Pew's chuckle trickled icily from under the eye-shade which cast a green blur over his whole lower face.

"I suppose there is a hell for such as you," I said, trying to keep my voice steady.

"Some says there is and some says there isn't," answered Silver reasonably. "No use to worry, says I."

I was so wrought up that I think I must have come to blows with them but for a fortunate diversion. Bones and several other men emerged from the fo'scle hatch, yawning and stretching their arms, evidently having just arisen from sleep. At the same moment Peter Corlaer climbed from the cabin companionway, lurched for a moment on his feet and then staggered precariously toward the bulwarks. I started for'ard to aid him, and Bones ran aft with a loud yell.

"Don't ye spoil my decks, ye fat cow!" he shouted.

Poor Peter, regardless of both of us, seized a stay and clung to it abjectly, quite helpless. Bones reached him first and gave him a shove which sent him plunging into the scuppers head first.

"Get up," snarled Bones, and dealt him a vicious kick with a heavy sea-boot.

Peter groaned, and I caught Bones by the arm.

"——you for a coward!" I shouted. "Capt. Murray bade you use us gently. Is this how you obey?"

He snatched free of me and yanked out a knife.

"Obey, ye lousy lubber!" he howled. "I'm Flint's mate, and I'll cut your heart out and eat it afore ye."

I looked about me for a weapon, anxious to give him a lesson; but there was not a sign of anything handy, and I backed away cautiously from the menace of his knife. He had been drinking through the night on top of liberal potations during the previous day, and the effect was to render him quite insensible to any rule now that his passions were aroused. Silver shouted to him to let us be, as did one or two others; but his only answer was a string of the curses in which he was so proficient, and he continued to circle after me.

For myself I was not greatly frightened, for, as it chanced, knife-fighting was an art in which I was somewhat expert, thanks to instruction from by father's Indian friends; but I was concerned lest the scoundrel make a dart at Peter and slay the Dutchman as he lay inert. Judge of my amazement then when Peter swayed to his feet, holding on to the bulwarks to pull himself erect. His face was white, but he abandoned his support without hesitation and advanced, crooked-legged, across the deck toward us.

"I take him, Bob," he said.

I jumped between him and Bones in time to stop the pirate's rush, dodging a knife-thrust by the width of my coat sleeve.

"Keep away, Peter," I panted. "I can handle him. You can't. You'll—"

"I take him," repeated Corlaer. He reached out his hand, grasped my shoulder and spun me from his path as easily as if I had been a child. And I did not attempt to return to his side, for I had felt the strength in his arm and knew that I had no cause to question his ability to take care of himself against any man, however armed.

Bones stared at him for a moment with a mixture of rage and surprise.

"D'ye want your—throat cut?" he sneered. "Here, turn your head and I'll take an ear instead. There's naught in slaying a cow like you."

Peter said nothing, simply stood there before him weaponless, arms slightly bent, legs crooked at the knees. The Dutchman's little eyes, almost buried from sight in his face, glittered with a steely menace.

"Let him be, Bill," called Silver again—was I wrong in fancying his tone unduly officious, provocative?

"I'm——If I do," rasped Bones. "If he wants it, he'll get it."

He sprang at Peter with knife upraised, aiming to slash his throat; but Peter moved with lightning speed to counter him. One immense arm, thick as a tree-bough, shot out and imprisoned the wrist of the knife-hand; a twist, and the knife pinged on the deck. The other arm captured a thigh, and Bones was reared above Peter's head.

Peter gave him a preliminary shake as if to prove to him how completely he was in his power and started to walk back to the lee bulwark. Bones shrieked like the lost soul he was, certain that Peter intended to cast him into the sea; but halfway across the deck Peter came to a loose halyard. He lowered Bones carelessly, tucked him under one arm and proceeded to reeve a landsman's slip-noose. We all watched him with utter fascination, and it is an indication of the pirates' code in such affairs that none of them intervened. But Peter was not to hang Master Bones.

"Your object is no doubt praiseworthy, Peter," remarked my great-uncle from the cabin companionway behind us, "but I fear I must request you to let the man go. He is of some value to a friend of mine."

Peter regarded Murray curiously.

"He knifes Robert and me—ja," answered the Dutchman.

"He will not do it again," Murray assured him. "Master Bones!"

Peter reverently unhitched the noose from Bones's neck and administered a shove which sent him reeling across the deck, to carom into the butt of the mizzenmast, recoiling with the loss of a broken tooth and ending up in a battered heap at Murray's feet. My great-uncle regarded the fellow with obvious displeasure.

"Stand up, Master Bones," he said.

Bones stumbled to his feet, bleeding from several cuts and scratches. He was very plainly frightened at what lay ahead of him.

"Master Bones," resumed my great-uncle, "you are for the present under my command, and I happen to have somewhat old-fashioned theories as regards discipline and the carrying out of orders. You have recently disobeyed an order of mine."

"Sure, I didn't——"

"Master Bones," my uncle went on without raising his voice, "did you ever know a man named Fotherill—Jack, I believe, was the given name?"

Bones nodded, unable to speak.

"And what did I order done to him, Master Bones?"

Bones moistened his lips.

"Keel-hauled, he was."

"Correct," agreed my great-uncle. "Keel-hauled. A most expressive phrase, Robert," he added to me. "Technically, I should explain, it involves drawing a man under the keel of a vessel. It has also been known from time immemorial as 'shall we say?—unpleasant consequences.'"

He turned to Bones.

"No man disobeys an order of mine more than once, Master Bones. That is all. You may go for'ard."

The man started to slouch off, wiping the blood from his cheek with his coat sleeve; but Peter stepped in front of him.

The Dutchman took an oaken belaying-pin from the rack around the mizzenmast, held it out toward Bones and the others and calmly broke it in two with his bare hands and tossed the fragments overside.

"Admirable!" exclaimed my great-un'le. "What words could hope to express so much as that gesture? And it intrigues me to note that Corlaer has a distinct taste for the dramatic. I trust that you are recovering from the seasickness, friend Peter?"

"I get well, ja," answered Peter.

"Then perhaps you will come below and join me at breakfast?"

Peter looked unhappy—he loved his food, did Peter.

"Nsen," he said simply. "If I eat, I get sick."

"You have my sympathy," replied my great-uncle with unfailing courtesy. "I advise a modest diet for a day or two, with an occasional dram of liquor to warm the stomach, and then I prophesy you will become as good a sailor as any of us. You, Robert, I perceive to have made yourself instantly at home upon the strange element. That is excellent. You shall yet prove a credit to me. Do you feel sufficiently stimulated by your new experiences to partake of a second meal so early in the day?"

"I have just been hearing what became of the lawful crew of this vessel," I answered. "It left me no appetite for food."

"Regrettable," he returned sadly. "Life is a hard business Robert, as you have yet to learn. Mercy is as often as not a mistaken policy, a vice as much as a virtue. Silver, has the lookout sighted any vessel?"

"Not a sail since we cleared Sandy Hook, sir," the one-legged man answered briskly.

"Very good. Keep on this course and call me at once should a sail show in any quarter." And he descended with proper dignity to his breakfast.

GOOD EXECUTIVES

Many regular army officers are at present engaged in most important work in the public service. A few of the more prominent ones are: Maj.-Gen. Wood, Governor-General of the Philippine Islands; Maj.-Gen. Crowder, Ambassador to Cuba; Brig.-Gen. Frank Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau; Maj.-Gen. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation; Brig.-Gen. Lord, director of the budget; Gen. Davis, distributing Federal bonus; Col. M. L. Walker, Governor of Panama Canal Zone, and Maj. W. W. Kirby, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.—[United States Army Almanac.

After many conferences had been held by the board of directors of a small town bank about buying a new water cooler a grouchy old member had this to say:

"Gentlemen, before we adjourn, I move that our next conference be held on a merry-go-round."

And, as they looked at him in astonishment, he added the tag of explanation:

"We never get anywhere."—[Cleveland News.

SHELL FISH

He sat at a corner table in a little out-of-the-way restaurant in one of the midland counties. He had been sitting there some time, but the one waiter that the place boasted of was busily engaged with a refractory baker and appeared quite oblivious of the customer.

The latter, becoming convinced that unless he called attention to his presence it was quite probable the waiter wouldn't notice it, raised his voice and called, "Waiter!"

The waiter approached with a polite "Yes, sir?"

"Have you any oysters?"

"No, sir. I am sorry we haven't."

"Any crabs?"

"No, sir, I am afraid we haven't any crabs, either."

"My stars! What have you got, man?"

"The only shell fish we have on the premises, sir," replied the impassive waiter, "is heggs, sir."—[London Answers.

MEET TODAY ON SANTA FE STRIKE PLAN

Rail and Union Officers Hopeful Peaceful Way Out May Result

The threatened Santa Fe strike will be discussed this forenoon at 10 o'clock in the office of W. K. Etter, general manager of the Santa Fe coast lines, by representatives of the railroad company and representatives of the two unions" the leaders of which have been active in the matter. The conference comes, it was learned, at the request of the union leaders. Both sides were hopeful last night that it will lead to a peaceful settlement.

Public announcement as to what the majority of Santa Fe engineers, firemen and enginemen west of Albuquerque wish to do about their leaders' strike proposal was withheld at the headquarters of the leaders last night. Fewer than 1000 votes on the subject were before the leaders for counting.

"We didn't get through with the count," General Chairman K. B. Walton of the Brotherhood Firemen and Enginemen said. "We thought we'd get through by night but it's too big a job and now we'll let it go over until tomorrow before we finish. We won't know what the men want to do about it until we get the votes all counted."

About 1100 engineers, firemen, enginemen and hostlers belong to the unions which their leaders purpose to call out, Walton said. One is the Brotherhood of Engineers with nine divisions and the other is the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen with seven lodges.

Members of each of the sixteen units voted at various times this week on whether they wished to strike or stay at work. Then delegations brought the ballots to headquarters here where they were to have been counted yesterday. Reports from some of the units were to the effect that the men did not generally wish to accede to a strike call.

The brotherhoods' leaders have demanded a pay increase of 5 per cent for Santa Fe workers in the classes named west of Albuquerque, according to Walton. The railroad company has offered to grant the increase if the brotherhoods' leaders will meet with it to discuss and dispose of proposed modifications of four rules or submit differences to arbitration or to the United States Labor Board, according to W. K. Etter, general manager of the Santa Fe Coast lines.

CUPID GETS HOMER OFF BLACKSTONE

Dan, Pinch-Hitter, Socks Out Real Hit; Two Slide Into "Home" Plate

Cupid, the well-known nemesis of locksmiths, yesterday socked out a home-run with that iron-armed twirler, Blackstone, on the mound.

With the count two and—three, Young Dan took a long swing. When he slit to home plate, Mendelsshon's martial air was on.

To be exact, what happened was this: Milton T. Lynch, who will be 21 years of age in June, and Lucille Coppage, 17, both of Long Beach, applied yesterday at the Marriage License Bureau for the usual commodity sold there.

Lucille had her mother's written consent. Milton did not. His mother is in Louisiana and could not be reached by wire.

"But," insisted Lucille's mother, "they are to be married tonight. We have invited guests, ordered a cake, a preacher and everything; something must be done."

It was. Mrs. Coppage got in touch with Dep.-Dist.-Atty. Hill, a friend who cogitated. In the end, Milton's brother, John L. Lynch, 24, was appointed guardian for Milton. John gave his consent and the license was forthcoming.

The wedding was solemnized last night at the home of the bride's parents at 323 Winnipeg street, Long Beach.

CONTEST ENDS IN FOUR DAYS

Short Time Left to Enter for $3250 Prizes

Friendship Campaign Shows Beneficial Results

Five Detroit Families Are Coming to Southland

The purpose of The Times these closing days of the Friendship Contest of letter writing is frankly and wholly to stimulate the writing of as many effective letters as possible in the general campaign to defend the good name and to promote the continued growth and prosperity of Southern California.

Today, the material best suited for that end seems a concrete demonstration of how much good one letter can do. Correspondence between a Detroit professional man and C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the All Year Club, published herewith, unfolds every link in the chain of sequence—the desire to come, the doubts bred of adverse reports, the inquiry, the reply, the confidence won by unsparing candor and, finally, the determination of five families, all in good circumstances, to "liquidate our assets, pull up stakes and reinvest somewhere in Southern California."

Precisely the same results can be achieved by any letter that hits the right spot. Not every contest letter will be so fortunate—not all of Secretary Milham's letters are so fortunate—but each will help in filling higher that great reservoir of romantic interest, curiosity, desire to come and see, out of which the stream of migration to Southern California perpetually flows.

MORE OUT OF LIFE

"We have California in mind," says the Detrit dentist who signs, "solely because we think we can get more out of life there."

That should be the conviction that every Friendship letter seeks to implant, and there are now left just four days of the contest, including today, in which to do it. Today's letter or tomorrow's can be just as effective as one written a month ago and is just as sure of an equal opportunity before the judges to share in the $3250 which they will distribute as cash prizes.

Whoever the winner of first prize may be, he can congratulate himself on receiving one of the highest rates of remuneration earned by any living writer. At the least, he will get $1 the word, and more in proportion to the brevity of the winning letter. Some of the best thus far received have been the shortest.

The correspondence follows in outline, beginning with an impersonal letter of inquiry addressed to the All Year Club of Southern California:

"Gentlemen: Kindly send information about Southern California in regard to permanent location.

INTERESTED IN HOMES

"Five families (all friends with same desire) wish to locate with you, providing we find things as represented and not overdrawn.

"Two of these families will be interested in homes with large lots, ranging in price from $10,000 to $20,000. The others will not care to go over $10,000.

"To be frank with you, large cities do not interest us in the least, as we are fed up on metropolitan life, having been born and lived in cities all our lives. We prefer to be in a town of from 15,000 to 50,000 population and near a body of fresh water—either lake or river. This may be on or near the seacoast, or, if not, accessible to the Coast as well as to the mountain region.

"Our intention is to ship our cars to Denver and tour from that point, looking over the entire southern district, hunting for the spot we desire. Naturally we desire fresh water, having lived in the Great Lakes region all our lives—that is, our homes are here.

"We have California in mind solely because we think we can obtain more out of life there. We do not hesitate to say we are tired of Michigan winters—we want warmth—and that is the desire back of our intention.

"Without putting you to unnecessary trouble, would you kindly bear in mind the character of location desired and help us out with a little information?"

MILHAM'S LETTER

Accompanying his letter of acknowledgment and reply, Secretary Milham sent printed matter.

"To begin with," he said, "let me assure you that the statements in the booklet that is coming to you are not overdrawn. You will notice especially that we disclaim having a paradise on earth here. But we do assert that taking day in and day out there is no region that offers quite so much as does Southern California. This amounts not only to a matter of climate. It involves also the things that most of us like—beautiful environment, the inspiration of mountains right at hand, the advantage of great cities, the quiet of the wilderness, the sea just a few miles away.

"Frankly, however, I do not know whether or not we can please you in the matter of the type of home you wish near some large body of fresh water—a lake or river. California's water situation is radically different from that which obtains in the East. We have only two major rivers, the San Joaquin and the Sacramento. These and several others have a steady flow of water right through the year, but most of our rivers are tiny brooks during the greater part of the year.

"You see, the average rainfall in various sections of Southern California runs from a few inches a year up to about fifteen or twenty inches, and the great bulk of this falls between October and April. Most of our agriculture is done under irrigation. The rainfall is very carefully conserved in

Great War Dogs of East Ready for Battle

The Atlantic Fleet at Panama Canal

Photos show the war dogs of the Atlantic temporarily in leash after passing through the canal into the Pacific for the first time in history for battle practice with the Pacific Fleet. That above shows the three flagships of the Atlantic Fleet, the dreadnaught Wyoming and the cruisers Richmond and Concord, tied up at Balboa. The photograph at the lower left gives an unusual view of sailors perched on the highest masts of the Navy, 150 feet up. That at the lower right shows the brood of destroyers, with their mother ships, in formation at the Pacific end of the canal.

BATTLE NEAR IN NAVY GAME

Black Fleet is Moving Against Pacific Coast; Scouts Searching for Marauders

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS—RADIO]

ABOARD U.S.S. SEATTLE, March 6.—Bloodhounds of the Navy are loosed upon the Pacific today in the first maneuvers ever held in these waters by the scouting fleet. This arm of America's sea power, a co-ordinating speed unit of the naval forces designed to seek out an enemy force, is moving up the coast from Panama in the role of the defensive Blue Fleet. It is engaged in a war problem to prevent the mighty Black Fleet force of fifty-one war craft of the United States Battle Fleet from reaching the Pacific Coast.

A great network is spread over the sea by fifty-eight vessels of the scouting fleet as it speedily advances. Its chief arms of destruction are on the alert with a division of light cruisers, which form the fundamental basis of scouting. These cruisers move in wide formation covering a large area and maintaining constant watch for aircraft. Destroyers and battleships' radio operators listen in on wide banks of wave lengths on guard for signals from the Black Fleet which, if intercepted, would betray their location.

Observations of airplanes, destroyers and submarines all have an important share in the scouting search. As the hunt proceeds, various units go through battle exercise and are prepared to concentrate as soon the the Black Fleet is located. Destroyers go through battle drills for their effective work against capital ships; submarine divisions maneuver in their plans for surprise attack.

TWELVE SUBMARINES

There are twelve first-line submarines with the Blue Fleet, tendered by three auxiliary ships. They are expected to play an important part in the contact between the Blue and black fleets. Mine squadrons also are preparing for whatever share in any action contact may provide.

The invading Black Fleet, a force of greater striking power, but less mobility, meanwhile moves steadily eastward in its invasion of the Pacific Coast.

All men are busily eating aboard. Suddenly this routine halts, as the fleet tests its readiness to engage in attacks with the scouting Blue Fleet. Gunnery quarters sounds for all officers and men to drop their tasks and go to battle stations. Then, as in battle, only four major functions carry on. These are (1) engineering and navigation ship maintenance; (2) communication on board and throughout fleet; (3) service of ammunition supply, and (4) actual gunnery.

The great rifles of the dreadnaughts, sixteen-inch guns, are

Body of Butte Man Will be Shipped Home

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
LONG BEACH, March 6.—Funeral services for William Woodward of Butte, Mont., who died at St. Mary's Hospital here early yesterday morning following a short but acute case of jaundice, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Motell Chapel. The body will be sent to Butte for interment.

Mr. Woodward was born in Iowa, August 22, 1855. While still a child his widowed mother took him across the plains to Salt Lake City, but in a short time moved to Napa, Cal., where he lived until he was 15 years of age. Moving to Montana in 1870 he located first in Deer Lodge, but in a short time went to Butte.

He married Sophia Thomas of Deer Lodge Valley in 1878. Three children survive, Miss Mary Woodward and Mrs. Herbert Goodall of 1130 East First street, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Woodward had been visiting for several months, and a son, Leslie E. Woodward of Fishtrap, Mont.

CROSSING AT GRADE PLAN IS APPROVED

City to Ask Glendale to Join in Appeal to State Railroad Commission

The City Council yesterday approved the general plan for elimination of grade crossings lying between this city and Glendale.

On the suggestion of the City Planning Commission, the City Attorney was instructed to prepare an invitation to the City of Glendale to join Los Angeles in petitioning the Railroad Commission for a survey looking toward the grade crossing eliminations of the Southern Pacific Railroad. The request from the Planning Commission went on to explain:

"From studies that we have made and hearings that have been held between this department, the State Railroad Commission, the Regional Planning Commission and the County Grade Crossing Elimination Committee, we find that a great saving can probably be made if the whole problem is approached as a unit as was done by the City of Los Angeles in the initial studies by the Railroad Commission on our local grade crossing problem, in what is known as the Union Terminal case. We understand that the Southern Pacific is contemplating rebuilding and enlarging its main line where the grade crossings in question are involved. It is quite essential, therefore, that if the two cities and the Railroad Commission are to properly solve the questions presented, action should be instituted at once."

NAVY OFFICERS TRANSFERRED

Marine Corps Men Also Changed in Order

Hundred Get Assignments for New Duties

Five Hundred More to be Moved This Month

Transfer of 100 officers of the Battle Fleet was announced yesterday by the Navy Department in orders received at the local base, those affected being the first of more than 400 Navy and Marine Corps officers in the fleet who will go to their new posts immediately preceding the Hawaiian maneuvers.

A peculiar situation has arisen among the officer personnel of the fleet as a result of the Navy Department's decision in keeping the present flag officers of the fleet at their present posts until the completion of the Australian cruise in October, although their tours of duty are up in June.

As a result, all flag and staff officers whose two years of sea duty have expired will be retained over the time limit, while nearly 700 unit officers will be transferred regardless of the flag situation.

Notable among the changes are those of Commander Charles S. Kerrick, from duty as executive officer of the U.S.S. Pensylvania, to duty at the Eleventh Naval District, San Diego; Commander J. D. Willson, executive officer of the U.S.S. Mississippi, to command of a destroyer division; Commander R. R. Adams, from command of Destroyer Division Thirty-one, to duty as executive officer of the Pennsylvania; Commander F. J. Fletcher, from command of the U.S.S. Rainbow and the Submarine Base at Cavite, P. I., to duty at Washington; Commander C. H. Bullock, from the Eleventh Naval District to his home; Commander I. C. Johnson, from command Destroyer Division Thirty-two to duty at New York, and Commander C. M. Fiske, from district medical officer of the Fifteenth Naval District to similar duty at San Diego.

Also affected by the wholesale shift are the officers commanding the marine detachments of the twelve battleships of the fleets. Transfers announced yesterday include Capt. E. W. Skinner, from the Marine Barracks at Quantico, Va., to the U.S.S. Tennessee; Capt. D. R. Nimmer, from Quantico to command of the marine detachment aboard the U.S.S. Mississippi; Capt. E. F. Collier, from U.S.S. Mississippi to the Department of the Pacific; Capt. Lyman Passmore, from Quantico to the U.S.S. Pennsylvania; Capt. R. Griffin, from Quantico to command of the marine detachment of the U.S.S. California, relieving Capt. C. B. Cates, who goes to the Department of the Pacific.

In yesterday's orders there were also named twenty-six other Marine Corps officers transferred to various shore duties and service aboard ships of the fleet.

The first consignment of the 250 junior officers of the battleship divisions who will be given duty with the destroyers and other service on the Asiatic station, were also transferred by yesterday's orders. All eleven ensigns are ordered to duty with destroyers of Division Thirty-nine, now en route from the Atlantic with the Scouting Fleet on its way to the Asiatic to relieve Destroyer Division Thirty-eight, which has completed two years' service in the Far East.

These officers are: Ensign W. Abrahams, from U.S.S. Colorado to U.S.S. McCormick; Ensign Neill Phillips, from U.S.S. Tennessee to U.S.S. McCormick; Ensign R. L. Doggett, from U.S.S. California to U.S.S. Parrott; Ensign J. H. McIntosh, from U.S.S. Nevada to U.S.S. Parrott; Ensign M. McLennan, from U.S.S. West Virginia to U.S.S. Simpson; Ensign H. T. Read, from U.S.S. Colorado to U.S.S. MacLeish; Ensign H. R. Robinson, from U.S.S. New Mexico to U.S.S. Edsall; Ensign G. M. Stoddard, from U.S.S. Arizona to U.S.S. McCormick; Ensign R. C. Sutliffe, from U.S.S. Arizona to U.S.S. Parrott; Ensign E. L. Witmer, from U.S.S. Oklahoma to U.S.S. MacLeish.

Officers who are being detached from East Coast organizations for duty with the battle and Asiatic fleets will leave Hampton Roads tomorrow aboard the naval transport Henderson, which is due here on April 3, the day before the departure of the combined United States Fleet for Hawaiian waters.

DIRECT AIR MAIL BY JULY 1

Daylight Flying to Salt Lake Planned; Passengers May Be Carried; Business Assured

July 1, next, will mark the inauguration of direct air-mail service connecting Los Angeles with the East, according to plans of Postmaster-General New announced in dispatches received yesterday from Washington, D. C.

Under the law providing for appropriations for this service, bids will be invited for the new line under private contract between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, and it is expected Los Angeles air companies will guarantee a daily service that will satisfy the Post-office Department.

It is contemplated now that all the flying will be done in daylight hours and that the mail planes either now or later will be permitted to carry passengers in both directions.

Those who secure the contract for mail delivery on this service are expected to be granted the right to carry passengers and, inasmuch as the flying will all be done in the daylight over a country adapted for continuous and safe operation of airplanes, the service will stimulate the carrying of passengers by the air route as well as place Los Angeles on a par with San Francisco in the delivery of air mail.

Contractors are now figuring for this service, and it is expected the united business interests of Los Angeles will guarantee enough air mail to assure the contractors on this air line against any financial loss. Conferences with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the business men of Southern California assure this co-operation and forecast a very successful development of the new air line for the saving of time in communications with the Eastern States and Europe.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

A SELF-SATISFIED group of highbrow young ladies and gents in New York have experienced a rude shock.

As an outlet for their superior intelligences they recently started a magazine called "The New Yorker."

Just for "sophisticates," you understand. They were careful to state both in the prospectus and in the first number of the magazine, that "it will not be edited for the old lady in Dubuque."

THE IOWA LADY

Unhappily some one sent a copy to an old lady in Dubuque.

She took her Iowa pen in hand and laid them out cold in cutting, incisive sentences.

"I do not subscribe to the view," she concluded, "that bad taste is any the less offensive because it is metropolitan taste. There is no provincialism so blatant as that of the metropolitan who lacks urbanity—who lacks the ability to offend without being offensive."

THE SACRED CIRCLE

Those who started "The New Yorker" were H. W. Ross, Ralph Barton, Heywood Broun, Marc Connelly, Edna Ferber, Rea Irvin, George S. Kaufman, Alice Duer Miller, Dorothy Parker, Laurence Stallings, Alexander Wollcott. Broun, Stallings and Miss Ferber have since discreetly dropped out.

SECOND-HAND MENCKEN

These are the folk who represent "the New York idea."

Sometimes a disciple of their higher civilization comes to Hollywood. And some of us of lower intelligence are privileged to listen humbly and with awe to the workings of the sophisticated mind.

It always impresses me that these young intellectuals are boring each other to death. As to the rest of us, we know now that they don't care for Rotary Clubs, K.K.K., Methodists or Kiwanis. To say the least, we are getting saddle sore listening to them ride these worn topics.

Mencken at first hand is great stuff, but Mencken diluted has no savor.

A WONDERFUL TALKER

You find the real talkers of this world in various places—seldom around the studio teas of New York.

The most wonderful talker I ever listened to is J. J. Lopez, a gentleman of old California, who for forty years or more has been the superintendent of the Tejon ranch.

From Senators to section hands I have listened to good talkers. No one of them has had so much charm, so much instinct for drama, and such golden words as this old cattleman out in the hills of the Tejon.

A GOLDEN TONGUE

One of the best talkers I ever listened to is John Webb, a transplanted gentleman of the old South, who lives in Coachella Valley and slams an old automobile around the desert ruts as he talks. He is also an old westerner, and his tongue makes literature.

I could tell of many other western men who talk well and brilliantly, but none as well as these.

CULTURED PIFFLE

There is in the speech of these desert men something of the epic sweep of the saga. They never seem to be trying to talk well; they just talk. The conversation of our intellectual classes always seems wearisome to a lower-class mind like mine; they are always so obviously trying to show off. And their talk is all of piffle. You never remember anything they have said. They are conversational ribbon salesmen.

INTERESTING FOREIGNERS

There are good talkers in Hollywood. Most of them, however, are foreigners. Possibly some of the charm of their conversation is in the quaintness of their English speech.

At that, you do not remember afterward what they have said. It is just a pleasant experience while it is going on.

AN UNCONSCIOUS ARTIST

I never heard Mr. Lopez talk but once. Yet after fifteen years I could repeat, almost word for word, what he said. Just a simple Spanish gentleman of the cow country. Yet I think he is one of the greatest artists I have ever known.

QUIZ IS OPENED ON 'BABY FARM'

State Board of Charities Investigating

Accused Woman is Freed Under $1000 Bond

Other Advertisements Also to be Scrutinized

A new angle of the asserted "baby farm" of Mrs. Hazel M. Sims was under investigation yesterday by Margaret F. Sirch, in charge of the local office of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, who said that she had records of three cases wherein Mrs. Sims had violated the State law in respect to maternity hospitals.

Mrs. Sims, who was arrested Thursday night on a charge of violating the slavery section of the Penal Code, was released on $1000 bonds yesterday after having spent the night in the County Jail. The date of the arraignment had not been set yesterday.

The complaint was based upon the asserted sale by Mrs. Sims of a baby to Mrs. G. Williams of Hawthorne for $175, of which $100 was said to have been represented by a dressmaking contract.

Mrs. Sirch said that the Sims's place at 1622 Kendrick street, Moneta, just outside the city limits, had been under investigation for some time, and that Mrs. Sims had been warned against its continued operation.

HAS NO LICENSE

"We knew that two unmarried mothers were treated there," said Mrs. Sirch. "Mrs. Sims told us that she was interested in the work and sought to help unfortunate girls. Later she accepted another patient, but told us that it was an emergency case, which she could not refuse. The law delegates the licensing of such hospitals to the Board of Charities and Corrections, and the failure to procure such a license is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine and imprisonment of less than a year."

The case came to the attention of the authorities when a notice was inserted in a morning newspaper that Mrs. Sims had children for adoption, and that the advertiser was conducting a maternity home for unfortunate girls. According to information received by Mrs. Sirch, an inquiry brought out the statement from Mrs. Sims that child could be adopted on payment of $50.

It is understood that Mrs. Sims's defense to the charge is that the price covered the cost of physician's bills, care and clothing.

Mrs. Sirch declared that she has the names of several of the girls who have been attended by Mrs. Sims, but is withholding their names.

OTHERS INVESTIGATED

Investigation is being made of a number of women who have been advertising babies for adoption, in the belief that there is some connection between them. Information concerning several, most of them in the vicinity of Gardena and Inglewood, have come to the attention of the officers.

The name of "Mrs. J. C. Devol," who gave her address as general delivery, Gardena, and who sold a baby to a Mrs. Thayer for $205, has been given to Mrs. Sirch. Mrs. Sirch is also investigating the reported activities of a Mrs. Foster of 16431 Massachusetts avenue, Gardena.

The bungalow at 1622 Kendrick street, which Mrs. Sims gave as her home address at the County Jail, was unoccupied last night except for a young woman, who had little to say about Mrs. Sims's activities.

At 441 West Queen street, Inglewood, Mrs. Sims and her husband were located. Mrs. Sims declined to come to the door, her husband speaking for her. He said they had no statement whatever to make concerning the case.

'Y' Will Honor Memory of Late Senator Clark

The board of directors and the staff of the Young Women's Christian Association will attend tomorrow at 6 p.m. a memorial service for the late Senator W. A. Clark, to be conducted at the Mary Andrews Clark Memorial Home, 326 Loma Drive, which he presented to the Y.W.C.A. in 1913 in memory of his mother. The chairman of the Clark Home committee is Mrs. James M. Newell, a sister; preceding her was Mrs. T. F. Miller, also a sister, who died in 1916; and on the committee are two other sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Abascal and Miss Anna Clark. J. Ross Clark, a brother, has made extensive gifts to the Y.W.C.A. also.

Worker, Buried Alive in Cave-in, Dies of Injuries

Buried alive in a small avalanche of earth and stone, Jesus Hernandez, address unknown, suffered injuries early yesterday morning that resulted in his death half an hour later at the Receiving Hospital.

According to a police report of the accident, Hernandez was engaged by a construction company in excavating the foundation of a building at Seventh and Figueroa streets. He had dug too far under the structure, according to C. R. Robinson. A large quantity of dirt and stone became loosened and poured down upon him. Fellow-workers dug him out and took him to the Receiving Hospital.

APPEALS CONVICTION AS RECKLESS DRIVER

Sixty days in jail and $150 fine was the sentence given yesterday for reckless driving to Clyde Garland, 5763 Santa Monica Boulevard, by Police Judge Chambers. He appealed the case and was released in $500 bail. Ed Godfried of 932 State street charged that Garland had forced him into a ditch on Ventura Boulevard. Other witnesses swore Garland was driving between 55 and 60 miles an hour at the time.

MAIL ROBBERY TRIAL ENDS

Arguments of Counsel Completed; Judge Will Give Instructions to Jury This Morning

At the close of almost four hours of argument by David V. Cahill, special assistant to the Attorney-General, Federal Judge James adjourned court with the announcement that the mail robbery case of Jack Elerick, Joe Bertsche and Frank Wilson will be given to the jury today.

Attorney Cahill ceased speaking at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Instructions of the court to the jury are expected to consume at least one hour. Judge James will begin giving them at 9:30 o'clock.

Arguments by counsel for the government and the defense began last Wednesday and consumed thirteen hours. The defense attorneys virtually confined their arguments to an attack on the credibility of Herbert Wilson, the government's chief witness. That part of Attorney Cahill's argument given yesterday was given over almost entirely to a careful analysis of the evidence in an effort to overthrow the alibi of Elerick, whose witnesses testified he was in Sacramento early in March, 1921, the time Wilson said he was in Los Angeles.

Trial of the case began February 10, last, when Herbert Wilson, serving time at San Quentin for the murder of Herbert Cox, was placed on the witness stand by the government. Wilson testified one day on direct examination, and almost four days on cross-examination. He told in detail of various robberies in which he implicated the defendants. Elerick's connection with the mail robbery of March 3, 1921, Wilson said, was as an agent in the disposition of stolen securities.

Testimony for the government, after Wilson was heard, was in corroboration of his story. Chief among the later witnesses was Harry Grenager, former underworld associate of Wilson's. Most of the time occupied by witnesses for the defense was devoted to Elerick's alibi.

COUNCIL TO HIRE ITS ARCHITECTS

cuted by that board. It is therefore within your power to authorize the execution of such contract by any other appropriate officer of the city, such as the Mayor, president of the Council, or City Clerk."

Mr. Eldridge resurrects an opinion from the City Attorney in May, last, regarding an award of contracts for fire alarm boxes under a bond issue similar to the City Hall issue, in which Mr. Stephens says, "the uncertainty and somewhat conflicting provisions of the city charter, as well as the State law under which the bonds were authorized, preclude a definite and positive abatement of the jurisdiction in this matter which will be wholly free from doubt."

Then, the City Attorney in May, 1923, advised the Board of Public Works that in the City Hall matter the board had full power. This opinion said: "That part of the charter setting forth the powers and duties of the Board of Public Works as originally drawn, clearly contemplated the expenditure of bond moneys by the Board of Public Works for the purpose covered by such bonds issued and coming within the province of that board without any specific authority from the City Council, either in the making of contracts or otherwise."

PROPOSAL SHELVED

Earlier in the day the City Council listened to the reading of a communication from the Chamber of Commerce urging that as a means of avoiding the deadlock, a competition under rules of the American Institute of Architects be held for the selection of the most capable local architect to build the City Hall. This was referred to the Civic Center Committee of the Council, without comment by any of the members.

Mr. Allan alone voted "no" on the action looking toward the Council entering directly into the contract with Curlett & Beelman. Mr. Wheeler was absent.

The Chamber of Commerce in the communication signed by its secretary, A. G. Arnol, asks "in a kindly and personally disinterested spirit that the needs of our city do not suffer and that personal feelings and animosities do not manifest themselves to a harmful extent." The plan suggested, the chamber believes, will "leave no room for adverse criticisms by any applicant or contestant for the coveted honor." The plan, addressed jointly to the Council and Board of Public Works, is as follows:

"First: That any suggestions or appointments to this position made by either of your honorable bodies be rescinded.

RULES PROPOSED

"Second: That in case there still remains a legal doubt as to the proper board to make the selection, you each agree to be bound by the result of the award of the jury hereafter proposed.

"Third: Request the national governing board of the American Institute of Architects, 'the Octagon, Washington, D. C.,' to name an architect of national standing and a nonresident of California to act as your professional adviser, said appointment to be made without consultation with the local chapter of that organization. The reason for this nonreference to that body to be in no wise construed as reflecting on their integrity or ability, but to remove the competition hereafter proposed entirely from local influences.

"Fourth — Authorize your professional adviser to visit the city, look over the site, familiarize himself with our local conditions and prepare a program under which competitive plans can be called for, said competition to conform nearly as possible to the code of the American Institute of Architects.

"Fifth—That local prejudices and influences be minimized, and that the utmost fairness prevail, we recommend that the sketches offered be passed upon by a jury consisting of three non-California resident architects of standing, selected by the adviser, and two laymen, one selected by the City Council and one by the Board of Public Works, the decision of a majority of the jury to decide.

"Sixth—Feeling that we have an abundance of local talent of worth, we recommend that the competition be limited to those who are citizens of Los Angeles and maintain their principal office in this city.

"Seventh—The contestant receiving the highest award to receive the commission to prepare working plans and superintend the construction of the City Hall. The contestants receiving the second and third awards are to be given customary monetary consideration.

"All expenses of this competition, including the fee of the adviser, to be deducted from the commission of the successful contestant."

times during the last few months. Reference made yesterday to lawsuits said to have been brought against Kosloff had to do particularly with action brought by a New York attorney to collect money said to be due from Kosloff for assistance given to Mrs. Kosloff in overcoming immigration difficulties when she came to the United States.

Reference was made also to a lawsuit brought against the petitioner in Santa Ana as the result of an automobile accident. When questioned as to difficulties he was said to have had with E. H. Morehouse and with a picture-frame house on account of an unpaid bill, Kosloff said he did not remember anything about it." My secretary might have been slow in paying," he explained.

worked in the manner in which they hurl one-ton missiles twenty miles, averaging one every thirty-five seconds with amazing accuracy. Hundreds of such projectiles may be fired from each battleship. One such shell of high-explosive type would destroy a steel building twenty miles away.

The battleship's airplanes are riding on catapults, two aft and one forward. Their flying radius is for long-range work. One is for observation or spotting and two are of the pursuit type for protecting the spotting plane from enemy aircraft. The spotter controls gunfire and corrects the placement of fire.

Deep down below decks, torpedo crews prepare torpedoes for their mission of great destruction. These mobile explosives have an effective range of 16,000 yards, thus augmenting the big rifles in action.

Gunpointers manipulate anti-aircraft rifles on the upper deck of the dreadnaughts. These rifles hurl thirteen-pound explosive projectiles over four miles into the heavens at the rate of fourteen a minute from each rifle or 112 a minute from each battleship at the rate of two every second.

PROTECTION FROM AIR

Further protection against aircraft is provided by machine guns. Each of these hurls into the sky 400 half-inch projectiles at the rate of a mile in a minute and a half.

In practice against enemy aircraft the battleships move in zig-zag lines, being able to get 1000 feet out of the way before a bomb from a 12,000-foot elevation, taking twenty-eight seconds, could reach the water.

General quarters battle station practice over, the officers and men return to their normal tasks, and natural life in the fortified city moving across the sea is resumed—tailors, carpenters, mechanists, plumbers, electricians, cooks, barbers, printers, stenographers, dentists, laundrymen, and all who make up life in these communities at sea continue the work that keeps the fortified city moving on its mission.

Private Service Today for Late Mabel Waters

Funeral services for Miss Mabel Knowlton Waters will be conducted privately today at the Pico Christian Church.

Miss Waters died Wednesday after an illness of four months. She was the eldest daughter of the late Russell J. Waters, and a member of the Ebell Club, the Women's Orchestra, the Orthopeadic Hospital and many charitable institutions. Miss Waters was well known for her charitable work and her last request was that no flowers be used for her funeral, but that a contribution be made to charity instead.

She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Florence Waters Fay and Miss Myrtle A. Waters, an aunt, a nephew and a niece. Her only brother, Arthur Waters, died some time ago.

Jail is Safer for Capitalist, Youth Figures

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—Believing that $2200 which he carried in his pocket would be safer if he remained in jail, James Talbert, 22 years of age, Chester, refused to leave his cell at the Fifteenth and Vine streets station when a friend appeared with an order for his release.

Talbert was arrested at Broad and Walnut streets for a traffic violation while he was on his way to meet a man to purchase $2300 worth of goods.

The man appeared at the station house with a copy of the charge. He was accompanied by three friends. When Talbert saw them he asked police to lock him up again. He was released when his brother came here from Chester and obtained another copy of the charge.

WILL PREACH ON COOLIDGE

Pastors of City to Discuss Religion of President as Revealed in Inaugural Address

President Coolidge's inaugural address, calling attention of the nation to the value of reverence for God and duty to humanity, is the inspiration for many sermons to be preached from pulpits of Los Angeles churches tomorrow.

In a sermon on "The Creed of Calvin Coolidge," to be preached at the Westlake Presbyterian Church tomorrow evening, Dr. G. A. Briegleb will contrast the sentiments expressed by the President with statements of those who would remove from the nation all elements of spiritual power and make the law of the jungle the monitor in all our national and international relationships.

"No greater utterances have fallen from the lips of a President for many years than those voiced by our President in his significant address," said Dr. Briegleb. "That address, and the entire life of Mr. Coolidge, is a study in spiritual dynamics."

At the morning hour a special musical program will be given at the Westlake Presbyterian Church and Dr. Briegleb will preach on "Bread Enough and to Spare."

"IF I WERE PRESIDENT"

"Will Mr. Coolidge be a good President? Will we ever have a woman President? Does every man have a chance to be Chief Executive of the United States?" These are among the questions to be discussed in a sermon on "If I Were President," to be preached by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher at the Temple Baptist Church tomorrow evening. Go To Church Sunday

Why You Should Go To Church

Rev. Geo. A. Warmer, Pastor Westlake Methodist Episcopal Church

By Rev. George A. Warmer, D.D.—Westlake M. E. Church.

The Christian Church follows the example of the Christ. Concerning Him it is often recorded "As His custom was, He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath Day." The Church is the only institution that majors on worship. Worship is the response of the heart to the fact of God. God is the greatest fact in the universe. To Jesus He was understanding, interest, Father. He may be the same to us. This divine fellowship is richer with human friendship in kindred interest.

The only divine friend and the best of human friends are met at the church.

GETTING THE DOUGH

The diplomat in these times must also be an artistic bill collector. The rate of exchange is the big thing in international life.

COOLIDGE GRAY

The inauguration supplied a new shade, "Coolidge gray"—suggesting the cool, gray dawn of retrospection and payment of the bills. May it long continue in fashion.

HITTING THE HAY

With alfalfa at $60 a ton it is no wonder that the majority of our citizens are buying gasoline. At this rate it costs less to run an auto stage than a coach and four.

THE POET KNOWS

A specialist says that a genuine poet can touch his nose with the tip of his tongue. Some of the verse we are getting would indicate that he is doing that very thing.

GUARDS THE SCOTCH

Of 325 ships known to be in the rum-running trade on the Atlantic Coast 308 are flying the British flag. The Scotch whisky is said to be getting so weak that it needs a powerful stimulant. This is supposed to be furnished by the British ensign.

STICK TO THE SHIP

There are lots of re-enlistments in Uncle Sam's Navy. For a short time after the war these were light. The entries were not for a long term and on expiration they were not renewed. But the majority of those whose enlistments are now expiring are signing over again. This is well for everybody. The nation is glad to keep the old men on. Up to a certain point they improve with age and the Navy is reaching its maximum efficiency in personnel.

TRAVEL MONEY

Three American girls who spent nearly all of last summer in Europe on less than $600 each for the entire venture have been telling how it was accomplished. Traveling second-class in most cases has proved as satisfactory as if first-class tickets were bought. Likewise there are moderately priced hotels and inns all over Europe. The traveler who does bargaining instead of grasping the first offer will fare better than the spendthrift. Neither will he be despised. The safe and sane traveler who knows what he wants and knows what he ought to pay for it will be respected, no matter in what land he may be journeying.

OUR STUFF ABROAD

American exports are now running nearly 20 per cent greater than they were before the war. The export business of our leading rivals ranges around 15 per cent less than in the other days. We thereby have an envied position in the business of the world. It was during the war that Europe began the larger use of our manufactured articles. Prior to that period our exports were chiefly raw materials and foodstuffs. But now we ship many things. Likewise we are getting better prices than other peoples because we are now turning out better wares. It is also pleasant to note that a larger share of our increased shipments goes forth from our own harbor—Los Angeles.

THE NEW PLAN

The new idea in the public-building bill should make a hit with the taxpayers. Instead of the Congressmen wrangling or dickering over the postoffices in their districts an appropriation of not more than $25,000,000 a year for six years is stipulated. This sum is to be expended under the joint supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster-General, with the approval of Congress on specific items. The Cabinet officers may, therefore, recommend the construction of a building in a certain city, when its need has been proven, but Congress may still refuse to join. That makes rather complete protection for the people. No building will be erected unless it is needed and lobbying for special favors is made idle.

REASONABLE DOUBT

President Coolidge has the rather unusual idea that public money should not be spent except to meet the public need. This is a rather distressing position to the politicians, but it still stands and they will have to make the best of it. The President sets the matter up as if he were in court. He says that there should be no money spent unless the guardians of the funds are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the expenditure is demanded by the public good. Not a dollar without a genuine demand. President Coolidge goes still further. He says that the collection of any taxes which are not absolutely required or which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare is only a species of legalized larceny. Legislators who spend money without moral proof that it is for the public good are workers of evil. If the President can convince the Congressmen that they are trustees rather than mere disbursing agents he will have accomplished much.

FUNDAMENTALS OF LIBERTY

Experience of the new democracies in Europe proves anew that a representative form of government will promote domestic tranquillity and the well-being of the governed only in the degree that it is grounded in fundamentals of justice and equity. President Coolidge stressed these fundamentals in clear and concise language in his inaugural address. He charted the shoals which representative government must avoid and traced the channels through which the Ship of State can pass with safety.

Those who expected that the President would recommend departures from the policies of his predecessor, once he held a clear mandate from the people, were disappointed. The Coolidge of 1925 will not depart from the traditions of the Coolidge of 1924. There are fundamentals of just representative government that are unchanging. They mark the broad highways of human progress, and to depart from them is to follow bypaths that lead to the quicksands of anarchy and absolutism.

The President was in thorough harmony with the platform of the Republican party, and he regards his election on that platform as a mandate from the people to coordinate its affirmations into laws. He called attention in his address to policies which appeared in the platforms of other political parties whose candidates were rejected by decisive majorities in the general election, and he said that these policies had been rejected by the people, who thus give to him and to Congress mandates to oppose them if an attempt is made to have them written into the laws of the nation.

One mandate which he regards as imperative is that to protect the Constitution from the radical groups that seek to weaken and, ultimately, destroy it. The groups sought to attack the Constitution through the Supreme Court. They would weaken the power and limit the jurisdiction of that body; but they were so decisively rebuked that the President does not expect any further attacks from that source in the immediate future. "There was such a manifestation of faith in the integrity of the courts," said the President, "that we can consider that issue rejected for some time to come."

The President pointed to the result of the election to prove that "the policy of public ownership of the railroads and certain electric utilities met with unmistakable defeat. The President regards this issue as decided, that the people have voiced their unmistakable desire to have "the ownership and control of their property, not in the government, but in their own hands."

The fundamental issue here involved is that the government should be limited to performing strictly governmental duties, and that it should not enter into competition with private business. The President, as well as a majority of the people of the country, is of the opinion that railroad men and trained electrical men can conduct the railroads and the electric utilities more economically and more effectively than the politicians.

One of the fundamentals of American self-government, according to the President, is a strict adherence to American traditions. "We believe that we can best serve our own country," he said, "and most successfully discharge our obligations to humanity by continuing to be openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously American. If we have any heritage, it has been that. If we have any destiny, we have found it in that direction."

This is the President's reply to the internationalist propaganda that emanates from Moscow. The people are with him in an enormous majority in his firm stand that the Stars and Stripes shall never be lowered, to be replaced by the Red Flag of internationalism. America will not lose its identity, will not consent to be submerged in a flood of radical internationalism.

The President voiced the fundamental principle of national defense and security when he said: "Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward the rest of the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people . . . But it should be so conducted that all the world may see in it, not a menace, but an instrument of security and peace."

The President sounded a call for party unity in Congress, not in narrow partisan lines, but in the broader scope that those who are elected as Republicans on a Republican platform, like those who are elected as Democrats on a Democratic platform, should regard that election as a mandate from the people to support the policies of the platform and party by which they are chosen. For them not to do so is to be false to those whose suffrage they solicited.

These are but a few of the more important fundamentals in an address that will rank high among the inaugural utterances of our Presidents. It was not a political address. It contains nothing sensational; but it is a call to the people to study anew the fundamentals of true, exalted Americanism. The closing affirmation of his faith that a higher power has directed and does direct the destinies of peoples recalls the addresses of Washington and Lincoln.

EASTERN EARTHQUAKES

In the dispatches from the East regarding recent earthquakes it is well to draw the attention of Californians to the fact that few localities are immune from tremblings of the earth. The vibrations felt in New York, Cleveland and other parts of the East have at least this salutary effect: They tend to prove that no section is immune to seismic disturbances. There is a certain similarity between the light shocks in the East and those of Southern California in the degree of mildness and no loss of human life as a direct result of the quake.

The eastern slope appears to be subject to the same absence of major fissures as this locality, where there have been minor vibrations in which no loss of life has been recorded for the last two or three generations. The reason seems to be that the underpinning of the lower strata of the earth escapes the hidden cavities which are forever the weak spot of such districts where the major fissures are situated. The major fissure on the west slope leaves Southern California well within 400 to 500 miles to the south and within 100 miles west from another western submerged crag which is not so serious. Seismologists seem to agree in the opinion that vibrations in the Southwest are principally a re-echo of more serious disturbances elsewhere.

Apart from the great chronological catastrophes which happen in parts of the earth where the major fissures are located there is but little danger of loss of life in submerged undulations of the bowels of the earth. Considering the apprehension felt in New York in regard to skyscrapers, building restrictions in Los Angeles are a protective measure for which the present generation may well be thankful to the original planners of the city, even though the dangers are but slight in a locality so well protected as Los Angeles. After all, prevention is the better part of wisdom.

LOYALTY

La Follette has been discovered and catalogued at last. He has been relieved of his power and released to shift for himself. He did not seem to feel the need of friends who had given him his place in the sun.

Having climbed to the altitude of candidacy for the Presidency, he kicked down the ladder which had lifted him. When he failed to jimmy into the White House like a second-story man he had no means of retreat.

He claimed to be a Republican through the years and received the patronage of his party. In time of stress, however, he traded with the enemy. He contracted to sell out his party; but when it came to make the delivery he did not have the goods.

Puffed up with self-importance, he thought himself a Moses sent to deliver his people from the land of bondage; but he proved to be but a betrayer with a price tag on his character.

He has been disciplined and relieved of the committees in Congress on which he served. Friendship and favor can never be pawned with success. They are priceless treasures of the loyal.

More than one man thinks he is loyal to principle and he is just a four-flusher trying to dispose of himself to advantage. Loyalty is one of the largest words in the language. It is neither purchasable with gold nor salable for silver. Loyalty is never on the bargain counter.

Loyalty is a characteristic; not an accident. He who double-crosses his friend is likely to be disloyal to his party, his country, his church, his God. It is elemental, not incidental.

Washington was loyal to principle. Benedict Arnold was disloyal to two countries successively in his career. He was disloyal by nature. It was a habit.

THE ALIENIST IN COURT

Dr. Joseph Collins, former president of the American Neurological Association, has come out strongly in a magazine article against the present system of courts accepting the testimony of inexpert physicians as to the sanity of criminals. He intimates that the decisions in several famous murder cases during the past year might have been entirely different from those rendered had not judge and jury listened to so-called "expert" testimony by persons not qualified to give really scientific opinions.

As pointed out by The Times a few weeks ago, cross-examination sometimes has revealed the showy pretense of doctors who have been trapped into testifying to the correctness of citations from an "authoritative" medical work which the shrewd attorney, anxious to prove the witness's lack of knowledge, would then proceed to prove was nonexistent. This trick, being now pretty well known to the medical fraternity, does not work as well as formerly; and the "expert" often goes unchallenged. Dr. Collins says that even Supreme Court justices, on reviewing testimony which any skilled alienist would regard as of no practical value, have gravely accepted such evidence. Readily understandable by the lay mind is Dr. Collins's quotation of the remark made by one justice of the United States Supreme Court that, judging by the kind of doctors some Supreme justices call in to treat their physical ills, he would hesitate to let them select a physician to testify as to his sanity.

After reviewing quite convincingly the misleading testimony given in celebrated murder cases Dr. Collins says there is only one remedy for the evil and that is the examination of accused persons by regular boards of alienists appointed by State medical associations. Such experts would be paid by the State and would be available at all times. They would give their testimony in court, as it is given at present, and it would be as nearly efficient as such testimony possibly could be.

This leads the layman to infer that in some cases such testimony cannot really be conclusive; and, indeed, most alienists would agree that when it comes to a question of emotional insanity, "brainstorms" or obscure paranoiacal conditions it is extremely difficult to determine the exact state of each case or the degree of insanity, if any.

It is evident from the learned writer's remarks that the scientific alienist, who examines and testifies as best he can, feels very keenly the attitude of the layman which results from classing him with doctors of various degrees of knowledge or ignorance as to insanity, for he says that he wants "to see the time when an expert alienist, walking among his fellow-men, shall not think that half of them regard him as a liar and the other half as a demigod."

Just About It
by James J. Montague

MAUD MULLER—AS IT WOULD HAVE BEEN WRITTEN TODAY

Two hundred thousand American women are successful farmers

Maud Muller, in a summer's day,
Raked the meadows, sweet with hay.

The judge, arriving upon the scene
In a 1919 limousine,

Paused by the fence and blushed and sighed
And asked the maiden to be his bride.

But Maud, with a frown in her fishy eye,
Replied in an icy accent: "Why?

"I sell more hogs in a single day
Than you could buy with your monthly pay,

"A thousand acres of land I till
And wheat's two dollars and rising still.

"Go back to the county seat, old sport,
To your battered bench in your dingy court,

"And find some girl who won't have to sneer
At a couple of thousand or so a year,

"Who will be content with a modest flat
And a played-out limousine car—like that—

"And the scrimping and saving and worrying life
That must be the lot of a judge's wife."

With which she bid him a kind good-day
And he stepped on the throttle and drove away.

And as he bumped down the muddy lane,
His thoughts were fashioned in this refrain:

"I must marry some poor little household drudge,
For, after all, I am just a judge!"

THE BRIDE

She this dim garden planted,
The bride of but a year.
These seeds so sweetly blowing
With breaths of kindly cheer.

Each budding leaf she welcomed,
The birds came at her call,
There were no fairer roses
Than bloomed against this wall.

Came merry children's laughter
Reechoing a day,
Then vanished as the breezes
Soon bore the notes away.

Now close beneath this maple,
With boughs protecting, wide,
She sleeps, the years forgotten,
Once more a winsome bride.

OLDEST OF ITS KIND

Frank G. Logan, vice-president of the Art Institute of Chicago, has in his possession a necklace which is said to be the oldest object fashioned by man which has ever been unearthed. The beads composing the necklace, says W. J. Sherwood of the Art Institute, are probably 75,000 years old. They are made of ivory, deer antler and polished stone. They were found in a cave at La Blanchard, France.—[Pathfinder.

LETTERS TO The Times

Railroad Men's Wages

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I always pleased and read with avidity Mr. Graves's articles in your paper, but his offering of Sunday was not true to type. Usually his are without dispute, but surely he is aware that railway men are overpaid. His remark about the big money they are receiving is consistent with the facts or else he has been misled by some one in favor of unionism.

There are two or three classes of railway men who are well paid, engineers, conductors and train crews generally, but look at their responsibilities. In any other line of business a person having the same ability as the aforementioned railway men would receive the same or greater remuneration. How about the rank and file of railroad employees? Are they overpaid or even adequately paid. No, certainly not. I hold no brief for the railway men and am not in favor of labor unions, but recognize that they have good points and that workers should have the right to organize if they feel the necessity. I have no use for their dictatorial methods and believe that a worker should be paid what that worker is worth and pull with the employer all the time.

FRED C. HELLAWELL.

"False Pretenses!"

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Ye gods! A woman with ambition and energy enough to support herself and two children lone-handed, and not stealing or vamping, dons a man's overalls, is arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. That's ludicrous. But when they also charge her with obtaining labor under false pretenses—well, that is a masterpiece in schoolboy policing! Suppose she could wear rouge effectively or men's knickers or exercise a pair of wiggly eyes or vamp some son of a bank account or put over a piece of fiction for charity's sake, or—ah—photograph. Well? The police would rent a Rolls-Royce to carry her back and forth, she'd be given some lovely title, say, "The Boyish Beauty," "The Brave Flapper" and so forth. And—no authority would think of such a thing as these "false representations"—they'd find a complimentary phrase, you can bet on that!

Water Drinking

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The article, by Barclay L. Serverns on "Water Drinking" in The Times of last Sunday is in line with the latest researches of biologists, hygienists and sanitarians. Many of the facts given by Mr. Serverns have not yet appeared in the textbooks; there are quite a number of physicians who still adhere to age-old theories about water—theories that date back to the time when all doctors refused to give water to a fever patient. So far as I am aware, The Times is the first paper to present to the public these later and most important discoveries about water.

ELMER E. CAREY.

Masters of Fate

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It appears obvious that James Small of Monrovia wholly missed the point of my recent letter which was inspired by your editorial on "The Unpardonable Vice."

The only point I tried to emphasize was that all the legal, ecclesiastical, social and religious remedial agencies and panaceas are utterly unavailing for human recovery until the individual initiates the work of saving himself.

To man has been committed by his Creator the responsibility of directing his own course, fashioning his own character and deciding his own destiny. He cannot evade that responsibility—he cannot delegate it to another. No man, no mechanism, no system, no sacrament, doctrine, dogma, liturgy or "belief" can act as a substitute. As he must give an account of himself to God, so he must "work out his own salvation." That is both the law and the gospel.

Vicarious virtue and substitutional character are self-evident absurdities. This generation has been "helped," "uplifted," petted, pampered, fondled and flattered until vast masses of men and women appear fireproof and bullet-proof against everything but spiritual, moral and intellectual coddling.

J. T. MINEHART.

Word of Thanks

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I, through the medium of your paper, thank the young man who came to my rescue and brought me to the hotel when I had severely twisted my ankle on a defective curbstone at the corner of Shatto Place and the R car line after having been passed by many motorists.

E. H. SMILLEE.

Two Ways to Save Money

The American people start 1925 with their lives insured for a total of $64,000,000. This amounts to about $560 of insurance for every man, woman and child. All records were broken during 1924, when $13,500,000 of new life policies were taken out by the people. The public has three times as much life insurance as it has money in savings banks. A considerable part of the population lacks the thrift instinct. They are unable to save systematically. To such people, life insurance is doubly a blessing. It is equivalent to buying a savings account and paying for it on the installment plan. A nation that has $64,000,000 of life insurance, a third as much in savings banks, and fabulous savings invested in homes, certainly cannot be accused of being a spendthrift.—[Capper's Weekly.

APPRAISERS FOR CITY GIVEN FEES

Three Get $12,000 Checks in Civic Center Deal

Judge Overrules Stephens's Plea for Reduction

Council and Supervisors Still Are Unable to Agree

The largest appraisal fee ever awarded in Los Angeles county was paid yesterday by the city. City Auditor Myers handed checks for $12,000 apiece to Wilbur L. Goodwin, Paul W. Crippen and E. O. Bell in payment for their services in setting the prices the city will pay for land to be condemned for the new Civic Center. Judge York of the Superior Court had just refused the plea of Attorney Stephens for a reduction of the fee. Stephens immediately after the fee was fixed, entered a motion for reconsideration on the ground that an excessive amount was allowed.

"I have not heard anything here that I did not know at the time the fee was fixed originally," Judge York said, after hearing testimony as to the extent of the services rendered. "Large values were involved in these proceedings, and many tedious hearings were held. As a matter of fact, each of these gentlemen is being paid less than one-third of 1 per cent of the value of the properties fixed by them. The order will stand."

The property, which is to be taken by the city for the straightening of Spring street north from First street, and for Civic Center purposes, was valued by the appraisers at $3,600,000.

The city and county are no nearer than ever to an agreement on the Civic Center plan prepared by Allied Architects. Supervisor Shaw said yesterday. The report of the architects has been completed several months, but as yet there has been no conference on the plan between Council and the Board of Supervisors.

INK CRASH VICTIM TO OIL FRAUD

Attorneys Believes Breen is One Sought on Indictment in Texarkana

R. Bruce Breene, oil promoter, who was killed in an automobile accident Thursday morning at Beverly Boulevard and Fairfax avenue, is believed to be "Harold B. Breene," who was indicted on a grand jury charge at Texarkana, Texas, December 1, 1924, according to J. L. Atterbury, special assistant to the Attorney-General. Atterbury, who is aiding District Attorney David. V. Cahill in the prosecution of oil-fraud cases in Southern California, has charge of the prosecution of defendants named in sixteen oil-fraud indictments returned at Texarkana last December.

Federal officials here have a certified copy of an indictment returned at Texarkana against Harold B. Breene and Howard D. Bushell. The latter, Attorney Atterbury said yesterday, has been arrested and is held under bond. Breene has been a fugitive from justice. The indictment charges use of the mails in a scheme to defraud, and conspiracy to use the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with promotion of the United States Oil Corporation.

Breene under indictment was formerly a resident of Tulsa, according to Attorney Atterbury. Investigations by police, following the fatal automobile accident, disclosed that R. Bruce Breene recently had been here from Tulsa and had been residing at 1200 Harper street. Breene and a companion, Lois Garrison, 16 years of age, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding overturned.

Wife Charges Daily Beating, Threat on Life

Joseph Silvestri stood a daily beating for seven months in complete silence, but when her husband, Joseph, laid down the ultimatum that she'd better leave or he wanted to remain alive, Mrs. Silvestri decided it was time to act. This and several other things are charged in the complaint for divorce which is now on file in the office of the husband, who is described in the bill to be the joint owner with his wife of a Temple-street market worth $75,000 and having a net income of $735 a month.

In addition to the daily beating Mrs. Silvestri avers that her husband kept her awake nearly every night for seven weeks until after 2 o'clock in the morning to hear how much he hated her.

The complaint recites that they were married in South Bend, Ind., in 1909, and separated a week ago. Mrs. Silvestri asks alimony of $225 a month and custody of their three children, as well as a home. The suit was filed for her by Attorney George S. Hupp.

Woman is Sued in Aftermath of Burglary Charge

An echo of the recent trial of Fred P. Randleman, former bank cashier of Huntington Park, on a charge of burglary in connection with the asserted theft of a pair of diamonds was heard in Superior Court yesterday when Randleman was sued for $50,500 damages by Mrs. Matilda Boeres, reputed wealthy, for asserted malicious prosecution.

Randleman stated Mrs. Boeres had filed a complaint charging him with stealing her husband's trousers, for which he was tried and acquitted October 9, 1924. A warrant was issued on January 15, last, by a jury before Justice Keetch's court. Randleman asserted his prosecution was instituted without just cause. His suit was prepared by Attorneys Hutchinson Elconin and Arch Kelley.

FIFTH STORE IS OPERATED BY BROOKS

Clothing Company Adds to Selling Capacity in Los Angeles

The Brooks Clothing Company, opening the fifth store of the chain, located in Los Angeles and vicinity, yesterday added 10,000 square feet of selling space to the already vast capacity of the organization. The new store, in the Pershing Square Building, at Hill and Fifth streets, is not only commodious, but possesses every modern facility for the transaction of business. A broad stairway opening on Fifth street, gives access to the store, which occupies the entire second floor of the building. Another entrance is on Hill street by means of elevators.

Light is the first feature presenting itself to the visitor in the new home of this company, a feature most essential to the fitting of men's clothes. Work-rooms, also, are light, airy and equipped with every modern facility.

BLACKTON BURGLARY NET DRAWN

Police Confident Man Shot by Fencing Master is Near Capture

Arrest of one of the two burglars who forced their way into the home of J. Stuart Blackton, motion-picture director, at 7065 Hilldale avenue, Hollywood, and fought a gun duel with Gerard Mervex, fencing master, was anticipated in a short time by detectives yesterday.

They are convinced that one of the two desperadoes was wounded in the battle and last night were checking hospitals, rooming-houses and emergency treatment stations in an effort to locate him.

Mervex, who lives at the Blackton home, was awakened by the noise the burglars made in their attempt to force open a chest of silver downstairs. He surprised one of the burglars and promptly opened fire at point-blank range. The burglar fled, but his partner, who had been keeping guard on the outside, returned the fencer's fire. Drops of blood found on the porch indicated that one of the suspects had been hit. Mervex's right arm, near the shoulder, was seared by one of the burglar's bullets.

Woman is Given $1 Award in Suit for Heart Balm

Katherine I. Kinsella will receive damages of $1 from Dames J. Provencher, bank clerk, for his asserted failure to keep a promise to marry her, under the terms of a verdict returned yesterday by a jury in Judge Burnell's department of Superior Court.

Miss Kinsella sued for $50,000, declaring she and Provencher became engaged in April, 1923, but that the defendant later declined to wed her. The jury that heard the testimony in the case deliberated less than an hour in reaching an agreement.

In finding for Miss Kinsella the jury decided Provencher might have broken his asserted promise to marry Miss Kinsella, but did not severely break her heart in doing so.

Provencher denied he was responsible for the broken romance, testifying the engagement was called off by mutual consent.

SEVENTEEN VACANCIES IN MUNICIPAL SERVICE

Examination to fill seventeen vacancies in the municipal service will be conducted by the City Civil Service Commission during the latter part of the present month, it was announced yesterday. The positions vacant are those of bond registrar, senior surveyor, sanitary and housing inspector, posting and billing machine repairman, cook, junior surveyor, water meter and service inspector, foreman in the garbage collection department, complaint and order clerk, instrument man, foreman in the asphalt plant, hydrographer's aid, field auditor, chairman, foreman in the street maintenance department, bridge tender and gas and engine mechanic. Further information may be obtained by applying in person at the offices of the commission at 506 Bullard Block.

PRISONER SLASHES SELF WITH RAZOR

Cruz Gonzales, a Federal prisoner in the County Jail, cut himself slightly yesterday with a safety razor blade in an asserted attempt to commit suicide. Gonzales is awaiting transportation to Leavenworth, where he had been committed on a Mann Act charge. Gonzales told officers he felt remorseful because he had said something in court concerning Mrs. Vesta Nicoli, whom he had brought from Mexico, that was not true.

MADAM LESSING IS HELD BY JURY

Indictment Returned on Mail Charge

Booklet Was Sent to Many Prominent Persons

Urged Abolishment of Civil Marriage Bond

An indictment charging use of the mails in the distribution of obscene literature was returned by the Federal grand jury yesterday against Mme. Edith Malda Lessing who was placed in jail three weeks ago on complaint of postoffice inspectors. Mme. Lessing said at the time of her arrest she wished to go to jail.

The defendant has been in similar difficulty before. The indictment is based on the "Syllabus" recently sent to numerous prominent persons in Los Angeles. This is a booklet in which Mme. Lessing advocates abolishment of the civil marriage bond and the establishment of a bureau of procreation.

Jose Alarcon, arrested a week ago by secret service agents on a charge of passing counterfeit money, was indicted. He is said to have passed twenty raised $10 bills in Los Angeles. Clifford Curtis, held by secret service agents on a charge of forging a government check for $120, also was indicted.

Violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act is charged in indictments returned against Antonio Reyes, Charles Cornett, Edward Hoffman and Enrique Munoz.

Other indictments were against Jose Vasquez and C. J. Ruppellius, violation of the Tariff Act; Constantino Danielli, violation of the immigration law; Carlo Resgio, violation of the passport law; Paul E. Nelson, use of the mails in a scheme to defraud, and Edwin Edward Hanel, Ernst Pinkas and Josef Aigner, charged with conspiracy to violate the immigration law.

Nelson was arrested last Saturday on a charge of having sent a letter to Orra E. Monnette, president of the Bank of America, demanding $2000. The letter received by Mr. Monnette threatened that his home would be blown up if the money was not paid.

SHOT FIRED AT YOUTH TAMPERING WITH AUTO

Clarence Ohmstede, a youth in his teens, just missed being shot early yesterday morning while attempting, according to the police, to steal an auto horn from another man's car. The asserted attempted theft took place in the rear of John Angoine's residence at 1045 South Gramercy Place. P. G. Kluse of 1107 Crenshaw Boulevard, observed the youth tampering with Mr. Angoine's car. He called to him to stop, and when the youth ran, took a shot at him. Detective Lieutenants Teel and Spinner, who happened to be driving by in a police car at the time, heard the shot and stopped. They observed the youth running, and quickly overtook him and placed him under arrest. He was booked at the Wilshire police station for tampering with an auto.

RULES AND PRIZES

IN "THE TIMES" FRIENDSHIP CONTEST

To encourage in every possible legitimate way the dissemination of the truth about Southern California as a means of combatting the false attacks on this section which have been widely circulated throughout America, the Los Angeles Times offers cash prizes as follows for the best letters setting forth the attractions of Southern California as a place to visit and to live:

For the best letter	$1000
For the next best letter	500

For the three next best $50 each or altogether	150
For the ten next best $25 each or altogether	250
For the twenty-five next best $10 each or altogether	250
For the fifty next best $5 each or altogether	250
For the 250 next best $1 each or altogether	250
Total, 342 prizes aggregating	$3000

JUNIOR DIVISION

For the best letter	$100
For the next best letter	50
For the third best	25
For the two next best $10 each or altogether	20
For the six next best $5 each or altogether	30
For the next twenty-five best, $1 each or altogether	25
Total, thirty-six prizes aggregating	250
Grand total both divisions, 378 prizes aggregating	$3250

Following are the rules. The Times reserving the right to make additions and changes if any be found necessary to promote the best interests of the contest and its purposes:

(1.) The duration of the contest shall be from January 25 until March 10 at 6 p.m. Letter copies submitted in competition must be sent to the Prize Letter Editor, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles, Cal. They may be mailed or deposited in the Prize Letter Box, main lobby, Times Building. No letter shall be eligible for a prize unless it has been deposited in the Prize Letter Box or postmarked on or before the date and hour specified.

(2.) The purpose of all letters submitted in this contest shall be to make friends for California, through a truthful presentation of her attractions. Contestants may write whatever in their judgment is best calculated to inspire a desire to visit or live here. The effectiveness of the letter, as a convincing communication from one friend to another, will be the principal consideration. For this reason, no letter should contain any reference to this contest.

(3.) All letters must be copies of bona fide originals which have been mailed to actual persons or to newspapers at correct addresses outside the State of California. In other words, write your letter, mail it to some one you know or to your home-town paper and send a copy to the Prize Letter Editor of The Times, Los Angeles. The genuineness of letters will be subject to check.

(4.) Every letter must bear the name and address of the person or paper to whom the original has been mailed, and the name and address of the writer. Put these on the letter itself: not on a separate sheet. Write on one side of the paper only.

(5.) All contestants must be persons now living in Southern California, that is, in Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Kings, Inyo or Kern counties. Temporary residents are eligible. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Times.

(6.) Letters may be of any length up to 1000 words.

(7.) Any contestant may write and submit copies of any number of letters during the life of the contest, but each original must be sent to a different addressee.

JUNIOR DIVISION

(10.) Membership in the junior division of the contest shall be open to all letter-writers under 16 years of age.

(11.) Contestants entering the junior division shall be governed by the same rules formulated for the general contest.

(12.) Contestants entering the junior division shall be eligible both for the special prizes in that division and the larger prizes offered for the general contest. In addition to giving their names and addresses and the names and addresses of those to whom their letters have been mailed, junior contestants must state their correct age. Such statement will be subject to verification. All letters entered in this division must be so designated.

large reservoirs and is ready as needed.

"This not only makes for a rich agricultural development, but as well is one of our attractive climatic features—we know that at certain seasons we can make plans months ahead and be sure that they will not be interfered with by inclement weather. But it does not make, of course, for the sort of situation you specify.

ATTRACTIVE LAKES

"To be sure, we have attractive lakes and there are many reservoirs near several of our cities that provide the advantages of a lake environment." The letter goes on to name and describe several locations which might meet the desires of the inquirer, near the mountains and within easy reach by motor of the sea and the beaches, where six and seven-room houses with large lots may easily be bought for between $10,000 and $20,000.

"I have, of course," the writer continues, "in the foregoing touched only on the high spots. My thought was to give you more or less of a general picture, with one or two specific applications, just to indicate how readily your requirements could be met. You will, I take it, devote much time to discussion of the general possibilities and will not make any decision until you have taken the personal inspection tour of which you write."

The letter concludes with an offer to extend the courtesies of the Automobile Club's service between Denver and Los Angeles. After a fortnight's interval comes the reply.

"Naturally," it says, "we have met many folks who have lived in California—north, central and south—and many who have visited you. Most all agree that Californians are given to exaggeration, pride and so on until one would imagine the whole State overrun with real estate salesmen.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

"Imagine our surprise—a pleasant surprise—to receive your letter, wherein conditions are exactly stated with no effort to present matters other than those that actually exist. And you stated the scarcity of fresh-water lakes and streams even after you knew we desired such.

"To say your letter was favorably received is stating it mildly for, since reading it, we are more than ever determined to liquidate our assets, pull up stakes and reinvest somewhere in Southern California.

"Northern California may be delightful, but we understand it is quite cold—in fact the climate is much similar to our own and subject to the dampness, humidity and fogs of winter and the heat of summer.

"My brother and sister have homes in Portland, Or., and I believe will defend the locality far beyond what anyone native to that place would dare to do. However, I know Portland and Washington and the whole coast north of Frisco—too much rain and too damp and cold for all-the-year living.

"I know nothing at all about California south of San Francisco except from others. Besides, my last visit to the West Coast was made in 1904—think of the changes since then.

WILL PULL UP STAKES

"We cannot have everything, so will take the nearest thing to it—Southern California—and forego the fresh-water lakes and streams we love so well and that are so common here that they are not appreciated except by visitors.

"A little joke on us for your gratification might cause you to smile. We saw a Lake Tulare on the map somewhere above Bakersfield—we all wanted to go there. I brought home a Los Angeles Times (Sunday, February 9, issue) and read about the wheat growing in the old lake bed, and we all laughed at our plans.

"Then we realized how truthful your letter really was and decided we were in touch with a reliable source of information and not with any of the 'wonderful real estate salesmen' that returning visitors tells about. I believe the disappointment of these visitors is due to expecting too much from being given the wrong information by overzealous salesmen who were looking for sales, not for bona fide additions to population.

"To be entirely frank with you, I might add that we are postponing our tour this summer, because we are planning on selling our homes, business and everything else, pulling up stakes, burning bridges and relocating with you permanently. That will save time, expense and trouble. Perhaps we will be a couple of years getting ready but eventually we shall be with you to settle down."

CAMPAIGN PLAN FOR TREES IS APPROVED

Residents of Hollywood, attending a Chamber of Commerce open-forum meeting held at the Hollywood public library, unanimously approved the chamber's tree-planting campaign plan and also suggestions regarding the beautification of vacant lots and tracts along the streets of the community. Mary Pickford, in a letter sent to the women in charge of the meeting, made several suggestions along the lines of the chamber's campaign and also advocated some distinctive means of beautifying Hollywood, such as benches covered by gay awnings at prominent corners. The meeting, held Thursday night, was in charge of the Hollywood Business Women's Club and President Mrs. A. L. Mojoiner presided. Among the speakers were: Mrs. Burdette Norton, M. W. Chandler, Arthur Darling, Ferdinand Pinney Earle, Rev. Dr. J. S. Skevington and George H. Thomas.

WOMAN IS STRUCK BY TRAIN; INJURIES FATAL

Mrs. Laura B. Turner, 55 years of age, a music teacher with a studio at 1951 Raymond avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when struck by a Pacific Electric shortline train en route to Venice near Marshal Manor, between Mar Vista and Culver City.

The woman was hurried to the Casa Del Mar Health School but died in a few minutes. The body was removed to the Sharp & Noland mortuary. The woman, according to witnesses, apparently did not see the approaching train and stepped directly in its path.

HUSBAND FEARS BRIDE KIDNAPED

Note Says She is Being Held by Slave Ring

Girl Blames Six Men and Blond Woman

Police Comb Underworld in Their Search

Underworld haunts in Los Angeles were being combed yesterday by police for a young bride who, according to a letter to her mother, was kidnaped by supposed "white slavers" two weeks after her marriage and is being held captive in some place, the location of which she does not know.

"For God's sake help me," the letter pleaded. "They made me henna my hair and are going to take me to Denver to make me dance in a cabaret."

The captive, according to the letter turned over to Detective Lieutenant Williams by Mrs. George Hunter, 2521 East Fifty-eighth street, Huntington Park, is her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Thompson, 20 years of age. She disappeared mysteriously on February 17 last, without leaving a clew on which her husband, Lyle Thompson, and her mother could work to search for her.

Heartbroken by the tragedy that has broken up his home, the young husband is aiding police in the search and is furnishing them with the names of all acquaintances of the girl before her marriage, in order that police may question them in the mystery.

IN WRONG COMPANY

"I got in wrong company after my marriage," the note stated. Further details of the circumstances surrounding her disappearance were not given in the note, which evidently was written under stress and at a moment during which the vigilance of her captors was relaxed.

That the girl is being held in strict captivity and is unaware of the location of her prison is shown, according to police, by her failure to give the address from which she sent the missive.

The gang that kidnaped the bride, the note states, was composed of six men and a "blond woman." The only clews to the identity of the men, the note says, are nicknames of two of the men, who are known as "Lindy" and "Blackie."

GIRL'S DESCRIPTION

The girl is described by her mother as being 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing about 130 pounds, with gray eyes and brown bobbed hair. She is considered unusually attractive, her mother said.

The girl and her husband were living at the South Park Apartments, South Park avenue and Fifty-fourth street, at the time of her disappearance. Nothing was heard or seen of her, according to her mother and husband, until the letter was received yesterday.

The note was scrawled in pencil on a plain sheet of stationery in a plain envelope, and was mailed in Los Angeles Thursday.

Hard-Luck Tale Results in Test of Man's Sanity

Harry Thomas was smart enough to dupe luminaries of the film world with a hard-luck tale of a wife and unborn baby, but not wise enough to pass muster with the police, and yesterday was lodged in the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital for observation. He was arrested Wednesday at the Warner Brothers studio when he attempted to obtain money from Jack Warner, film producer, with a well-thumbed letter of appeal for money for his "destitute family." Previous to his arrest, police asserted, he had obtained various sums from film stars and producers by asking for a "loan" to tide over the period of an emergency.

Thomas was taken to the psychopathic ward on a complaint charging insanity sworn out by Detective Lieutenant Barrada, who investigated the case. According to the complaint, Thomas is suffering from mental disabilities which may have been due to a blow he received on the head when as a boy he fell off a barn.

MEAT ESSAY PRIZE ATTRACTS STUDENTS

SIXTY OF LOS ANGELES HIGH PUPILS WILL ENTER NATIONAL CONTEST

Sixty Los Angeles High School students of home economics are preparing to combine their knowledge of this subject and their literary ability in an effort to carry off a share of the $2500 in cash prizes offered in the Second National Meat Story Contest. The contest is now being put under way by the National Live-stock and Meat Board which has headquarters in Chicago.

Miss Lucy Woolery and Miss Dorothy Willard, home economics instructors have requested entry blanks for their students and will supervise the preparation of the stories on meat.

To compete a student must write a story or theme of 1000 to 2000 words on the subject of meat and submit with it three meat recipes. The board has placed the national championship prize at $300 and has apportioned the remainder of the $2500 into other attractive prizes, both National and State.

FURS AND JEWELRY STOLEN FROM HOME

For several nights, Mrs. E. M. Polakoff, 2854 Overland avenue, noticed a mysterious man following her home. She could not solve the mystery until yesterday when she discovered her home had been entered in her absence and also that furs and jewelry valued at $2000 were missing. She believes the burglar followed her to find a suitable opportunity to burglarize the home.

SIGN NEW STAR

WARNER BROTHERS ENGAGE PATSY RUTH MILLER

By Grace Kingsley

It looks as though Warner Brothers are out to cop all the good actors. Following hard on the announcement that they have engaged Gayna Whitman, Morosco leading man, comes word that they have signed that clever young actress, Patsy Ruth Miller, on a long-term contract.

Immediately upon completion of her present picture, "Lorraine of the Lions," in which she plays the title role at Universal, Miss Miller will come to the Warner studio and take the role of Rose Kirby, the character lead in "Rose of the World," Kathleen Norris's recent popular novel.

Harry Beaumont will direct the picture. The part was originally assigned to Marie Prevost, but it would have meant considerable doubling of time, as she is playing in Lubitsche's present production, "Kiss Me Again."

Patsy Ruth Miller has risen rapidly in screen work. She came to California with her parents on a vacation between terms in high school, and by chance had a small part given her. Soon Bennie Ziedman, now executive associate of Warners, chose her for the feminine lead of "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" She has not been idle since. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "The Girl I Loved" were among her past pictures, and three are yet to be released, viz., "Her Husband's Secret," a Frank Lloyd picture, "Head Winds," a Universal, and "Lorraine of the Lions."

With this contract, Miss Miller is now numbered with Irene Rich, Marie Prevost, Dorothy Devore, Louise Fazenda and June Marlowe as a Warner star.

Schulberg Forces Busy

Losing no time since his arrival home from New York, B. P. Schulberg has already put a picture into production at the F.B.O. studios. It is entitled "Open That Door," and will be his first Preferred Picture to be made this year. The story is by F. Oakley Crawford, and Frank O'Connor is directing.

Heading the cast will be Gladys Hulette and Owen Moore, while supporting roles are played by Mary Carr, Robert Edeson, George Fawcett, DeWitt Jennings, Ethel Wales, Francis McDonald and Lillian Leighton.

Laura Jean Libby in Films

Nothing, of course, could have stopped it, and now it is almost with relief we announce that the works of Laura Jean Libby, who died several months ago, are to reach the screen.

Contracts were signed yesterday by J. I. Schnitzer, vice-president of F.B.O, which give to that organization the right to produce and distribute all of the author's novels.

The first of the Libby stories to be made will be "When Love Grows Cold," which thrilled so many feminine hearts a decade or more ago. "The Abandoned Bride" and "Love's Temptations" are the stories with sure-fire box-office titles which will be filmed later on.

Ernest Torrence to New York

Ernest Torrence, Paramount featured player, left today for New York to start work in Allan Dwan's "Night Life in New York," which will go into production at the Paramount Long Island studio.

This marks the actor's first return to the eastern metropolis since he completed his role in "The Sideshow of Life," almost a year ago. He will remain in New York for two weeks and will then return to Hollywood to start work on another production at the Paramount West Coast studio.

Who Will Play Wanderer?

Who will play the role of the prodigal son in "The Wanderer," which Paramount is to produce, with Raoul Walsh directing? That is the important question around Hollywood these days. Tests are made every day for the part, which is one of the most important that Paramount has ever given the world.

Tony Moreno Writes

From Antonio Moreno comes word that it is the cathedrals of Europe which are occupying the attention of himself and his wife when Tony isn't working in "Mare Nostrum." Even the theaters are secondary.

Tony says that he and Mrs. Moreno succeeded in climbing to the topmost dome of the basilique de Sacre-Cour, and that they are now hoping to visit the Louvre and Notre Dame, but it isn't the Douglas Fairbanksing that is the principal thing. They are really lost in admiration for the beauties of architecture exhibited in these structures.

"A ban!" says Tony, concerning Paris's notorious Montmartre life. "It is not the night life which appeals—this is so flagrantly put on for sucker tourists that any sane person who becomes an habitue of the Montmartre should be robbed of his eye teeth."

Mackyn Arbuckle Here

That incorrigible humorist, Mackyn Arbuckle, is among us. Mr. Arbuckle, who is accompanied by his wife, will spend the spring-time with us, and may even be coaxed to remain over for the summer, as several stage and picture offers are tempting him.

But don't think that all Arbuckle's time is spent in making frivolous jokes. He did his bit toward the welding of friendship between church and stage just before leaving the East, when he made a very nice, serious speech at the laying of the corner-stone of a large Episcopal church being built in New York.

Although people of Java have cotton in nearly every piece of wearing material, there is only one cotton mill on the island, and that is at a prison.

Statue Replica Animated at the Egyptian

Judging by the thousands of photographs of it displayed, Cyrus Dallin's masterpiece, "The End of the Trail," symbolizing the pathetic passing of the redman, is one of the most popular statues in America today.

Sid Grauman virtually has brought the statue to life as one of the novel tableaux in his prologue to "The Iron Horse," John Ford's screen drama of the winning of the West, now at Grauman's Egyptian Theater.

A living Indian on a breathing white pony presents Dallin's great statue in prototype on the stage. Other brilliant tableaux offer the gorgeous colorations of the brushes of western painters, giving absorbing views of the life in the vast places of a fast-vanishing race.

The poses are made by real Shoshone and Arapahoe Indians, brought from the Wind River reservation in Northern Wyoming by Col. T. J. McCoy, noted Indian scout, for Grauman. The colonel says his wards needed little coaching for the tableaux, as dignity and graceful poise are innate characteristics of their race.

Sid's commission to McCoy called for the most superb Indians he could find, to represent truly the hostile warriors that attacked voyageurs on the Overland trail in the '40's, as thrillingly depicted in "The Iron Horse." Several of the braves tower over six feet in splendid physique.

In introducing his Indian friends on the stage, Col. McCoy gives the audience a fascinating description of the mannerisms of the race.

CECILA LOFTUS AT ORPHEUM NEXT WEEK

Jumping directly here from New York comes Cecilia "Cissie" Loftus, one of the world's greatest mimics to open at the Orpheum next Monday.

Miss Loftus has for a span of years been a successful depicter of other stage folk, she having an unusual gift for portraying on the boards the very soul of other players, while yet retaining her own personality through it all. She makes a deep personal study of everyone she portrays, going below the surface and reaching the real personage below. Miss Loftus heads a bill that also contains Sylvia Clark, Harry Burns and Company, the Powers Elephant troupe, returned by request, and a number of others, including the Lorraine sisters and their dancers.

'WHITE COLLARS' WINS PRAISE IN NEW YORK

New York has apparently accepted Frank Egan's production of the Edith Ellis comedy, "White Collars," at its face value. At least the dramatic critics of the eastern metropolis were almost with one accord loud in their praise of the piece and predicted a long and successful run at the Cort Theater.

In the meantime the original company at the Egan Theater continues to pile up records as well as dollars at the Egan Theater, where the fifty-ninth week begins Monday evening. It is a lively comedy, played in a sparkling fashion by a cast which includes Craig Ward, Dian Esmonde, Ross Forrester, Jacqueline Dyris, Betty Sinclair, Zellah Covington, Margaret Nugent, Carroll Nye and Gordon White.

CONSCIENCELESS MAN NEXT FORUM FEATURE

Willard Louis, Irene Rich and June Marlowe are the topnotchers in the cast enacting "The Man Without a Conscience," the attraction next week at the Forum Theater.

The story of "The Man Without a Conscience" is one of a man ruthlessly determined to win success and wealth, and prepared to overthrow his fiancee, ruin his friends and commit himself to a career of unscrupulousness to achieve his end.

James Flood is credited with the direction of the picture. Hope Loring and Louis Duryea Lighton wrote the continuity from the continental story by Max Kretzer.

MUSICAL

SAN CARLO OFFERS GIORDANO OPERA AS NOVELTY

By Edwin Schallert

The first break in the routine of repertoire during the San Carlo Opera Company's engagement took place last night. "Andrea Chenier," by Umberto Giordano, was presented, and though the work was heard here last fall during the performances under the auspices of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association, it still classes as a novelty, and as such is welcome indeed.

The production was not in all respects the best given during the two week's series at Philharmonic Auditorium, because it lacked something of positiveness and spirit at times. But the cast and the singing merited a high approval, while Chev. Fulgencio Guerrieri's conducting was significant proof of his skill in illuminating the meaning of unfamiliar music. The orchestra seemed to bring out clearly and effectually the themes of the accompaniment, and this was especially to be commended, because to many of the group assembled here in great part the score must have been a new adventure.

Tommasini just missed being a sensation in the tenor role, for he gave a brilliant rendition of the aria in the opening act. Only a note or so slightly off pitch at the close diminished his triumph, but the reaction of applause nevertheless amply evidenced the pleasure the audience derived from his singing of this very difficult and dramatic number.

Bianca Saroya's presence was particularly acceptable in the soprano role of Madeline. In the duet with Tommasini in the second act, as well as in solo passages, she demonstrated her very satisfactory vocal quality. Just at times her tones did not seem to ring forth with precision and certainty, but taken all in all she offered a very adequate and attractive interpretation of the heroine of the story of the French revolution.

On every occasion Mario Basiola seems to demonstrate the superior resonance and smoothness of his voice. He is also a very good actor, and the part of the revolutionist, Gerard, makes rather insistent demands on his talent.

There are more characters than usual on the stage in this particular work, and consequently Pietro de Biasi, Stella De Mette and one or two others had to double. Nearly everybody has something to do at some time or other in "Andrea Chenier" because it is an opera of action rather than of song.

Giordano's music presents some melodious moments, but a great deal of it is incidental to the play itself. The bursts of song are welcome, and the work as a whole is easy to listen to, if not highly emotional.

The stage effects generally were commendable. Some of the happenings were a little bit tedious, and there is necessity especially for improvement in the stage management. Allowances for any defects have to be made, of course, because "Andre Chenier" is new in the reperto're, and the San Carlo has exhibited so much ability in the instance of other operas in the building up and strengthening of their productions.

Mr. De Biasi and Miss De Mette among the supporting singers merit particular praise for their work. Natale Cervi and Francesco Curci were somewhat obtrusive in their acting, but this seemed to meet with popular response. Curci was inclined to overwork his part, though, as the spy.

Philine Falco appeared as the Countess Coigny. The Breon and Darrow ballet added a degree to the stage picture by their minuet and other dances. Basiola sang the role of Gerard in place of Mario Valle.

The company is closing its engagement, which has drawn very excellent attendance, with performances of "Mme. Butterfly" this afternoon and "Il Trovatore" tonight.

Pavlowa Ballet at Philharmonic Next Wednesday

Pavlowa's choregraphic virtuosity is said to be revealed from many new angles in her new Spanish creation, "Don Quixote," which she has chosen to inaugurate her engagement at Philharmonic Auditorium on Wednesday evening of next week.

The repertoire announced by the Russian dansease, however, appears so diversified as to leave little choice between them. Besides this, Pavlowa brings an immense quantity of new scenic effects and costumes, brilliantly colorful and picturesque, permitting of visual changes both fascinating and astonishing, brought about entirely without the lowering of the curtain or the movement of stage settings.

In the corps de ballet alone are some forty dancers, costumed differently for the fifteen ballets announced for presentation during her coming Los Angeles visit.

An orchestra of thirty and a roster of twenty of the world's foremost exponents of the Russian and Polish dance, afford some idea of the magnitude and importance of the Ballet Russe as a touring organization. A special train of five cars comprising three standard Pullmans and two seventy-foot steel baggage-cars is used by Pavlowa and her 100 members upon their present tour.

DIRECTORS PLAN TO CENSOR OWN FILMS

John Ford and Reginald Barker head a committee of the Motion-Picture Directors' Association to carry out the wishes of Will Hays, recently expressed at a reception at the directors' club in his honor, for the directors themselves to precensor their own productions, in the script wherever possible, to avoid deletion of expensive scenes later by State and municipal censorship boards of the country.

Edward Laemmle is also on the committee, the appointing of which was the first official act of William Beaudine, the new president of the association. Ford, Fox director, who rose to fame with "The Iron Horse" and was chosen by William Fox to direct "Lightnin'," is chairman of the committee which will co-operate with other active members of the association in following Will Hays's suggestions.

No matter what your plans which have been made for the coming week—cancel them if necessary or at least postpone them for you must see at once "The Iron Horse," at Grauman's Egyptian Theater, Hollywood, because it's such a splendid picture that one visit isn't enough; it bears seeing over and over and the oftener it's witnessed the greater your enjoyment. "The Iron Horse" is interesting and instructive, consequently it's just the picture for the children. John Ford directed it and it's a masterpiece. The prologue is thrilling—two engines are brought on the stage under their own steam—then two tribes of Indians—the Shoshone and Arapahoe, take part, being brought all the way from Wyoming. You'll see the original "bad" engine of the then-called Central Pacific Railroad, known as "The Collis P. Huntington," which played such an important part in the picture—but then all this you will know when you get there, it's not fair to spoil your surprise. Tickets, by the way, may be bought at Barker Brothers, and Wurlitzer's, 814 South Broadway. There are two performances, one at 2:15 in the afternoon, the other at 8:15 at night.

Buying furniture for the new home on a limited amount of money is very difficult and often puzzling. The best plan is to buy just the necessary pieces of furniture, but buy good pieces. Then more may be bought from time to time. If the house is small the same type of furniture could prevail throughout, so that changes could be made in placement when a new member arrives.

It isn't right to spend hours shopping and neglect to have a nourishing luncheon to strengthen you for the fray. What you should do is take an hour to rest and have luncheon at Herbert's Grill, on Hill between Seventh and Eighth. They are serving a delicious, well-balanced, complete luncheon for 45 cents, and what is more, everything given you is cooked to perfection and attractively served. There is first of all a choice given you of a soup or salad, next many entrees to choose from, after that a vegetable followed by dessert and whatever you wish to drink. The best part of Herbert's complete luncheon is that it tastes better than it sounds. Best go in today.

Pour a half-inch of olive oil on top of the brine in the half-finished bottle of olives and then cork tightly. The olives will last indefinitely and still retain their flavor.

An interesting investigation has brought to light some noteworthy information for the housewives of Los Angeles. Do you know that in the homes in which "Frozen Steam" is used chill food—there is no discontinuing of the use of this remarkable refrigerant? You see, the women who have tested "Frozen Steam" find that it is most economical in cost to begin with and that it lasts longer than common ice—So they keep their ice box chilled the whole time and never are annoyed by having spoiled meats or dairy products. "Frozen Steam" is an exclusive product of the Merchants' Ice & Cold Storage Co. Phone Trinity 1351 to give your order.

Don't deceive yourself and think the slightly musty egg will not be noticed if cooked. It will spoil any dish in which it is used. Put it in a cup and show it to your egg dealer. If you buy first-class eggs, your farmer will give you a good egg in place of the musty one.

In all weather, but dry weather particularly, the greatest care should be taken to drink and use for cooking the purest water obtainable. "Arrowhead tops the list when it comes time to make your selection. The beneficial properties haven't been taken from it by boiling—nothing has been done to Arrowhead—it's just as it was when taken from Nature's springs, far up in the San Bernardino Mountains, where no surface contamination can reach it. You'll grow to love the taste of it so well that other water seems flat and tasteless when compared. It's a fact—and proves clearly that a demijohn should always be kept close at hand for every member of the family to draw from. Would you believe that the cost is but 50 cents for five gallons delivered to your home, too, with a cooler and stand free? And when ordering it would be an excellent idea to have a case of California Extra Dry Gingerale sent along. This is one of the newer Arrowhead beverages which has become extremely popular.

When you want some particular unusual delicacy to serve at a dinner party or luncheon, do you go to the grocery department of the May Company? If you do not, it is because of one reason only—and that is that you didn't know of the existence of this thoroughly up-to-the-moment department which is being visited more frequently, daily, by the discriminating women of Los Angeles.

One can't be too lavish in the expression of praise for the attractiveness, first of all of the grocery section—a Store Within a Store—It's so sunny and cheery! Why, just to see the artistic display of good things to eat makes you desirous of buying everything in sight.

Unusual pride is taken by the May Company in their grocery department and surely for that reason it is acknowledged the best in the country.

This month ordinarily is considered most trying, because of one's paucity of Lenten dishes, yet a few suggestions gained by a visit to the fourth floor yesterday banished the idea that abstaining from meat was difficult. From their complete line of imported and domestic canned goods you'll be delighted to be able to buy St. Ivel Anchovy and Salmon Creme, Cross and Blackwell's canned Shad Roe, perfectly delicious and something new; Royal Chinook Salmon the choice center cut, is another thing which cannot be obtained anywhere but at the May Company.

Devonshire "Clotted" Cream—a rare treat you may have longed for since tasting it in "dear old England" may now be had in all its perfection—also Ridgeway's Invalid Tea, a splendid blend of China tea from which the tannin has been taken was a valuable discovery . . . and so one could continue reiterating the unusual viands which this grocery department carries for our convenience. As their deliveries are numerous and punctual, telephoned orders may be given with every assurance of receiving personal attention, though you will thoroughly enjoy personally visiting the fourth floor once you have made its acquaintance.

All fruits and vegetables will keep better if laid separately on the shelf. Then the overripe will not contaminate the others nor will one article spoil many more.

You couldn't select any wall covering which is more beautiful when put on than "Sanitas," the stunning effects it is now made in make it simply ideal for every room in the house and because it's the acknowledged smart thing to use, the designs are growing lovelier each month. Think how ideal to be able to clean it by merely applying a damp cloth—visualize the joy of having a wall crackproof and consider the economy because "Sanitas" lasts for years! The brocaded effects in colors are too lovely for words. Don't redecorate until you have seen "Sanitas, will you? John Lucas & Co., 950 South Main sell it.

Perhaps pansies look prettier in a flat dish with their little faces floating upward on the water than in any other way.

What could be nicer on a day like this, for instance, than a simple, though delicious dinner composed of Ravioli or Tagliarini or Spaghetti just as you wish, covered with a marvelous tomato and mushroom sauce over which is sprinkled a generous amount of grated Parmesan Cheese, all of which has been cooked while you waited at Mora's Specialties, 315 South Spring, who are originators of these delicacies prepared in a special way. Take your pan or use one of theirs. Get some tonight and the dinner will be a huge success. No work, no time spent in making it, only appreciation from every member of the family.

Chamois leather gloves should be washed in lukewarm suds and rinsed in slightly soapy water or they will dry stiff and hard.

Haven't visited Chinatown yet—or done any shopping in F. Sule One's—what a lot you've missed, for the finest of imported silks, and other too-numerous-to-mention articles are to be found in this store at 510 N. Los Angeles street.

Little men and little women do not differ from those who are "all growed up" when it comes to a fondness for candy. The craving for chocolates is not surprising, for we actually require a certain amount of sugar—our systems demand it. So when your small son and daughter voice their desire for sweets give them Arizona Chocolates. They will love them; love the thick chocolate, the rich cream filling, and what is more they will be benefited by their feasting. Kahn Beck make these popular confections—right here in Los Angeles so when you get them from the near-by dealer you may be certain they are fresh.

When buying materials for chair covers or curtains, more will be required if the design is one of large set figures, on account of having to match the figures. If you wish to economize in material, buy either plain or small-figured material.

Make Thursday "Chicken a la King" day in your home. On this day Travaglini's Roma Rotisserie, 1801 West Seventh, serve it as a special. This arrangement simplifies your menu wonderfully. A roast chicken hot from the open grill all ready to serve will be nice on Sunday, too—why not call now and give your order? 52092 is the number.

"Maxwell House Coffee forever" —sounds like a national anthem and in a way it is for it expresses the sentiments of delighted users all over the country who, having drunk this unusually satisfying, satisfactory, uniform coffee want no other kind. Have you given it a trial? Better start soon.

Your dream's come true! A home of your very own made possible by "Woody"—otherwise known as the Woodhead Lumber Co., 914 S. Main. MALIBU RANCH LAND VALUED AT $1,600,000

William H. Akin, Los Angeles real estate operator, yesterday placed a value of $1,600,000 on the 182 acres of land the county is seeking to condemn for a highway right-of-way through the Malibu Ranch, north of Santa Monica. Akin's valuation was given in connection with his examination as a witness in the trial of the condemnation suit before Judge Frederick C. Valentine. The second month of the trial came to a close yesterday afternoon.

INDORSE MYERS AND STEPHENS

Nonpartisans Also Approve School Body Members

Chairman Says Bledsoe Letter Will be Impressive

City Attorney's and Auditor's Records Praised

The candidacies of City Attorney Stephens and City Auditor John S. Myers for City Attorney and Controller, respectively, were indorsed yesterday by the Nonpartisan Association of Los Angeles, in session at the Chamber of Commerce Building, and it was also unanimously voted to indorse any and all present members of the Board of Education, with the expressed hope that all members of the board will be willing to become candidates.

Chairman H. W. Keller said that having nominated Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe for Mayor, and candidates for City Attorney, Controller and Board of Education, there would probably be no necessity for other meetings of the association until after the primaries, as the campaign work will be handled by the board of directors and the campaign committee selected by the board. He said that the association will work closely with George B. Bush, chairman of the Bledsoe-for-Mayor campaign committee and he called upon all members of the organization to work for the candidates indorsed by the association.

HELLER'S COMMENT

Of Judge Bledsoe's forthcoming letter of acceptance, Chairman Keller said:

"You will be impressed with the force of this document. It will inspire faith and confidence in the people of Los Angeles that in Judge Bledsoe we shall find a Mayor of whom we can be proud at the head of our city government."

The nominating committee, of which S. C. Graham was chairman, recommended that the association not indorse any Councilmanic candidates at the primaries, but expressed the hope that the men and women of the fifteen districts will secure the best possible candidates. This action of the committee was approved by the association.

In recommending the nomination of City Attorney Stephens the committee pointed out his six years' successful, efficient administration of the City Attorney's office and the strong indorsement of him recently made public which was signed by 1100 well-known lawyers of Los Angeles.

Of City Auditor Myers, candidate for the new office of Controller, the committee report said that he had held the office of City Auditor for more than ten years, had taken no part in politics, had at no time been subject to attack, and was thoroughly familiar with city finances and accounting. Councilman W. C. Mushet, the committee report said, was precluded from indorsement by the association by "the part he has taken in the fight against the Municipal Power Bureau" and that this fact, regardless of his standing as a man or his experience as an auditor, made it "impossible" for the association, in view of the organization's municipal ownership platform, to indorse Councilman Mushet for Controller.

EDUCATION BOARD

The motion was then made by H. W. Frank and seconded by S. C. Graham that the association indorse any and all present members of the Board of Education, hoping that all of them will be willing again to permit their names to be presented to the voters for election to the board. The members of the present board are Robert A. Odell, president; John B. Beman, Robert L. Burns, Elizabeth Louise Clark, Frederick R. Feitshans, Lucia Macbeth and Arthur S. Bent.

The members of the committee on nominations were S. C. Graham, chairman; William Lacy; Mrs. Christopher Gordon, Paul G. Hoffman, Edward E. Lampton, Henry S. McKee, Eugene Overton, H. W. Frank and William M. Garland.

The Bledsoe-for-Mayor campaign headquarters at 425 South Spring street was humming with activity yesterday as the rooms were being fitted up for the housewarming next Monday evening. Judge Bledsoe yesterday consented to make an address on this occasion, and there will be other speakers and plenty of music. The headquarters includes a room which has been fitted up as an auditorium with seats for 400 people. Campaign Manager George B. Bush yesterday invited the public to attend Monday night's meeting and to meet Judge Bledsoe. The meeting will be the formal opening of the campaign, which promises to be a memorable one in Los Angeles municipal affairs.

CANDIDATES FILE

Candidates who since last Monday morning have been taking out nominating petitions for circulation in order to obtain places on the May 5 ballot yesterday began filing their filled petitions with City Clerk Dominguez. The first candidate to file his filled petition was Evan Lewis, candidate for the City Council from the Eighth Councilmanic District in the southwestern part of the city. The second Councilmanic candidate to file was Edward J. Kelly, and the third was William Vinson McCoy, both of whom are candidates from the Third Councilmanic District. Candidates have until 5 p.m. on March 26 to file their filled petitions.

The total number of candidates who had taken out petitions up to 5 p.m. yesterday was 129, divided as follows: Mayor, 6; Board of Education, 2; Controller, 2; City Attorney, 1, and City Council, 118.

A new Mayoralty candidate who took out his petition yesterday was R. L. Knapp of 111 North Kenmore avenue. He was similarly a candidate for Mayor at the primaries two years ago, and received 742 votes.

The only Mayoralty candidates who filed a filled petition yesterday was Miles S. Gregory.

New Councilmanic candidates yesterday included the following: Second Councilmanic District, Victor M. Clark, 5136 Marathon street; Third Councilmanic District, Arthur O. Parker, 220 South Arden Boulevard; Fifth Councilmanic District, Erle C. Beitzer, 2626 South Mariposa avenue; Eleventh Councilmanic District, J. Fred Ryan, 942 South Broadway.

Police Commissioner Says Tailor Refused to Return Them

Police Commissioner Thomas Foss has lost his pants and wants them back.

So, yesterday he signed a complaint against M. Jacobs, owner of a small tailor shop at 506½ West First street, and had the tailor in Police Judge Pope's court on a charge of embezzling the pants.

The tailor denied embezzling the pants. He had no need for them, he said, because he couldn't fill them. His trial was set for next Tuesday. Commissioner Foss maintains that he left his pants there for a cleaning, but never got them back.

Says She Got Husband to Support, Not Home to Care for When She Married

What Gladys Hulette, film actress, wanted when she married William Parke, Jr., was a home to care for.

What she got was a husband to support, she told Judge Gates yesterday at the hearing to her suit for divorce.

"I never got a bit of support from him," she testified.

"Why didn't you?" her attorney, Arthur C. Fisher, asked.

"He never had a job," she replied.

And then she even lost the privilege of supporting him, Miss Hulette said.

"He left me over my protests," she testified.

Her brother corroborated her story. Judge Gates gave her a decree.

DOG POISONER HUNTED

Canine Owners Lose Pets; See New Epidemic Outbreak in Wilshire

Another epidemic of dog poisoning has broken out in the Wilshire district, according to a report filed with the police yesterday.

Mrs. O. V. Bean of 1135 South Magnolia avenue reported to the Wilshire police that some one had poisoned her dog, and a neighbor had had a police dog poisoned at about the same time. Numerous other complaints of dog poisoning are being investigated. It is believed by the police that some one with a hatred for all canines who has previously spread poisoning for dogs in the Wilshire district, is again at work.

WIDE HUNT STARTED FOR MISSING WOMAN

California police yesterday began a search for Helen Marie Eager, 27 years of age, who disappeared in San Francisco after driving there in her automobile from this city. Her husband, Henry Eager, living at the Irving Hotel at 235 South Fremont avenue, told police that his wife and a woman friend left the city in his car on February 3, last. They registered at a San Francisco hotel, he said, but his wife, after remaining in the hotel for a few days, vanished. She had but a small sum of money with her at the time, he said. Their 15-months-old daughter, Maxine Marie, is ill, Eager told police.

STUDY LINCOLN AND BASIC LAW

Oratory Contest Pupils Told of Stand for Union

Story of Martyred President Termed "American Epic"

Watterson Lecture Quoted on Slavery Issue

Lincoln and the Constitution form the subject of the seventh lesson of Prof. Shurter's series prepared for the guidance of pupils studying the Constitution under the impetus of the National Oratorical Contest.

The lesson stresses the point that the Great Emancipator's principal contribution to the establishment of the fundamental law was his unceasing defense of the most important principle of that document—the maintenance of the Union. The lesson follows:

Brand Whitlock, in his work on Abraham Lincoln, calls the story of this remarkable man "The Epic of America." Mr. Whitlock says: "The story of Lincoln, perfect in its unities, appealing to the imagination like some old tragedy, has been told over and over, and will be told over and over again. The log cabin where he was born, the ax he swung in the backwoods, the long sweep to which he bent on the flatboat in the river, the pine knot at midnight—these are the rough symbols of the forces by which he made his own slow way. Surveyor and legislator, country lawyer riding the circuit, politician on the stump and in Congress, the unwearied rival of Douglas, finally, as the lucky choice of a new party, the President—the story is wholly typical of these States in that early epoch when the like was possible to any boy. But the story does not end here. He is in the White House at last, but in an hour when realized ambitions turn to ashes, the nation is divided, a crisis confronts the land and menaces the old cause of liberty. We see him become the wise leader of that old cause, the sad, gentle captain of a mighty war, the liberator of a whole race, creator of a nation; and then, in the very hour of triumph—the tragedy for which destiny plainly marked him. Rightly told, the story is the epic of America."

WATTERSON'S LECTURE

As the setting for our particular theme we can do no better than to quote the following two paragraphs from Henry Watterson's famous lecture on Lincoln:

"Long before the guns of Beauregard opened fire upon Fort Sumter and, fulfilling the program of extremism, 'blood was sprinkled in the faces of the people,' the hustings in America had become a battle ground and every rood of debatable territory a ring for controversial mills, always tumultuous and sometimes sanguinary. No sooner had the camp fires of the Revolution died out than there began to burn, at first fitfully, then to blaze alarmingly in every direction, a succession of forest fires, baffling the energies and resources of the good and brave men who sought to put them out. Mr. Webster, at once a learned jurist and a prose poet, might thunder expositions of the written law to quiet the fears of the slave-owners and to lull the waves of agitation. Mr Clay, by his resistless eloquence and overmastering personality, might compromise first one and then another of the irreconcilable conditions that threw themselves across the pathway of conservative statesmanship. To no purpose, except to delay the fatal hour.

"Amid the noise and confusion, the clashing of intellects like sabers bright, and the booming of the big oratorical guns of the North and the South, now definitely arrayed, there came one day into the northern camp one of the oddest figures imaginable; the figure of a man who, in spite of an appearance somewhat at outs with Hogarth's line of beauty, wore a serious aspect, if not an air of command, and, pausing to utter a single sentence that might be heard above the din, passed on and for a moment disappeared. The sentence was pregnant with meaning. The man bore a commission from God on High! He said: 'A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half free and half slave. I do not expect the Union to be dissolved; I do not expect the house to fall; but I do expect it will cease to be divided.' He was Abraham Lincoln."

SAVIOR OF UNION

While the subject of our study has perhaps been most frequently called "Lincoln, the Emancipator," we cannot forget his other proper title as "Lincoln, the Savior of the Union." As previously remarked, the questions of slavery and of the preservation of the Union of the States were so inextricably interwoven that no true historian would emphasize the one over the other. Lincoln's first concern was, when elevated to the Presidency, to save the Union. It is quite true that he was an antislavery man. While in New Orleans some time prior to the Civil War, upon witnessing the auction of slaves he is reported to have said: "By the grace of God I'll make the ground of this country too hot for the feet of slaves." But his method of abolishing this institution was far too moderate and slow to suit the more extreme abolitionists. In his first inaugural he made it plain that he had no intention of interfering with slavery where it then existed.

In a letter to Horace Greeley, as editor of the New York Tribune, he said: "My paramount object is to save the Union and not either to save or destroy slavery." His Emancipation Proclamation was issued simply as a war measure. In connection with the Hampton Roads Conference he is reported to have said: "Gentlemen, if you will let me write 'Union' at the top of this paper, you can write underneath whatever you choose." His whole thought and consuming passion for the Union is set forth in his famous Gettysburg address, which has long since taken its place as an American classic.

SUNDAY SERVICE

At 7:30 Gladys De Witt gave the next of her delightful chats on "The Romance of the Santa Fe Trail" through the courtesy of the Santa Fe Railway.

At this time we wish to tell you that the hour for the service to be conducted by Rabbi Mayer Winkler of Sinai congregation on Sunday, the 8th inst., at 7:30 p.m. has been set ahead to 5:45 of that day.

It is with particular pleasure that we announce another special program for Sunday evening, the 8th inst., a program which will be conducted throughout the coming year. It will be sponsored by the International Bible Students' Association, and will come on the air at 7:30 p.m. until 8:15. Radio has manifold responsibilities and in this modern era with our love of exotic modern literature and music it behooves us to turn once in a while to that supreme book embodying all drama and all poetry, the Bible. It is the purpose of the International Bible Students' Association to give a short talk each Sunday evening on the Bible —the Orpheus Four will sing hymns and sacred music and some well-known artist will render numbers appropriate to the occasion. An especial point of this program is the answering of any question regarding anything in the Bible which you do not understand. If you will send in your questions to KHJ, in care of the above organization you will receive a prompt reply.

Hearing is Held on Improvement of Bus Service

Secret hearings designed to bring about an improvement in the bus service of the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Railway Company were started yesterday by the State Railroad Commission.

Commissioners Brundige, Shore, Seavey and Squires conferred the greater part of the day behind closed doors with D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, and George Kuhrts, general manager of the Los Angeles Railway.

At the conclusion of the conference it was stated that the only subject discussed was that for improving the bus service given by the railways and that another conference will take place on the same subject at San Francisco on the 18th inst. City Attorney Stephens, it was stated, will attend that meeting to lay before the commission the city's side of the case.

CHAMBER TO PROTEST SUMP-HOLE BURNING

At a meeting scheduled for Monday night, members of the board of directors of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce are expected to pass a resolution opposing the issuance of permits for the burning of sump holes in the La Brea oil fields district. The resolution, which will be offered to the board for its approval, has been prepared as a result of the sump-hole fire in that section several days ago which brought hundreds of complaints from residents to the Hollywood chamber, police and the County Board of Supervisors.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

THE PREVENTION OF TOXEMIAS OF PREGNANCY

MORNING SICKNESS

The so-called morning sickness during pregnancy—the vomiting in the morning which begins the end of the first month and ends in the third or fourth month—is present in about 50 per cent of the cases. When it is so violent that the patient rapidly loses weight and becomes acutely ill, it is known as pernicious vomiting of pregnancy.

A large percent of morning sickness is due to incorrect and overabundant diet caused by the popular idea of eating for two.

In some cases there are displacements of the uterus and when these are corrected, there is a relief. Other cases are of the neurotic or hysterical origin, and rest and quiet and suggestion and auto-suggestion will relieve these.

SALIVATION

In some cases during early pregnancy there is an increased secretion of saliva which may become very annoying. Kosmack, in his book on "Toxemias of Pregnancy," says that he has usually found in these conditions that the teeth needed attention and that the gums were inflamed.

Salivation may also be due to nervous or reflex action. If there is a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat, that may cause both the increased saliva and the vomiting. In these cases the teeth should be attended to and the catarrhal condition should be treated.

ECLAMPSIA

This is a very serious condition which may appear in the latter part of pregnancy. The word "eclampsia" is derived from the Greek, meaning "flash." It used to be thought that the convulsions of this state appeared without any warning. But that is not true. There are warnings and if they are heeded there is no need of having this serious illness.

The following facts have given us important data concerning Eclampsia: (1.) Obstetricians of Germany reported that during the war, when food was not so plentiful and there was considerably less fat and protein to be had, there was a great lessening of the cases of eclampsia. (2.) Overweight, fullblooded women are more frequently affected with eclampsia than thin and less well-nourished women. (3.) There is less eclampsia in the summer when less meat and more fruit and vegetables are eaten, than in the winter, and there is less eclampsia in the South than in the North, for the same reason. These cases I have enumerated show that there is a direct relationship between eclampsia and diet. It seems from these data that overeating can cause the poisoning which affects the system so curiously.

All during pregnancy you should be under the care of your family physician, and if it is the first baby you should be under the care of a specialist, if possible. If you have severe headaches or swelling of the feet and ankles or trouble with your eyes—that is, spots before them, or temporary blindness or dizziness—you should see your physician. Meanwhile go on a fruit juice or skimmed milk diet—not over 500 calories during the day—for a day or two.

We have an article on Diet during Pregnancy which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

(Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.)

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

FILM VILLAIN REWINS WIFE

David "Red" Kirby Turns Melodrama Into Light Comedy; Divorce Suit Dismissed

(Illustration on Picture Page)

The real life drama in which David "Red" Kirby, screen heavy, featured Thursday afternoon as the asserted kidnaper of his wife, Mrs. Hallie Kirby, developed into a light comedy in the court of Superior Judge Gates yesterday afternoon when the two principals, arm in arm and wreathed in smiles, calmly announced to the court that "there was nothing to it."

The single vein of melodrama in the affair was furnished by Isidore Morris, Mrs. Kirby's attorney, who found himself in court with a client who wasn't a client.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirby caused a sensation Thursday afternoon at Melrose and La Brea avenues, according to Mrs. Kirby's daughter Cecilia. Mrs. Kirby, through Attorney Morris, had previously filed suit for divorce from Kirby, charging cruelty. He had later been cited to show cause why he shouldn't be held in contempt for failure to pay alimony pending settlement of the divorce action. The order to show cause was scheduled for hearing Thursday.

While on her way to court, Mrs. Kirby was driven into the curbing at Melrose and La Brea by another car containing her husband. Then, according to the daughter, Mrs. Kirby was kidnaped. Police of the entire Southwest had been enlisted in the search for the couple and were scouring the countryside for them when they walked into the Sheriff's office and confronted Deputies King Collins and Jack King.

"It's all the bunk," announced Mr. and Mrs. Kirby in chorus.

Before Judge Gates, Mrs. Kirby denied that she was held forcibly against her will. The case, apparently, was a dead issue.

Attorney Morris rose to his feet. "I suppose," he said, "this is a rather poor time to say so, but the matter of my—er—h—fee—"

"Yes," agreed Judge Gates, "you seem to be the goat. Case is dismissed."

Handler Given Divorce, Balm Suit Settled

Louis J. Evans, cafe man, won the love of Mrs. Ivy Handler, her husband, Irving Handler yesterday told Judge Summerfield, who granted him a divorce.

Handler had filed a $50,000 suit against Evans for alienation of Mrs. Handler's affections, but this matter has been settled out of court and the suit will be dismissed, Attorney Arthur C. Verge, counsel for Handler said.

Although Mrs. Handler had filed an answer denying the charges, she was not in court, being represented by Attorney Walter T. Casey. No defense was offered.

In his heart balm complaint Handler related that Mrs. Handler had gone to work for Evans while her husband was sick, and had become infatuated with her employer. Evans, he said, showered her with gifts.

"She told me she loved him dearly and that she had tried to keep the affair secret from me because her lover was married and she did not want to cause him any trouble," Handler testified.

OFFICERS IN PARLEY TO STUDY LAWS

Repeal of Death Penalty, Syndicalism Act, Other Measures Disapproved

Bills proposing the repeal of the criminal syndicalism law and the death penalty for murder were disapproved yesterday at a meeting of the Southern California Peace Officers' Association in the grand jury room. Capt. Home of the Detective Bureau presided, and Chief Heath, Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Fitts spoke briefly.

Other bills disapproved included a proposal to restrict use of search warrants, a proposal to penalize an officer making a Wright Act search without a warrant, and a proposal to prevent the taking of statements from prisoners by peace officers. Bills approved included Constitutional Amendments 18 and 19, providing twelve-year terms for judges and eight-year terms for county officers, including sheriffs, and a bill to permit officers to carry clubs or billies.

Representatives of nearly every Sheriff's staff and police department south of the Tehachapi were present.

WAR CHIEF HITS DAY LABOR

Gen. Marshall Says Practice Builds Up Political Prestige, Stifles Initiative, Wastes Money

The tendency among State and Federal bureaus of different kinds to employ day labor for performance of government work instead of having it done under contract is wasteful of public funds, a stimulus to bureaucracy and a check on private initiative, according to Gen. R. C. Marshall of Washington, the man who had charge of all government construction during the war.

Gen. Marshall, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday, retired from the Army five years ago and is now acting as adviser to a number of organizations representing the building interests of the country. He is here to confer with leaders of the construction industry on the Pacific Coast on the subject of the adoption of a uniform type of building contract throughout the country. This is a project which the Department of Commerce took the initiative and which is now being worked out by the national Budget Bureau with the co-operation of the leading building interests.

"The adoption of a standard form of construction contract to supersede the forty or more different forms now in use will go far to eliminate confusion and waste in the building industry," said Gen. Marshall. "A form for the use of the government is now being prepared and is nearing completion. An effort will be made to have this form adopted generally by building contractors throughout the country.

"Aside from doing away with the confusion existing as the result of the multiplicity of forms now in use, the adoption of the new form will tend to lessen the day-labor system. In the absence of a single definite contract form whose principles will apply in all cases, it has been easy for heads of different bureaus charged with carrying out government construction to direct the work themselves, employing workmen by the day. This system furnishes political prestige and glorifies their jobs. But it plays havoc with private initiative and greatly increases costs."

Gen. Marshall spoke briefly of his work during the war, stating that he had charge of the building of all the cantonments as well as all the giant supply depots. "The total amount invested in the construction of which I had supervision during the war aggregated something like $1,250,000,000," he said.

Veronica Water has proved unusually satisfactory for children and women whose systems rebel against strong cathartics. Veronica is a pure mineral water without the disagreeable taste of the bitter waters of Europe or the strong, gagging effect of some of the concentrated and fortified waters of this country. This natural, unfortified mineral spring water does not gripe nor is it weakening, no matter how thorough the purging.

Physicians prescribe Veronica where permanent relief is desired in cases of constipation, liver, stomach and bladder troubles. Veronica creates no habit. Doses decrease rather than increase. Try Veronica. Give it to the children. It is perfectly harmless, like all pure water, and it keeps their intestinal tract clean and free from poison-spreading accumulated food waste.

Veronica is sold by all Drug Stores.

TURK PLANS OF PROGRESS TOLD

A. K. Jennings Cites Nation's Struggle to Rebuild

Clubs Formed for Training of Country's Youths

Near East Worker Was Active in Smyrna Relief

Two pictures—one a colorful, dramatic portrayal of the sufferings of 250,000 refugees from fire-stricken Smyrna and other war-torn districts of the Near East and the second a glimpse of the opportunities for service now awaiting Americans in Turkey and elsewhere—are brought to Los Angeles this week by A. K. Jennings, known through his achievements as the "Admiral of the Refugee Fleet" and now a guest at the Clark Hotel.

It was Mr. Jennings, a member of the international committee for the exchange of prisoners of the Graeco-Turkish war and foreign secretary for the International committee of the Young Men's Christian Association who prevailed upon the Greek and Turkish governments to allow him the use of some fifty vessels, following the sacking of Smyrna by Turkish troops in the fall of 1922. It was Mr. Jennings who in six days following the burning of the city was enabled to take more than 250,000 Christians to places of refuge on the Aegean Islands and whose efforts were largely responsible for their being fed and cared for in their new environment.

"THE NEW TURKEY"

He is now in this country in an effort to gain recognition and friendship for what he chacterizes as "the new Turkey," in that nation's effort to rebuild and remodel its national spirit upon western ideals.

"To understand the situation, one must first realize the fact that there is a new Turkey," he said last night. "A Turkish republic exists for the first time in history. The present government has revolutionized conditions in the Mohammedan world. It has adopted a new constitution, granting equal rights and privileges—political, civil and religious—to all citizens; decreed separation of the church and state; eliminated the ministries of Religion and Pious Foundations; expelled the Caliph and all members of the Royal family; completely secularized existing schools, private and governmental; in a word, established a new social and political order. In addition to this there is a drifting away from Moslem practices and religion, the rapid rise of the feminist movement, and the growing consciousness of latent power in the Turkish youth.

"In their sincere efforts to set up a new and better form of government, based on the models of democracy, the Turkish leaders realized the importance of emphasizing moral restraint and physical training in the education of youth. The Minister of Education, Vasif Bey, and various Americans, of whom I was one, have formulated a basis of agreement for the organization of Turkish-American clubs, formed after the fashion of the American associations, to promote the physical, esthetic, intellectual and social development of the youth of Turkey."

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

"For their organization and control the plan provides for a central administrative committee composed of three Turks and three Americans, under the chairmanship of the Minister of Education; the program to include physical education, organized recreation, language classes, commercial and vocational courses, music, lectures, forums and social activities.

"The Turkish leaders believe it highly important to open clubs at once in six centers, with the understanding that Turks and Americans come together meet the expense of maintenance; the initial expense to be secured by the Americans. This proposal opens the door for service such as has not been possible before.

"The Turkey of today appreciates her needs and is endeavoring to meet them. She would welcome the help America can give toward overcoming her handicaps. They are seeking those who will interpret into the language and spirit of the new Turkey the secrets of America's real greatness.

INDORSERS OF PLAN

"Among those who have recommended and indorsed the plan are the Overseas Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A.; Dr. D. Davis, director of American Y.M.C.A. work in Europe; Dr. John Dewey and Prof. Edward Mead Earle of Columbua University; Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation; Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, president emeritus of the Constantinople Women's College; Dr. Edward Caldwell Moore of Harvard University, and various diplomatic, educative, commercial and industrial leaders in this country and the Near East who have an interest in and knowledge of the problems confronting the various countries and peoples there."

Mr. Jennings is accompanied to this city by his wife, who, during the trying days of the Graeco-Turkish War remained in Smyrna until the day of its burning, and who, with other Americans resident in Smyrna was rushed to Athens by a destroyer of the American Navy engaged in rescue work. They plan a return to the Near East in the near future, it was said.

WHITE MULE LANDS FILM HERO IN JAIL

Rockliff Fellows Found Snoring in Car; Promises Judge to Swear Off

Rockliff Fellows, handsome screen hero, was found peacefully snoring early yesterday morning in his luxurious car, which he had halted squarely in the center of the street at First and Los Angeles.

ROCKLIFFE FELLOWS

Patrolman Bruttig approached the machine and prodded the snoring actor. A voluble snore was his only response. By dint of much shaking and prodding the officer finally succeeded in awaking the actor, whom he escorted to the City Jail on a drunkenness charge.

There, several hours later, the actor was arraigned before Police Judge Richardson. To the court Fellows pledged that he would never again mix potent white mule with gasoline and escaped with a thirty-day suspended jail sentence.

Two other men also learned during the early morning hours that the entirely modern adage against mixing gas and bootleg liquor means something.

Newton J. Boaz of 4323 Hower street apparently was going somewhere, but ended up in an alfalfa field. Patrolmen Swartz and Wood found him snoring with great gusto in the machine and removed him to the City Jail on a charge of intoxication.

W. E. Davies of 420 West Palm Drive, Glendale, didn't fall asleep, but drove his car on the wrong side of San Fernando Road, according to Patrolman Seagraves. The officer investigated the contents of the car and found therein, he said, a quantity of wine. Consequently Davies was booked for possession and transportation of liquor.

VETERANS TO DINE

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will serve a dinner, followed by a program and entertainment this evening at 6:30 o'clock in Independent Order of Foresters' Hall, 955 South Olive street. The Fort MacArthur band will play.

RAIN CLOUD HAS SILVER LINING

Traffic Policemen's Arm Ferry Patronized by Fair Sex

A traffic officer at Sixteenth and Figueroa streets last night went Sir Walter Raleigh one better.

Instead of putting his cloak down for the present-day queens to cross over the gutters, made into tiny rivers by the heavy rain, he picked them up in his arms and carried them across.

Both the officer and, it is said, the queens appeared to enjoy the novel ferry system.

FINDLAY PLEADS SCIENCE IDEALS

Noted Chemist Warns Against Pecuniary Attitude

Real Claim Cultural, He Tells Chemical Society

Cites Post-War Encouragement Offered in England

The great danger of the present day in heralding the great achievements of science in the creation of pecuniary gain and material prosperity rests in the destruction of values by raising the lower above the higher, the material above the spiritual and the loss of scientific idealism, Dr. Alexander Findlay of the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, told the Southern California section of the American Chemical Society last night at its monthly meeting in the Mary Louise cafe, 2200 West Seventh street.

Dr. Findlay, who is one of the foremost physical chemists in Great Britain, is now a visiting professor of physical chemistry at Leland Stanford University. He will return north this afternoon. Dr. Findlay, who came to the university in January for a term of three quarters, will return to Scotland in August.

REAL CLAIM CULTURAL

"The real claim of science to fuller appreciation by the community," Dr. Findlay said, "is the cultural, the spiritual and the moral importance of science. It is for the idealistic aim and not only for the materialistic purpose of science that we must endeavor to win appreciation."

In commenting upon the ground which science generally makes is appeal, its utilitarianism, Dr. Findlay said that a general response would be aroused "only in so far as it is interpreted to the community in terms which the people can cash together meet the expense of maintenance; the initial expense to be secured by the Americans. This proposal opens the door for service such as has not been possible before.

"The Turkey of today appreciates her needs and is endeavoring to meet them. She would welcome the help America can give toward overcoming her handicaps. They are seeking those who will interpret into the language and spirit of the new Turkey the secrets of America's real greatness.

MORS IN FRENZY ON STAND

Accuses McCoy, Attorneys and Witnesses in Suit Without Rival in Court Annals Here

Albert A. Mors ran himself through the gamut of all human emotions yesterday in Superior Judge Crail's court. He was the star witness for the prosecution in the trial of Kid McCoy on the charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon based upon McCoy's running battle with the Mors shop on West Seventh street on the morning following the murder of Mrs. Teresa Mors.

Mors's appearance on the witness stand brought forth the most turbulent scene ever witnessed in a local courtroom. For many hours he plunged into continuous frenzies, hurling accusation after accusation at Kid McCoy, his attorneys and his witnesses. Repeatedly he engaged in hot-headed altercations with Attorney Shreve. He called McCoy every synonym for murderer and scoundrel to be found in the thesaurus.

The witness began his vociferous exhibition during the morning hours when he thumbed through the leaves of the Bible for a biblical accusation against the man who has been convicted of killing his wife.

Mors read from the sixth chapter of Proverbs.

SCORES ATTORNEY

Mors glanced at Attorney George Shreve, McCoy's attorney, then he stormed again:

"You are sitting there with a smirk on your face! Is it your custom to smirk at the Bible?"

Mors's outbreaks brought forth titters, exclamations, laughters and applause from the packed courtroom. Before him sat a big picture of ice water and, dramatically and with wide sweeps of his drinking arm, he frequently punctuated his retorts with mighty gulps of the fluid.

During the afternoon session, as Mors sat crouched on the witness stand with flushed face and sweating bald pate, Attorney Shreve tacked onto the end of a minor question:

"Was this before or after you killed your wife?"

HURLS LIE CHARGE

Mors clutched at the arms of the witness chair and half rose to his feet.

"You liar! I wont let you misquote me! I won't let you insult me! You're not big enough! You lie, you scoundrel, you filthy beast! I won't stand for your insults, you dog, you! I've got two good fists and ill land them right on your nose in a minute!"

The witness was asked if he lived with Mrs. Mors as a husband up to a certain time. Again he went on a rampage. He refused to answer the question, declaring it was an indecent question.

"I refuse to be apostrophized by you!" he shouted.

He was asked about the time when, according to earlier testimony, he was engaged in a quarrel with Mrs. Mors and when she clawed him with her fingernails.

"What did you say to her at that time?" he was asked.

Mors gulped his water again, slammed down the glass, almost breaking it, and pounded his fist on the witness chair.

"I won't tell you! I won't! I'd hate to tell you what I'd do of you!" he replied.

REPEATED RECESS

During his testimony Mors asked for repeated three-minute recesses. After each recess he would rise and take another drink, then mop the perspiration from his face and bald head.

The name of V. C. Kinsley, merely business adviser for Mors, was injected into the case.

"He threatened me!" Mors declared. "He holds some of my jewelry, illegitimately under a patent bill of sale!"

Some mention was made of a remark by Mors concerning the application of the whipping post to home breakers. Mors went into a lengthy lecture on the whipping post, winding up his speech with:

"If the whipping post were in vogue when this man's home was invaded by my home, my wife would have been murdered, and the scoundrel would have been given the whipping post," he said, "instead of being slugging people all over."

COURT SMILES

No objections were voiced to Mors's conduct by the court or by the prosecuting attorneys, who sat all the while pouring over huge masses of papers. The only objections came from McCoy's attorneys, but they only squirmed in their seats and refrained from going on to louder words and more heated accusations. Meanwhile Judge Crail sat quietly on the bench and smiled, the jurors chuckled and spectators laughed.

To another question Mors replied, dered, then clapped his hand to his shook his finger at Attorney Shreve:

"I've got you! I've got you, George Shreve!" he exclaimed. "I'll prove this man did the murder. I'll do it. I'll do it."

ANGRY AT NEWSPAPERS

Mors then turned his wrath upon newspapers and newspapermen. The defense laboriously brought his testimony up to the day of the discovery of the murder. He "hopped all over" newspapers for calling him an Italian and a German.

The witness was asked why he did not go to the police or the district Attorney's office on the night the murder, when he learned the news of his wife's death.

"When a man's wife is murdered he's not able to go to the police department," was his reply.

Again Mors went on a wild rampage, but he was finally quieted by the court at adjournment. Mors sat for a few moments on the stand. The Kid still sat at the counsel table. The jurors began filing out as McCoy began to shake his forehead, a habit he has displayed throughout his trial.

"Look, Your Honor!" Shreve shouted. "He's doing that on purpose!"

tempted to escape. Bailiffs grappled with him, and the chair crashed to the floor. When he regained his feet again it was Mr. Bowne already upon him. Mr. Bowne's right fist landed squarely on the latter's solar plexis. The force of the blow propelled Lopez down to the floor. He escaped from the hands of Mr. Bowne telephoned to the Hollywood police station.

Officers Stetchler and Pinkerton responded and on entering the home of the locality of Mr. Bowne's residence found the suspect near the corner of Second street and Hudson Drive panting heavily and breathing his stomach.

He was taken into custody and identified by Mr. Bowne as the man he had fought with in front of his home. He later made a complete confession, according to officers, after they found in the possession, they said, a watch and ring belonging to Mr. Bowne.

RADIO CASE DEFENDANT IN HOSPITAL

Man Charged With Using Illegal Broadcast Wave Length Faints in Court

George W. Fellows, residing at the Fremont Arms Hotel, was sent to the County Hospital yesterday for treatment after he fell in a faint at the beginning of a hearing before United States Commissioner Turney. Fellows is charged with violating the law regulating radio broadcasting by using wave lengths of more than 300 meters in the operation of a broadcasting station he has maintained at his home. The hearing was continued until the 14th inst.

In accordance with an agreement entered into between counsel for Fellows and J. George Ohannesian, assistant United States attorney, the case will be dropped if the defendant agrees to dismantle his broadcasting station.

The case is the first one of the kind to be filed in the local Federal court. In December, 1924, Fellows applied to the government radio authorities to be assigned a call to broadcast. He was told he must take an examination, but is said to have declined to do so on the theory that a permit to maintain a radio station in the East entitled him to broadcasting privileges after he moved to Los Angeles.

According to Attorney Ohannesian, the defendant insisted on using the 300-meter wave lengths de-

BEAUTY DOCTOR TO BE HELD

Arrest is Decided on as Chemist Reports Finding Poison in Mrs. Gilchrist's Brain

Announcement that he intended to arrest Mme. E. Lynne Pinker, proprietor of a beauty shop at 1825 Morgan Place in which Mrs. Earl Gilchrist died Wednesday, was made last night by Detective Lieutenant Stevens of the homicide squad. His announcement followed a partial report by County Chemist Walker, to the effect that he had found phenol or carbolic acid in Mrs. Gilchrist's brain.

Chemist Walker will make quantitative tests today for both phenol and morphine, to determine whether either drug was present in sufficient quantities to cause death.

Mrs. Gilchrist, head of a Pasadena realty firm founded by her husband, who died four years ago, was undergoing a face-peeling operation at the time she succumbed. Mme. Lynne admitted yesterday to reporters that the lotion she applied to Mrs. Gilchrist's face, neck and arms contained carbolic acid, but declared it was not strong enough to do harm. She had used the same lotion many times, she declared, without untoward results.

"There positively was not enough carbolic acid in it to cause death," she said, "and it will be proved that her death, which I understand, was due to some other cause."

Dr. W. Leroy Fulton, who administered one-fourth grain of morphine to Mrs. Gilchrist in order to ease the pain of the following operation, predicted that it would be found that Mrs. Gilchrist had died from an overdose of carbolic acid, to which she may have been unusually sensitive.

An autopsy by County Physician Wagner showed that she died of heart disease.

It was expected yesterday that if the County Chemist's report today shows that any drug caused Mrs. Gilchrist's death, the subject matter will be laid before the grand jury.

ONLY ONE SCIENCE

Dr. Findlay also emphasized that there was no such thing as two sciences, pure science and applied science, as is frequently stated by the so-called practical man of the street.

"We know, of course, that there are not two sciences, but only one science," he stated. "There is the science pure and unqualified, aspiring only to the truth and knowledge and there are the applications of science. There can be no application of
